ASSAIL SECRET DIPLOMACY OF U.S. AND BRITAIN

Congress, Dewey, London Protest.

Secret diplomacy was condemned on both sides of the Atlantic yesterday. In Washington, D. C., Secretary of State Hull's policies were assailed by a group of congressmen and in New York Gov. Dewey also voiced vehement protests against state department secrecy. In London, the Weekly Economist warned against far reaching secret commitments arrived at by one man, "however eminent," referring to Prime Minister Churchill. The Washington story follows; the two others appear on page 8.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Secretary of State Hull disclosed to members of congress today that he took to the Moscow conference last fall a definite proposal for the post-war treatment of defeated Germany under which it would remain a undismembered nation, but that formal discussion of the plan was ruled out of order by the allied conferees.

Cordell Hull.

This was reported by members of a group of 24 freshman Republican congressmen who met with Hull for 2½ hours today in an effort to get more specific information about this country's vaguely defined foreign policy. The congressmen protested to Hull that his disclosure of the German plan and other foreign matters should be made public to clear the people's confusion and uncertainty about our aims.

Similar to Jap Program.

The members declined to be quoted by name on Hull's discussion of the German question. They quoted him as saying, however, that he took to the Moscow meeting a plan as specific for post-war Germany as the Roosevelt-Churchill-Chiang Kai-shek declaration was for Japan. The latter declaration, made at Cairo, pledged that Japan be stripped of all imperialistic gains of the last half century and forced back to her homeland.

Members said Hull told them that altho his German proposal was ruled out of discussion at Moscow, he showed it informally to British Foreign Secretary Eden and Maxim Litvinoff, soviet vice commissar of foreign affairs, and that they received it favorably. Eden said it was all right in some respects, and Litvinoff termed it "pretty good," Hull told the representatives.

The secretary, members said, told them he had heard nothing since on the proposal from either Eden or Litvinoff.

Extermination Proposed.

The congressmen said Hull discussed his proposals at today's conference only in general terms. Substantially, they reported, it apparently calls for the extermination of Hitler and other Nazi party leaders, but for the retention of Germany as a nation, rather than its dismemberment. Whether the proposal included suggested boundaries was not disclosed.

Hull was quoted as saying Russia's recent recognition of the Badoglio regime in Italy resulted partly from soviet displeasure at the failure of Britain and the United States to keep Russia adequately informed on their foreign policy views. Hull admitted, according to those at the conference, that the English speaking allies had been negligent on this point and that the result was unfortunate.

Members present said the secretary described the Polish border dispute as a "microscopic" matter at the moment, and that he said this

Japs Used U.S. Plan to Blitz Pearl Harbor

Washington, D. C., March 24 [Special].—A disclosure that Japan got its plan for the "sneak blitz" on Pearl Harbor indirectly thru a United States navy unit was confirmed tonight by Adm. Harry E. Yarnell, who is attached to the office of naval operations.

Informed of a magazine article which says the plan for the Pearl Harbor attack, which precipitated America's entry into the war, was devised by the United States naval planning board and then adopted for its own purposes by the Japanese high command, Adm. Yarnell said the story was substantially accurate. The admiral commanded one of the forces which participated in a maneuver which was copied by the Japanese.

In the current Reader's Digest, Edwin Muller relates that in January, 1932, a big American battle force gathered in the Pacific to test Pearl Harbor's defenses. One section of it was to attack, while the other, plus a division of troops, 100 planes, and coast artillery, was to defend the base.

Aircraft Carriers Featured.

Under Yarnell, the attacking fleet revolutionized naval strategy by leaving behind all battleships and cruisers and using only two aircraft carriers, the Saratoga and the Lexington, and four destroyers.

When 24 hours off Oahu the attacking task force met heavy weather, making it more probable that the shore defenders, on the lookout for a great invasion fleet, would not spot the small flotilla. By the evening of Feb. 6, a Saturday, Adm. Yarnell's force was in position to reach Oahu by dawn. The officer surmised that if he attacked early on a Sunday morning the defenders would be a little less alert than usual.

Planes Sneak in for Raid.

Thirty minutes before dawn on Feb. 7, when the carriers were about 60 miles off Oahu, they launched 152 planes, about the same number the Japanese employed nearly 10 years later.

Adm. Yarnell's planes were undetected until they darted out of the clouds into clear weather over Pearl Harbor. Defending planes on the ground were theoretically destroyed by simulated machinegun fire and all the hypothetical vessels in the harbor were "sunk."

The navy now knows, Muller asserts, that Japanese observers watched the maneuver from every vantage point and full details of it were sent to Tokio. Japan realized, he says, that it had been given a workable plan for putting the greater part of the American fleet out of commission.

Tragedy Turned to a Benefit.

In almost exact duplicate, Muller states, the Japanese carried out the plan on Dec. 7, 1941, with devastating results.

But, he adds, the tragedy of Pearl Harbor has been used to America's advantage. Of necessity, the aircraft carriers, none of which was at Pearl Harbor at the time of the Jap attack, replaced the battleship as our capital ship. The carrier task force became America's chief naval weapon and since has been used with greater skill by us than by the Japanese.

Honolulu a Jap Spy Center.

Asked tonight if Tokio copied his plan, Adm. Yarnell said: "The Japs will copy anything worth copying. The maneuver was reported in the Honolulu papers and the Japs knew all about it. Honolulu was the center of a Japanese spy system."

He parried a query as to why the navy did not have an effective defense to ward off what it knew was an effective offense against the Hawaiian citadel by saying: "I would not want to comment on that. It will all be explained in time."

The admiral said Muller, whom Reader's Digest officials identified as one of their "roving editors," obtained the story of the Pearl Harbor maneuver from officers of the Lexington and Saratoga.

OTHERS TO GET DELAY PENDING PLANT REVIEWS

Map a New System for Deferments.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Draft boards were ordered tonight to speed men from 18 to 26 years of age into the army and navy and to postpone temporarily selection of older men for military service.

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director, took this action in telegraphed instructions to local boards which outlined the following steps:

1. Order pre-induction physical examinations for all men under 26 who are deferred in 2-A [essential civilian activities] or in 2-B [war industries], unless they have been so examined within the last 90 days.

2. Make available for induction, regardless of existing deferments, all men under 26 who are now deferred in industry or agriculture or who still remain in 3-A [the old dependency group], deferring only those who are physically, mentally or morally unfit, those who have hardship grounds and those who are indispensable to war production. This is to be done before boards proceed with the review and reclassification of men 26 to 38.

Endorsed Deferments Authorized.

3. Recognize special deferment requests for key workers under 26 engaged in war activities if the requests are endorsed by an authorized representative of the army, navy, maritime commission, war production board, office of defense transportation, war food administration, war shipping administration, or the rubber director and approved by state draft directors.

4. Reclassify into 2-A or 2-B as occupationally deferred any men under 26 who are unfit for military service or fit only for limited service. This may be done at the local board's discretion and is intended to retain 4-Fs and others with minor physical ailments in war plants. The selective service system, however, has no authority to force any worker to remain on a war job or take a war job if found unfit for military service.

No Effect on Reclassified 1-A's.

The new order will have no effect on men 26 and over already reclassified as 1-A and now available for induction.

Hershey's order implemented President Roosevelt's recommendation of Feb. 26 to tighten all occupational deferments, particularly of the younger men. It also reinforced an earlier draft board instruction virtually abolishing occupational deferments for men under 26.

The provision authorizing war agency representatives to endorse

Flak, a Hero's Dog, to Have Indiana Home

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 3.)

A U. S. HEAVY BOMBARDMENT BASE IN ENGLAND, March 24.—By the personal order of Gen. Arnold, chief of the United States army air forces, Flak, the pet cocker spaniel of Sgt. Robert K. Bell, who was killed in a crash after a raid on Germany, soon will be flying to Bell's parents at Denver, Ind.

Flak had been adopted by Mrs. Ellen Fletcher, who manages the restaurant patronized by Bell's flying mates. Mrs. Fletcher and her husband love the spaniel. But, said Mrs. Fletcher, "if Sgt. Bell's parents want Flak, why, they shall have him. Only I hope some one will let me know if Flak arrives safely."

Blew Up in Landing.

Mrs. Fletcher and Bell's buddies, Staff Sgt. Robert Green of Lowell, Mass., first engineer, and Staff Sgt. Robert Parsons of Kahoka, Mo., nose gunner, told me the story of Bell and Flak today.

On Dec. 1, while raiding Solingen, Germany, Bell's Liberator was shot up. Green and Parsons had been wounded that day, but they heard the plane coming home by way of the radio. The Liberator never made it. While firing her distress flares the B-24 blew up in a crash landing at another field. There were no survivors.

The last time Bell saw Flak was when his crew had Thanksgiving dinner at Mrs. Fletcher's restaurant. That was the time they gave her a picture of all of them sitting on top of their big Liberator.

Hide Tears With Difficulty.

Green and Parsons talked today about Bell and about Flak. And, in the manner of combat airmen, they talked of Bell as if he still were here. Then they talked some more about Bell. Maybe it was because I had just wakened them from their post-operations sleep but I noticed Green had trouble keeping the moisture from his eyes.

They said Bell's sister, Miss Marietta Bell, 21, a cadet nurse at Michael Reese hospital in Chicago, had written asking if it were possible to send Flak to the sergeant's parents. Gren and Parsons had replied that they couldn't see how this could be managed.

But a letter from Miss Bell to Gen. Arnold did the trick.

MOTHER MADE HAPPY.

"I'm so happy," Mrs. Jesse Bell said last night when told that she soon will receive the dog prized by her son Robert. "We live on a 21 acre farm, so the dog will have lots of space to play."

The Bell family, before moving to Denver, Ind., lived in near-by Peru, where Robert and Marietta attended high school. The father is a conductor on the Nickel Plate railroad, on which he has been an employe for 43 years. He is eligible for retirement. The farm was his boyhood home.

HUMPHREY WINS BY TOE HOLD IN TILT WITH DEVIL

Humphrey Travis, 24, Negro, was having a very pleasant dream early yesterday in his second floor bedroom at 1737 Dodge av., Evanston, when a party he recognized immediately as the devil intruded.

Travis, knowing no man can wrestle with the devil and come off best, began to retreat. Step by step he backed away. Step by step Satan came on, leering maliciously and swishing his forked tail.

Travis gave a final desperate backward jump and awoke to find himself hanging head down from his bedroom window. He had crashed thru the glass and was suspended by his toes, which had caught the window crosspiece. His sister, Mrs. Pauline Shelton, aroused by his cries, hauled him to safety. Physicians at the Community hospital dressed his numerous cuts.

Woman Gets Extra Gas to Flee Wrathful Mate

Fort Worth, Tex., March 24 (AP).—A wrathful husband is definitely a hardship, the county rationing board decided. A woman who had filed suit for divorce received a special gasoline allowance on her plea that she must escape her husband's ire. Her attorney's advice: "Go fast and far."

Boost Liquor by the Drink Prices April 1

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP)—The public will pay from 1 to 4 cents more beginning April 1 for liquor sold by the drink, the office of price administration said today in authorizing bars, hotels, and restaurants to add the increased federal excise tax to present maximum prices.

Prices of straight and mixed drinks, beer, and wines are affected by the ruling.

Boost Liquor 2-4 Cents.

The OPA set up the following schedule to cover the new levy raising the alcohol beverage tax base from $6 to $9 a proof gallon:

For distilled spirits of 80 proof or more, the additional tax will be 2 cents for drinks containing not less than ½ ounce and not more than 1 ounce; 3 cents for 1 to 1¾ ounces, and 4 cents for 1¾ ounces or more.

Drinks containing 1 ounce or more of distilled spirits of less than 80 proof will cost 2 cents more, while drinks of 2½ ounces or more or still wines containing more than 14 per cent, but not over 21 per cent of alcohol will be increased in cost by one cent.

3 Cents on Sparkling Wines.

The added tax on 3 ounces or more of champagne, sparkling wine, carbonated wines, or wine-based cordials will be three cents.

Drinks of beer, ale, porter, and stout will cost an extra cent for 8 ounces or more. There will be no increase for these beverages sold on draught in quantities of less than 8 ounces.

LONDON, March 25 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russia's 1st Ukrainian army has broken thru to the Dniester river within five miles of the old Rumanian province of Bukovina and 60 miles from Czecho-Slovakia, Moscow announced last night.

In a 62 mile flanking smash, the Russian forces were said to have killed 20,000 Germans and captured 3,500.

The four day drive unleashed by Marshal Zhukov south of by-passed Tarnopol engulfed 400 towns and villages and reached the Dniester near a big Rumanian rail hub controling lines into Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary, and southern Rumania.

Stalin Reports Advance.

Premier Marshal Stalin announced the break-thru to the Dniester and also the capture of a rail junction 40 miles south of Tarnopol and another rail station 17 miles east of there.

The war bulletin later announced that soviet troops striking northwest of besieged Tarnopol had crossed the Sereth river and cut the railway to Lwow at a point only 60 miles from that big axis communications city in southern Poland.

That stroke snapped the principal German feeder route into Tarnopol and further opened the way for a three way drive on Lwow.

Thirty villages were captured when the Russians swept around Tarnopol on the northwest.

Seize Citadel in South.

The Russians also broke into the outskirts of Proskurov, 62 miles east of Tarnopol on the trunk railway to Odessa.

Voznesensk, German Bug river stronghold 80 miles north of Odessa in southern Russia, also fell to Russian troops, said Moscow.

In their drive to outflank Odessa, the Russians said they had broken into the outskirts of Balti, an important rail junction 130 miles northwest of the Black sea port. Besides reaching Balti in a 35 mile advance, these forces seized towns 20 miles to the east, eight miles to the northwest, and eight miles to the northeast.

East of the Bessarabian front, the Russians were closing in on the other key Black sea base of Nikolaev. [A British broadcast said the Russians were unofficially reported to have broken into the outskirts of Nikolaev.]

Berlin broadcasts again said the Russians were attacking at Kowel, 100 miles north of Lwow, but Moscow was silent on that sector.

DEATH OLD STORY IN PACIFIC; BUT A GIRL'S LETTER—

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH A PATROL ON MANUS ISLAND, Admiralty Islands, March 24.—A squad of cavalrymen was plodding up a steep slope toward a ridge where Jap pillboxes were hidden. The Japs had backtracked along this trail and were still sharpshooting from the jungle.

The patrol met another coming down. It was short a man. Some one asked:

"Where is Jack?"

"He got it."

"Dead?"

"Not yet."

Nothing further was said.

A third patrol returned with one cavalryman nervously exhibiting his shirt. A bullet had entered the left pocket, but went out the right, just scratching the trooper's chest. From one pocket he took out a letter. It had a hole in the middle.

"Look what that dirty Jap did to my girl's letter," he said. "I had to kill him."

Yanks Ask Leave; Bible Backs 'Em Up

U. S. AIR BASE IN SARDINIA, March 17 [Delayed] (AP).—Two captains and a major in the air forces had been overseas some 18 months. The major was Warren G. Bradford of Shreveport, La., and the captains were William J. Sullivan of Effingham, Ill., and Lawrence J. Valade of Boston, Mass.

All three were married but not one had been married even half a year before leaving his wife—Sullivan four months, Bradford a month, and Valade only four hours. Sullivan has a daughter he has never seen.

Get Brush-off.

These three, all attached to a Marauder [medium bomber] outfit here, considered that the time had come for at least a short home leave. So they went before the high authorities and stated their case.

But the higher authorities merely advised them to go see their chaplain, a semi-subtle system of saying "no soap."

The chaplain was Capt. Conrad Baldwin of Clarkton, N. C., who was somewhat weary of having soldiers sent to him simply for solace. So he decided to do something about the officers' cases.

Turns to Bible.

It seemed to him that he remembered something in the Bible which touched on such matters. Eventually he came upon it.

So now the higher authorities have been presented with applications, each citing as authority the 24th chapter and 5th verse of Deuteronomy, which reads:

"When a man hath taken a new wife he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; but he shall be free at home one year and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

CHAPLIN DEALT 2 SETBACKS AT MANN ACT TRIAL

Girl's Letters Tell of 'Tortured Love.'

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—Charlie Chaplin suffered two stiff blows to his defense today at his trial on charges of violating the Mann act.

Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor ruled out all references to previous romances of Joan Berry, Chaplin's ex-protegee whom, the government alleges, the 54 old former comedian transported to New York and back for immoral purposes. The ruling came when Defense Atty. Jerry Giesler tried to delve into the unwed mother's past.

The second jolt was another judicial decision which withheld from the jury all except several lines of a letter Giesler sought to read—and these few lines were not admissible as evidence. The letter and another one were the first exhibits in Chaplin's denial of the federal charges.

Chaplin Appears Carefree.

But if the silver haired defendant was made downhearted by the rulings, or considered them setbacks to his case, he gave no outward indication. On the contrary, he appeared unusually carefree as he emerged from the federal courthouse after what many considered his least victorious day of his trial.

He walked out alone, one hand in a pocket, the other carrying by the tip of its long stem a violently pink carnation an old lady had given him when he autographed the card she pressed into his hand. He strode along briskly, gally, with almost a dancing step, twirling the carnation with the casual flickering motions he once made famous with a cane.

"Old—But He's Chaplin."

The usual day's-end outpouring piling on the buses before the courthouse looked after him indifferently. "That's him!" one ragged curbstone lounger said to his companion. "Naw!" the other snorted incredulously, "that little guy in the gray suit?" "Yeah." "But he's old," protestingly. "S'all right. He's Chaplin, boy."

Back in the courtroom the crowds that usually trailed him were concentrating on the auburn-haired girl who earlier in the day had burst into tears after a jury heard the humble, self-effacing letters she had written a year and a half ago to the little man now strolling away with the pink carnation.

Letters Follow N. Y. Trip.

Both letters were written and mailed in Tulsa, Okla., one on Nov. 18, 1942, the other four days later, both almost immediately after the trips to and from New York in October, on which the federal charges are based.

Miss Berry herself had candidly told the jury that on Nov. 6 Chaplin said he never wanted to see her again. She had also told the jury that on or about Dec. 12, and later on Dec. 23, she had had illicit relations with him.

The first occurred, she said, after she had run into him at dinner at a Hollywood restaurant. She had been there with another man, Chaplin with King Vidor, the director, and "another young lady." She chatted with him and later went to his home, explaining, "We always seemed to be able to tell whether we wanted to see each other."

Questioning Blocked.

Then, adroitly, Giesler took her back to Tulsa. He tried to intimate to the jury that she had gone there to force a discarded lover to give her some money, but Judge O'Connor banned this line of questioning.

"Well, then, Miss Berry," Giesler began in a humble, Uriah Heep manner, as tho he hated even to bring the subject up and didn't think she would answer him. "Do you remember writing letters to Mr. Chaplin from Tulsa?"

"O, yes," she replied. "Yes, I do."

"Well, I'll show you a letter. Is that in your handwriting?"

She looked at it briefly and said it was.

Prosecutor Protests.

United States Atty. Charles H. Carr asked to see it. He read it slowly and deliberately and leaped to his feet.

"I object," he began. "It is im-material and does not prove or disprove any issue in this case."

Judge O'Connor then took it, swiveled his face away from the courtroom, and gave it a much slower, more deliberate reading.

Miss Berry, wearing three shades of violet today, began to look troubled. Chaplin, who had been staring fiercely at her, went back to finger tapping.

"Eliminate the first page," the judge finally ordered Giesler, "and the first six lines of the second. The letter then may be read to the jury."

'Fatal Plunge' Planned.

The letter was dated Nov. 22, 1942. The excerpt permitted by the judge said:

"Charles:

"You'd not only forgive me for writing you, but you'd almost feel sorry if I was stuck in this town.

"I'm leaving tomorrow on the 12:15 plane and will probably stay with mother over Thanksgiving. Then the 'fatal plunge.' He wants to get married Saturday. By the way, I've had a lot of explaining to do as to the reason I'm in Tulsa and not in New York. Luckily the 'best girl friend and I must see her' still works.

"Guess this is all you can endure if you've read it at all.

"May I write you again? I shall anyway.

"Always yours, Joan."

Her Love a 'Torture.'

The next letter, written four days before this one, prompted a similar deliberate reading by the judge, who permitted it to be read in its entirety:

"Charles:

"I am so sorry for the unbalanced and undisciplined way I have acted—sorry because it's caused you annoyance and embarrassment. I can't ask you to forgive me because I know what I've done is past forgiving.

"In this whole stupid mess there are only two things that remained perfect. I never doubted for one second that I was to be Bridget. That knowledge compensated for the pain I felt when I knew that I was never really close to you.

"I thought loving you and knowing that you never wanted, or would never allow me to become a part of your life, was torture, but now that I know I am not to be Bridget 'my cup is full.'

"I must admit, tho, that after the way I've acted, it's the only thing you could do.

"It Was Wonderful."

"Thank you for buying the play; thank you for giving up your time to teach me. It was wonderful to have almost been Bridget.

[Bridget was the role Chaplin had promised Miss Berry in the picture he never made, "Shadow and Substance." The leading role, it portrayed a shy, spiritual country girl. Two weeks after Chaplin met Miss Berry he put her under contract to his studio and began to tutor her for the role.]

"And thank you, Charles, for letting me know you—you, the greatest genius and artist living. You never really [underlined] knew of the countless sleepless nights and millions of unsent letters. You'd laugh at them, but they were pretty real to me.

"I know you're not interested in my plans, but I'd like to tell you anyway. I'm going back to N. Y. and get married. [There really is a boy who wants to marry me.]

"Last Three Years a Dream."

"I'm going back to N. Y. just as I left it. No clothes, no car, no money. Perhaps it's for the best. This way it seems as if the last three years have been a dream, and I'm happy and content in that dream.

"I hope that 'Landreau' is as great a success as all your other pictures and I hope you personally will find continued happiness. Forget all those mean things I've done if you can and remember instead that stupid girl who ruined the greatest chance the motion pictures has ever offered.

"Always yours, Joan."

As Giesler read it to the jury in a slow, even voice, Miss Berry buried her face in her hands and sat motionless. Chaplin turned his gaze away from her. He looked down and began a nervous tapping of a black-and-white shoe. Finally, wincing, he shielded half his face with one hand and looked alternately vexed and in pain.

Joan Begins to Cry.

As the final sad, poignant words were read, Miss Berry leaned back in the witness chair in semi-collapse. Tears flooded her cheeks. She turned desperately, in wordless supplication, toward the judge. He looked at the clock. The time was 11:50 a. m., 10 minutes before the ordinary noon recess.

"The court will recess until 2 p. m.," the judge said abruptly.

Anything after that was anti-climax, but when Miss Berry took the stand again in the afternoon, escorted to the door by a protective wedge of FBI men, she seemed composed and assured. Incidentally, she was wearing a plain circlet, reminiscent of a wedding ring, on her right hand.

To the obvious surprise of the prosecution, Giesler arose, made a polite little bow to the bench, and said he had concluded his cross-examination.

Prosecutor Carr, on redirect examination, went to work to straighten out the gun episode of Dec. 23, 1942. On cross-examination Giesler had left the impression that Miss Berry held the gun in her hand for three hours, part of which time she and Chaplin were in his bedroom.

"When you were in the bedroom," he asked, "where was the gun?"

"Sometimes it was in my hand," she replied, "but most of the time on the table beside me."

"How long were you in the bedroom?"

"About two hours."

"When you went into the next bedroom to sleep, did you take the gun with you?"

"I did."

Gun Given to Chaplin.

She said she gave Chaplin the gun the next day after she had told him her hotel bill was due and he had consented to pay it.

"Anything else?" Carr asked.

"I said, 'Charles, what about putting me back under contract?' And he said, 'Joan, I am going to try to rehabilitate you. I am going to give you $25 a week.'

"I said, 'but Charles, I can't live on that!' And he said, 'You're too extravagant. You've got fascist ideas. You've been seeing too much of these. . . .' Here her voice trailed into abrupt silence.

"Did you get the $25 a week?"

"I went back Dec. 30 to get it," she said. "That was a week later. He said, 'You're not supposed to get the money until tomorrow.'"

"And did you get it the following day?"

On Verge of Tears.

"I did not."

Her face drawn and troubled, apparently on the verge of tears, she took a long sip of water.

On re-cross examination, Giesler asked only one question.

"In May, 1943," he said, "did you ask Mr. Chaplin for any money?"

"No," she said quietly, "I did not."

Fully half of the afternoon was taken up by arguments of the attorneys, all done sotto voce huddled over the bench. During these the judge ruled out all reference to Miss Berry's past.

Carr then quickly, and with seeming cheer, began to build up the foundation of his case against Chaplin. A travel bureau man and three railroad officials identified the Chaplin studio check for the trip Miss Berry and her mother took to New York and identified stubs and diagrams showing the space she occupied both from here to New York and from New York here.

Tells of Hotel Visit.

Frederick James Cannon, night elevator operator at the Waldorf-Astoria towers in New York took the stand to recall one night in October, 1942, when he took Chaplin, Tim Durant, and a young lady with hair "that was really beautiful, a kind of auburn color, and a long bob," to a floor above the 30th.

Miss Berry was recalled and the man asked if she was the young lady he had spoken of.

"The young lady resembled her very much," he hesitated. "Yes," he said, finally, "I'm sure she's the one."

Asked if he had overheard any conversation, he said he heard Chaplin say "honey."

"Just saying 'honey,'" he said. "That's all."

On cross-examination Giesler inquired, "Did they get off?" To which the elevator man responded: "Oh, naturally, sir!"

There was a burst of chuckles from the audience, and the bailiff rapped for silence.

Loud Speaker Fails to Work.

When the morning session opened, the press and jury noticed with pleasure that Judge O'Connor had ordered a public address system set up so that Miss Berry's low voice, often submerged to a near-whisper, would be amplified sufficiently that the most remote juror and the press, neither more than 10 feet away, could hear.

Unfortunately, the system did not work, and the only smart man of the day turned out to be the reporter who had sallied forth and bought a hearing aid. With an earphone clasped to his head and batteries buzzing in his vest pocket, he smiled and scribbled down words that only he could hear.

The jury of seven women and five men is not being locked up, but goes home at night. This permits the women to indulge in extraordinary changes of raiment, all of which dulled into a mere blur when Miss Berry reappeared on the stand in a violet triad, amethyst sport coat over dark fuchsia blouse and deep purple skirt, which caught and held all the courtroom as effectively as her low, sweet voice.

Back to Contract Days.

Defense Atty. Giesler began the day by taking the girl mentally back to December, 1941, when she had been under contract to the Chaplin studio for six months at $75 a week.

Q.—You received a bonus then, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—$1,000? A.—Yes.

Q.—All the employes received a bonus? A.—Yes, that's right.

Q.—Now, when you left here for New York, your mother accompanied you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Mr. Chaplin was not on that train, was he? A.—No.

Q.—You were at the Stork club the night of Oct. 1? A.—That's right.

Can't Recall His Name.

Q.—Whom were you dancing with? A.—A gentleman I met there.

Q.—Who was it please? A. [smilingly]—I don't remember the gentleman's name.

Q.—How many were in your party? A.—Six.

Q.—You don't recall the names of the others? A.—Yes [quickly]. I do.

Q.—You did not leave the Stork club with Mr. Chaplin? A.—I did not.

Trip to Hotel Retold.

She admitted that Chaplin introduced her to a writer there, and reaffirmed her story that after a trip to El Morocco, another night club, Chaplin asked her to go to his hotel to discuss some matter.

Q.—Didn't you suggest you would like to go up and talk over something with him? A.—I did not.

Giesler here began to probe into the act of intimacy she testified took place at Chaplin's suite on that occasion. She was visibly embarrassed as he proceeded and her voice dropped to a whisper, but Giesler, inexorably went on:

"Did Mr. Chaplin undress completely?"

She stared at Giesler a moment, bit her lips, and said he had.

Q.—And then redress completely? A.—Yes.

Sees Him Next Day.

Q.—You did not see Mr. Chaplin again until after you returned to California? A.—I did.

Q.—That's right. The next day. For how long? A.—Twenty minutes or so.

Q.—No act of sexual intercourse at that time? A.—No.

Q.—Did you travel alone back to Los Angeles? A.—Yes.

Q.—You did not travel with Mr. Chaplin? A.—No.

Q.—He did not ask you to come back on the train with him? A.—No.

Q.—You remained here until Nov. 13? A.—That's correct.

Q.—Where did you see Mr. Chaplin next? A.—He picked me up outside my hotel. We had dinner at Romanoff's.

Giesler then got her to admit that Nov. 13 she went to Tulsa, Okla., and returned to Los Angeles around Nov. 27, going back to the Beverly Hills hotel.

Goes to His House at 1 a. m.

She next saw Chaplin around Dec. 12 or 13. She was uncertain of the exact day. She said she came to his house around 1 a. m. and went around to the sun porch where he admitted her.

Q.—Had you asked to see him? A.—I did not.

Q.—You hadn't asked him at all? A.—I saw him earlier at the Player's [a restaurant].

Q.—Whom were you with?

Miss Berry declined to say.

Q.—Had you seen Mr. Chaplin before. A. [calmly]—Mr. Chaplin told me he never wanted to see me again.

Q.—When was that? A.—In November.

Q.—The night you had dinner at Romanoff's? A.—Yes.

Details Gun Episode.

Giesler then had her tell in greater detail of the night she stormed her way into Chaplin's home with a gun.

Q.—You did not knock at the door? A.—I knocked first, and thought he didn't hear me. I knocked and then I broke the glass. I went in front, too, and rang the bell. No one came, but sometimes you can't hear that bell, Mr. Giesler. I knew he was there, because I had seen him come home.

Q.—So you broke a glass and turned one knob, then broke another and turned another? A.—Yes.

Q. You had on slacks with a coat and a gun in your side pocket? A. Yes.

Gun Pointed at Chaplin.

Q. When you saw Mr. Chaplin, you had the gun pointed at him? A. Yes.

Q. And how long after your arrival was it that the act of sexual intercourse took place? A. About an hour or an hour and a half.

Q. All that time you had the gun in your hand? A. Most of the time.

Q. Mr. Chaplin sought to have you release the gun? A. Not very hard.

Q. Until the commencement of the act you still retained the gun? A. Yes.

Later, she said, she went into a bedroom connected with Chaplin's by a bath. Asked if Chaplin locked the door, she sighed and said she didn't remember, but she didn't believe so. She admitted hearing him later talk to Edward, the butler, and his [Chaplin's] two sons. The next day Edward asked her to relinquish the gun. She denied she said she would relinquish it for cash. She said the conversation concerned putting her back under contract.

Potato Pigeon

Charles Neuschafer optimistically attempts to fatten up his potato pigeon before consigning it to the oven.

A three pound potato, shaped like a pigeon, was discovered yesterday by Charles Neuschafer, 1107 Lincoln st., North Chicago, in a basket of sweet potatoes at the Stasch general store in Channel Lake, near Antioch, in Lake county. The potato has a beak, tail, wing, and back markings. Neuschafer named it "Homer," and intends to have it baked, instead of in a pot pie.

DEFENSE FIGHTS 'CONFESSION' IN LONERGAN TRIAL

New York, March 24 (AP).—The defense began a grim fight today at the murder trial of Wayne Lonergan, 26, to block admission of his purported confession that he battered and choked to death his wife, Patricia, 22, heiress to 6 million dollars last Oct. 24.

Defense Counsel Edward V. Broderick called two prosecuting attorneys to the witness stand in an attempt to prove that the statement was obtained by subjecting the royal Canadian aircraftman to long hours of questioning without sleep.

Lonergan, dressed in a dark blue suit, again sat calmly at the counsel table as the attorneys battled over the issue that may decide his fate.

Termed "Key" to Case.

The prosecution has said that the purported confession is the key to its case, maintaining there was no witness to the crime except Lonergan.

First, Assistant District Atty. Jacob Grumet, and then his deputy, John F. Loehr, were subjected to a barrage of questions by Broderick concerning circumstances of the purported confession.

Then District Atty. Frank S. Hogan, in a brief appearance as a witness, denied he ever had authorized any of his staff to promise Lonergan that he would not be tried for first degree murder if he confessed.

Grumet denied heatedly that Lonergan had been "sweated." Loehr, who went to Toronto the day after the crime, said Lonergan had returned voluntarily to New York.

Charges Lack of Sleep.

Broderick attempted to show that Lonergan went without sleep for more than 24 hours from the time he reached the district attorney's office in New York until he was booked, in addition to the travel time from Toronto. He brought out from Loehr that Lonergan was left alone with two New York detectives in a Toronto police station for 10 minutes before he signed a waiver to accompany the officials to New York.

Broderick said he intended to call to the stand both detectives in his efforts to break the confession evidence.

This interruption in the presentation of prosecution evidence delayed the courtroom appearance of Jean Murphy Jaburg, former show girl, who accompanied Lonergan to the theater the night before the slaying.

Lonergan Alibi Read.

Earlier, Detective James Wall of the Toronto police, read a transcript of a statement Lonergan gave to Canadian officers. In it Lonergan told of visiting several night clubs with Mrs. Jaburg and, after leaving her, of meeting an American soldier.

He said he took the soldier to the apartment of John Harjes. They retired about 6 a. m. and when he awoke at 10 or 11 the soldier was gone, Lonergan added, along with a wristwatch, money, and his R. C. A. F. uniform.

The tall defendant appeared unmoved during the reading of his alibi—a sordid story that he was having unnatural relations with the soldier about the time his wife was slain in her own apartment.

Lonergan said he borrowed slacks and a coat from Harjes apartment, and took a toy elephant to his wife's apartment at about noon Sunday to give to his baby. Getting no response, he said, he left the toy inside the entrance.

18 TEEN AGERS ARE INVOLVED IN ELGIN LOVE RING

Three Held for Rape in Sex Parties.

Investigation by Elgin police and Kane county authorities of charges of wholesale immorality among a group of 18 boys and girls of high school age resulted yesterday in three boys being held to the grand jury on $3,500 bond on statutory rape charges.

Another boy and seven girls face hearings on delinquency charges before County Judge Olney C. Allen at Geneva.

Mother Finds "Party."

The investigation developed from the complaint of the mother of one of the girls who returned home unexpectedly one afternoon to find a group of them, including her daughter, in the house, some scantily attired. Questioning led to the disclosure of other names.

A month ago, all 18 involved, together with their parents, were called to the Elgin police station, where Chief of Police Joseph G. Huber and State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel waived the filing of charges in return for the pledges of all concerned to abandon their immoral practices.

Subsequent investigation, police said yesterday, revealed that the pledges were not being observed.

Trio Held to Jury.

As a consequence statutory rape charges were filed against Leroy Myers, 18, of 254 Wellington av.; Charles Abbott, 18, of 368 Seneca st., and Earl McBride, 17, of 813 Dundee av., all of Elgin. Justice of the Peace A. J. Stickman held them to the grand jury.

Seidel said the others, charged with delinquency, will be given a hearing soon before Judge Allen.

The acts of immorality on which the charges are based, police said, took place in homes, in parked automobiles and elsewhere. Police said none of the boys involved, and only two of the girls, regularly attend school.

BOOK EX-CONVICT FOR ABDUCTION, RAPE OF GIRL, 5

Formal charges of rape and abduction were filed yesterday against Charles Lapa, 34, an ex-convict, who is accused of kidnaping and criminally assaulting Mary Ann Darabaris, 5, of 12025 Indiana av., Thursday.

Lapa was booked after questioning by Assistant State's Atty. Samuel Papanek, who said that the prisoner continued to deny knowledge of the crimes. Arrested in his home at 220 W. 113th st., less than two hours after the abduction was reported, Lapa said he had drunk two bottles of wine and could not remember how Mary Ann got into his bedroom, where she was found crying, her clothing disarranged.

Police Capt. Matthew Froelich said that Lapa is suspected in several attempted attacks on young children in recent months. The victims will attempt to identify him at the police showup tomorrow.

Both Capt. Froelich and Papanek said they would seek to have Lapa sent to prison for life. Conviction of either abduction or rape carries a possible sentence of one year to life.

SUSPECT JAILED IN QUIRK KILLING, SECOND IN WEEK

Ray Deskovich, 28, one of four hoodlums sought for the murder last September of Martin Quirk, south side gambling operator, surrendered yesterday at the county jail. He was locked up with Jerome De Jonckheere, another suspect in the murder who gave up Tuesday, pending whatever action the state may decide to take in the murder indictment against them.

GOV. GRISWOLD WORKS TO KEEP UNITY IN PARTY

Stays Neutral in Willkie-Stassen Contest.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., March 24.—In a desire for party harmony, Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska is maintaining strict neutrality toward the Republican Presidential preferential test scheduled for the April 11 primary in which Wendell Willkie will oppose Harold E. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota.

Gov. Dwight Griswold.

Willkie, who plans to make a five day campaign tour of Nebraska soon, will be entertained at the governor's mansion during his visit here, but Griswold will not introduce him on the speaking tour.

The same courtesy, and to the same degree, will be accorded to Gov. Thye and Sen. Ball of Minnesota when they come to Nebraska to speak in behalf of Stassen.

Griswold Seeks 3d Term.

Griswold, who received 74.8 per cent of the total vote for reelection in 1942, is neither teaming up with Willkie nor hostile to him. And, keeping in mind his own future, the governor has filed for nomination to a third term in his present post.

Despite his middle of the road policy for party interests, Griswold has his ambitions, according to his friends. Besides the Willkie and Stassen slates, another slate in the primary carries the names of prospective convention delegates pledged to vote for Griswold for President, but he is said have his eye on the Vice Presidential spot.

His neutrality, some say, is motivated by a determination not to do anything that might disqualify him for second place on the Republican ticket, regardless of who heads the ticket.

Bargain Talk Rumored.

There had been gossip in New York that Willkie had tried to bargain with Griswold on the basis of "you help me for President and I'll help you for Vice President," but no evidence of such a deal is apparent here.

Altho Willkie is believed by many to have a setup in opposing Stassen, it is conceded that he is gambling high for a hollow honor. If he fails to win the primary in a state he carried by 90,000 votes as a nominee four years ago, he undoubtedly will have suffered a heavy blow. Some see a possibility of such a failure.

Prairie farmers are reported disturbed by his internationalism and his championship of heavier taxes. Consequently, Willkie is scheduled to stump Nebraska as arduously as tho he were pitted against a strong opponent.

MELLETT QUITS AS ASSISTANT TO ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Lowell Mellett, gray haired veteran behind the New Deal scenes, quit his $10,000 a year job as administrative assistant to President Roosevelt today to become a newspaper columnist.

Lowell Mellett.

The resignation was announced at a news conference by the President who told reporters he was sorry to see Mellett leave.

Mellett, a newspaper man with years of Washington background, went to work for the government in 1937 and headed a trio of war born alphabet agencies — the national emergency council, office of government reports, and the motion picture bureau of the office of war information [OWI]. His expressed views and actions frequently evoked congressional wrath. Mellett became an administrative assistant to the President in 1940.

HOLDS SANITARY BOARD MUST PAY WILL COUNTY TAX

The Illinois Supreme court in a decision received here yesterday held that the sanitary district must pay taxes to Will county for that part of the sanitary channel bed situated in that county. The last tax assessment against the sanitary district by the Will county authorities was for $18,000.

Atty. Ernest Buehler for the sanitary district explained that taxes have been paid on the channel bed for years, but that it was decided to appeal the assessment on the ground that the channel was part of the lakes to the gulf waterway system and therefore public property and exempt from taxation.

The high court opinion written by Justice William J. Fulton of Sycamore held that the use of the channel for the waterway system was only incidental and that the main purpose was to carry away sewage.

STRATTON BACK FOR CAMPAIGN IN COOK COUNTY

Charges Attempts to Purge Him.

State Treasurer William G. Stratton last night wound up his tour of 101 downstate counties in his campaign for the Republican nomination for secretary of state with a Waukegan speech charging attempts to "purge me by intimidation and coercion." Some 450 persons attended. There was frequent applause.

Born in Lake county, Stratton during the day made the rounds in Wauconda, Barrington, Libertyville, Highland Park, Lake Forest, and Lake Bluff. The remainder of his campaign up to the April 11 primary will be devoted to Cook county.

Claims 91 Counties.

Stratton told the courthouse assemblage in Waukegan that he is convinced that he will carry 91 of the 102 counties in the state. Cook county is claimed for his opponent, Arnold P. Benson, by a margin of 100,000 votes, according to administration sources.

"In every county I visited," Stratton said, "I found increasing sentiment among the people against being told whom they can vote for in the primary. It was certainly encouraging and heartening to find that the people were for me because they wanted to be, not because of threats.

"While making my pre-primary tour for the office of secretary of state, my fifth state-wide campaign in the last four years, I witnessed one of the greatest efforts ever made to literally buy a state office. I would approximate that the opposition has turned loose $300,000 in an attempt to buy this high office in the primary."

Points to Other Elections.

Stratton said his confidence is based partly upon the facts that in 1940 he was elected congressman-at-large by the largest vote ever cast for a Republican for either house of the national legislature, and that in 1942 he was elected state treasurer by the largest majority of any candidate on the ticket.

He reiterated his pledge that if elected he will sponsor legislation to reduce automobile state license fees. Retirement of the $60,000,000 highway bond issue reduces the obligations to be met by these fees by more than $5,000,000 a year, he said. Curtailed use of automobiles and imposition of a federal automobile use tax make a state cut doubly reasonable, he declared.

GOV. BRICKER URGES LIQUIDATION FOR ALL USELESS U. S. BOARDS

Birmingham, Ala., March 24 (AP).—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, starting a new southern swing in his campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, declared tonight that "improvising of our governmental structure must be stopped."

The Ohioan, in an address at a mass meeting of Alabama Republicans, predicted a Republican victory in November and proposed that the entire governmental structure setup under the Roosevelt administration be placed under "thoro and systematic study."

"All agencies, boards, bureaus, and commissions which are not performing an essential . . . function should be . . . liquidated," he said. "The number of government jobholders should be substantially reduced. All essential agencies now having an independent status should be placed under the jurisdiction of a responsible cabinet officer or department head."

G.O.P. ASPIRANT FOR PROSECUTOR OLD HAND AT JOB

This is the 11th article in a series discussing candidates seeking nomination for various offices in the April 11 primary.

BY GUY GENTRY.

The old political maxim that the office should seek the man literally is true in the case of John T. Dempsey, Republican candidate for state's attorney who was drafted by the county central committee to make the race and who was left without opposition for the nomination when former Judge John H. Lyle withdrew.

In acceding to that demand Dempsey broke a resolution he had made in 1936 after his defeat for congressman at large that henceforth he would direct his political activities toward electing other men.

Altho born in Genoa, De Kalb county, Dempsey considers himself a Chicagoan. His four children are the fifth generation of the family in Illinois, their great-great-grandfather, John Dempsey, having settled on Chicago's northwest side in 1839.

Commended on Prosecutions.

Dempsey was educated in the De Kalb county schools, at Notre Dame and at Northwestern university law school, and was admitted to the bar in 1924. Three months later he was named assistant state's attorney, serving for five years as first trial assistant before the chief justice of the Criminal court. His record there won the commendation of the Chicago crime commission and of judges before whom he practiced.

Dempsey had shown an early interest in politics, organizing a Republican club while a student at Notre Dame where, he admitted, the Democratic opposition was tough. In 1929 he was named ward committeeman of the old 38th ward, now the 33d, after Committeeman Thomas H. Byrne died. Dempsey was elected to that post in 1930 and has held it ever since, gaining in popularity, as shown by the 1936 vote when he polled 75 per cent of the party's ballots.

Managed Winning Campaigns.

After serving two years as assistant attorney general under Oscar Carlstrom, Dempsey resigned in 1932 to enter private practice. He determined early in his career that, regardless of political interests, his professional work as a practicing attorney must come first. The law firm he has established with former Judge Edward B. Casey, classmate at Notre Dame; Lawrence C. Mills, treasurer of the Chicago Bar association, and Rudolph Bostelman, now a captain in the army, is one of the successful firms of Chicago.

Dempsey was named vice chairman of the county central committee in 1934. The same year he helped organize the National Young Republican club. He directed the Cook county primary campaign for Gov. Green in 1940 and was the unanimous choice of the committee that year for chairman. Dempsey also directed the campaign for Sen. Brooks in 1942. He was appointed by Gov. Green in 1941 as public administrator, an office of responsibility that handles Cook county estates with heirs outside the county.

Lean of figure and sharp in feature, Dempsey still retains some of the outline of the gangling youth who was too light to make the team at Notre Dame, but knew enough about athletics to be recommended for a coaching job by Knute Rockne. Dempsey coached Loyola university teams to help pay his expenses in law school.

The pictures of Mrs. Dempsey and their four children: Robert, 14; Julianne, 12; Tom, 10, and John T. Jr., 6, who is called Nick, occupy a prominent place on the wall of Dempsey's office. The Dempsey home is at 2530 N. Richmond st.

EFFORTS TO VOID OLEO TAX RAPPED BY LA FOLLETTE

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Recent efforts for repeal of the federal tax on oleomargarine, colored to look like butter, were described today by Sen. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] as "one very important phase of monopoly's all-out offensive for control of American agriculture."

He declared in a statement that "the ugly menace of monopoly . . . has already undermined the independence and the competitive character of the American food industry and is now seeking to expand its domain over agriculture itself."

He said the oleomargarine industry produced more than 600,000,000 pounds of margarine a year or practically one-third of the fats in butter, thru 72 plants owned by 18 different concerns. In contrast, he said, the butter industry is made up of more than 4,600 plants, mostly small and many of them coöperatively owned and operated by the farmers themselves. These plants, he said, furnish the outlet for from 35 to 40 per cent of the milk produced on 4,500,000 farms.

BENSON ASSAILS EFFORTS TO GAG GAS CUT CRITICS

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Would-be stifiers of American criticism of New Deal bungling of gasoline rationing were hit last night by Arnold P. Benson, president pro tem of the Illinois senate and regular Republican organization candidate for secretary of state.

Benson repeated his attacks upon the "misery loves company" method of rationing, which he said is evidently responsible for placing midwest motorists on the same 2 gallons a week basis previously affecting six eastern states.

With Gov. Green and all other G. O. P. slate candidates, Sen. Benson appeared at Frank R. Leonard's 47th ward meeting at 4220 Lincoln av. There was an audience of 500. They also spoke at north side meetings in the 45th ward before 400 persons, in the 48th before 200, and in the 49th before 300.

Appeasement, He Charges.

"The morning mouthpiece of the New Deal in Chicago has ridiculed the statement I made regarding the bungling of gasoline rationing in Illinois and the midwest," Benson said. "I said at that time that Washington burocrats were needlessly penalizing our citizens here by imposing new restrictions for gasoline consumption.

"I will repeat that the New Deal action in cutting the weekly allotment to A card holders from 3 to 2 gallons was asinine and stupid. The only excuse was to appease residents of eastern states."

Every agency of the New Deal, including its newspaper apologists, seeks to stifle the right of the people at all times to discuss openly and freely every act of their government, Benson said.

"The New Dealers realize," he said, "that only thru the success of their efforts to suppress free discussions have they any hope of further perpetuating themselves in office. To this end they have sought every possible means of perverting to their own schemes the press and radio.

Defends Right of Criticism.

"Unless we change the present order in Washington, the time may come when any citizen of the United States indulging in this kind of criticism will do so only at the risk of his own liberty."

His candidacy for secretary of state does not curtail his rights to criticize, Benson said, but rather heightens his duty to point out errors in government.

Col. Bryan Houston of the OPA offered the explanation that the cut was imposed to make gasoline rationing "uniform" thruout the country, Benson said.

"There is just about as much reasoning in this as there would be in making the people of the east go barefooted because of a shortage of shoes in the middle west," he said.

Meanwhile the New Deal continues to ignore advice of oil industry experts as to increasing production, he concluded.

SPEAKERS DROP RIVALRY ON ONE ISSUE: WILLKIE

500 at Maine Twp. Rally Hail Denunciation.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Five hundred persons attending a Republican meeting in the Maine Township High school last night applauded when two of four congressional candidates who spoke expressed opposition to Wendell Willkie.

One was Charles H. Garland, mayor of Des Plaines and commercial manager of radio station WBBM, who has the support of the regular organization in the 7th district and the indorsement of the Republican county central committee.

"I do not trust Mr. Roosevelt nor any one else who thinks as he does, even if he does appear in the guise of a Republican," said Garland. "I have not been, I am not now, and I never will be for Wendell Willkie for President."

Debate Effect of Pressure.

Willkie also was denounced by George T. Foster, director of the Constitutional Americans, a nationalist group. Foster also charged that if Garland were elected he would be unable to withstand pressure from the directorate of the Columbia Broadcasting System, whom Foster described as "a group of eastern internationalists."

Garland retorted: "I do not know any of the men mentioned as directors of CBS. I have worked exclusively for WBBM. I am paying every cent of my own expenses. I am no man's candidate."

Alfred P. Haake of Park Ridge, radio lecturer, told the 7th district Republicans they should clean up their own back yard, adding:

"It's all wrong for Republican ward and township committeemen in the district to name one man they will support and keep every one else out in the cold."

He referred to the organization support for Garland.

Discusses Monetary Reform.

Justus Mozart, a former assistant state's attorney, who also is seeking election to the seat formerly held by the late Rep. Leonard W. Schuetz, expressed himself in favor of social security, and discussed monetary reform.

The 7th district, the largest congressional district in the country in point of population, went Democratic in 1942 by only 1,975 votes.

The Democratic nomination for congressman from the district is sought by William W. Link, member of the county civil service commission, and Stanley T. Gross, former assistant state's attorney.

Maine Democrats Back F. D. R. for Fourth Term

Lewiston, Me., March 24 (AP).—Maine Democrats approved a fourth term for President Roosevelt today, their state convention instructing delegates to the Chicago national convention next July to vote for his renomination as long as his name is before that conclave. Today's action duplicated that of the 1940 state convention. Maine will cast 10 votes at Chicago.

DEBATE MOVING HERZL STUDENTS TO CRANE TECH

BY JOSEPH GREEN.

Supt. Johnson and several other school officials spent yesterday trying to determine whether the students of Herzl Junior college, 3711 Douglas blvd., can be moved to Crane Technical High school, 2245 Jackson blvd., or some other west side high school in response to student demand to keep the school on the west side. No decision had been announced last night.

The navy is taking over the Herzl building for a training school. The junior college students were told they were to be shifted to Wilson Junior college, 6800 Stewart av., 10 miles from their original school.

Dean Dorph Brown of Herzl told the school administrators in a morning conference that he would press for transfer to Crane. Johnson and his committee discussed this possibility at length in an afternoon session, with attention also to other west side schools.

Delay and Difficulty Seen.

It was said that it is possible to move the 544 Herzl students into the Crane building, but with considerable delay and difficulty. Some committee members frankly said the arrangement should be made.

Johnson and others said that Crane can accommodate about 600 more than its present enrollment of 4,000 boys, but that all class rooms are now in use, some with less than maximum enrollment. To move Herzl students into the building would require reprogramming of classes of both the high school and the college, with classes for both likely to continue later in the day than now.

The shift would involve fitting out two science laboratories and a library for 17,000 books and seating 100 persons, Herzl officials said.

Hard to Get Materials.

The cost of these alterations was estimated at $25,000 or more by John C. Christensen, school architect, who asserted that obtaining plumbing and electrical material priorities might cause several weeks' delay.

The question of delay brought suggestions that the students might attend Wilson college until June and the work, if approved by the school board, might be done in the summer.

Johnson said that with proper facilities Herzl might remain accredited with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, but that the N. C. A. has given only temporary approval to Wright Junior college since its students were transferred to Schurz High school after the navy took the Wright building last spring.

Taking part in the administrative conference were Assistant Superintendents George F. Cassell, for high schools; Don C. Rogers, in charge of elementary schools and building survey; James T. Gaffney, in charge of evening and summer schools; Christensen; Frank S. Righeimer of the legal staff, and others.

FINLAND'S FATE GUIDE TO FUTURE HOOVER WARNS

New York, March 24 (AP).—Herbert Hoover declared tonight that since the United States, Russia, and Britain "have agreed to collaborate in building self-government and freedom in the world," the handling of the problem of Finland "will be a profound indication of the future of collaboration."

"It would seem that we could use our good offices to secure some way out of the impasse for Finland," the former President said in a statement.

"Americans, the friends of Finland," he continued, "profoundly regretted her entrance into the war on the side of Germany. As ill advised as her action was, the purpose was not to spread Nazism but to preserve the liberty and democracy of the Finnish people. We cannot class her with the other allies of Germany.

"In the long view there can be no lasting peace in the world unless such people as the Finns are to have their independence and lands restored."

ANOTHER YEAR OR MORE OF WAR SEEN BY MONTGOMERY

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—Gen. Montgomery, commander of the British invasion forces, forecast today that the war probably will last another year or more. Returning from a tour of the army, he described it as the best Britain ever had.

"We are preparing to take part in the biggest tug-of-war the world has ever seen," he said, "and if any should let go of the rope then we lose the match. How long will the pull last? No one can say for certain; it may last a year, it may take longer. But we shall win."

The general, delivering an address opening London's "Salute to the Soldier week," warned the nation that it must not again let its forces go to war inadequately equipped. "It must forever redound to our shame," he said, "that we sent our soldiers into this most modern war with weapons and equipment that were quite inadequate. We have only ourselves to blame for the disasters that early overtook us in the field."

RECORD AFFIRMS 'BIT OF ORATORY' WILLKIE DENIES

His Own Words Refute Falsity Charge.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Official Washington was astonished tonight by the declaration of Wendell Willkie, hardy perennial in the field of Republican Presidential nomination candidates, that he had received an apology from an unnamed senator who had accused him of indulging in "campaign oratory" in the 1940 campaign.

Winding up the first week of a 12 day campaign in Wisconsin in behalf of delegates pledged to him in the state's primary April 4, Willkie asserted that the charge of "campaign oratory" made against him was "purely false."

He said that the senator who made that charge against him in a congressional hearing "later in the presence of 50 newspaper men, told me that he had told a falsehood and that he had the good grace to apologize for a falsehood."

Made Charge Himself.

No record of such a charge being made against him by any senator and no record of any apology was found by senate employes.

Printed records of the hearing held by the senate committee on foreign relations show that Willkie made the remark himself. He appeared before the committee on Feb. 11, 1941, urging passage of the first lend-lease bill.

During the course of the hearing, he was questioned by Sen. Nye [R., N. D.], as follows:

Nye [after Willkie had said the lend-lease bill provides a method of keeping out of war]—You stated further "we are being edged toward war by an administration which is alike careless in speech and in action." I think you have already expressed your views on that score.

Willkie—Yes, sir.

"Bit of Campaign Oratory."

Nye—One more assertion of yours, that of Oct. 30: "On the basis of his"—that is Roosevelt's—"past performance with pledges to the people, you may expect we will be at war by April, 1941, if he is elected."

Willkie—You ask me whether or not I said that?

Nye—Do you still agree that might be the case?

Willkie—It might be. It was a bit of campaign oratory. [Laughter.] I am very glad you read my speeches because the President said he did not. [Laughter.]

RIVER VICTIM FOUND YEAR AGO IDENTIFIED AS MISSING INMATE

The mysterious disappearance of Edgar M. Walsh, 43, a former draftsman, on Jan. 3, 1943, from the Illinois State hospital at Elgin where he was an inmate, was solved yesterday when a body recovered 11 months ago from the Fox river was identified as his thru a dental chart.

Walsh had been committed to the Elgin institution in May, 1942. The next January he left the hospital grounds. Early last April a body was found in the Fox river at North Aurora. A picture on file in the hospital under his name indicated he was not the victim.

Walsh's mother, Mrs. M. J. Walsh, 7945 Kimbark av., however, persisted in an investigation to solve his disappearance. Two days ago the river victim's body was exhumed. Yesterday a dental chart from Dr. James D. Webster, 40 N. Michigan av., proved the victim was Walsh. It developed that the hospital picture filed under Walsh's name was not his.

3 FOOD STORES OUT OF 4 HELD TO VIOLATE RULES

OPA Allows Them Month to Get Into Line.

Three-fourths of the city's 12,724 food stores violate one or more of the 112 general and specific orders of the office of price administration, Paul A. H. Shults, area director, charged yesterday in announcing the results of a survey conducted last week.

Only 3,217 stores, or about 25 per cent, were found to be in full compliance with OPA regulations, Shults said. Investigators representing 167 local ration boards made the survey, and observed the prices of 10 standard items, display of price and point charts, and posting of grade tags.

Meat Overcharges Cited.

Shults reported that 1,072 meat markets or meat departments, other than kosher, were found to be charging over ceiling prices for hamburger, 2,404 were overcharging for round steak, and 1,200 were getting excessive prices for pork chops. Of the kosher markets, 113 were said to be overcharging for rib roasts and 42 for hamburger.

In groceries, reported violations for cream style canned corn and 93 score [highest grade] butter led the field with 1,497 and 1,478 stores respectively. Early June peas figured in 908 price violations, tomatoes in 795, macaroni in 231, evaporated milk in 209, and soap powder in 263, the report said.

Shults said that in addition 2,970 stores failed to display a poster showing their OPA grouping; 2,490 had not posted community price lists; 1,609 had no beef price lists in sight; 2,048 failed to show pork prices; and 4,629 had no soap price ceilings posted.

Many Omit Price Tags.

A total of 3,906 stores were in violation for failure to display price tags on meat cuts, and 3,376 had no grade tags on beef cuts, the report said.

Violating stores will be revisited next month, Shults said, and if they are not in full compliance then will be called before local price panels. Continued violation, he said, would result in license suspension actions.

ENVOY ASSERTS GERMAN TROOPS RULE RUMANIA

ANKARA, Turkey, March 24 (AP).—The Rumanian legation here confirmed today that Germany has occupied Rumania.

An official said he had only the briefest information. A strong possibility existed that the Rumanian legation in Turkey, or at least many Rumanian officials, will refuse to continue to function in view of the occupation.

[The Berlin radio said parachutists in British uniforms had been dropped into Rumania.]

Hungary Urged to Resist.

Washington, D. C., March 24. (AP).—The United States today called on Hungary to fight rather than submit tamely to the "Nazi whip." Secretary of State Hull issued a statement calling for "firm resistance" against German forces occupying the axis satellite nation.

The American action carried with it an implicit promise that Hungarian resistance would earn the respect and friendship of the allied nations which, in victory, would look more favorably on the status of Hungary despite its voluntary alliance with Hitler up to the moment of occupation.

GERMANS LAND ON BALTIC ISLES, BRITISH REPORT

New York, March 24 (AP).—The British radio tonight said that, according to reliable reports, German troops have landed on the Aaland Islands in the Baltic sea midway between Finland and Sweden.

"Hitherto Finland has permitted no foreign troops on the islands," said the broadcast.

London said the islands are of "great strategic importance since they control the Gulf of Bothnia and the sea approaches to Stockholm."

U. S. PLANE RIPS ANT ISLAND AREA NEAR CAROLINES

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, March 24 (AP).—Ant Island atoll, a group of 15 islets about 10 miles southwest of Ponape in the Caroline Islands, was bombed for the first time Tuesday by a navy search plane, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today. Ponape, oft-bombed Japanese held atoll, is one of the guardians to the eastern approach to Truk, Japan's important central Pacific naval and supply base.

There were no details of the strike at Ant Island, reputedly inhabited by the descendants of a shipwrecked American Negro sailor. The coral atoll has a lagoon six miles long.

Daily pounding of enemy bases in the eastern Marshalls continued, Nimitz reported, with raids Wednesday on four unidentified positions. Thirty tons of bombs were dropped, causing a large fire on one atoll.

ALLIED BOMBERS DROP 160 TONS ON RABAUL BASE

ALLIED HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, March 25 [Saturday]—(AP).—Solomons based bombers have hit the enemy base at Rabaul, New Britain, with 160 tons of explosives in one of the heaviest recent raids in that area, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Airdromes were smashed and anti-aircraft batteries put out of action by the allied assault.

Light bombers repeatedly pounded Japanese positions back of the allied beachhead at Empress Augusta bay, Bougainville Island in the Solomons.

In other allied air attacks around the Bismarck sea, a small enemy cargo ship was sunk off the Japanese base at Wewak, New Guinea, which has been repeatedly raided in recent weeks. Enemy installations at Kavieng, New Ireland, Hansa bay, and on the Madang coast of New Guinea, were hit.

ALLIES PRY JAPS LOOSE FROM 3 POINTS IN INDIA

NEW DELHI, India, March 24 (AP).—Japanese troops invading India have been torn loose from three positions covering the Tiddim-Imphal road, which they had cut in a surprise thrust across the Burma border from the south aimed at capturing the allied communications base of Imphal, it was announced today.

British troops opposing this threat to their flank were being supplied from the air by planes, but this was termed normal procedure and there was no indication that they had been cut off from ground communication or were running short. At last report, this Japanese column was within 30 miles of Imphal along a road that skirts the western side of Lake Logtak.

Establish Road Blocks.

A second Japanese force that earlier had driven into India near Tamu, 45 miles southeast of Imphal, was repulsed when it tried to reach the Tamu-Palel road. This force was said to be within 38 miles of Imphal.

The new enemy column pushing up the Manipur river valley south of Imphal had established road blocks at several points, which the British were countering with the defensive "box" system they once used with success in Arakan. Heavy fighting was reported in progress north of Tunzan, 17 miles north of Tiddim.

A third force of unestimated size was believed gathering in the dense jungle to strike from northeast of Imphal. This column, however, would face the toughest kind of going and would have to move its supplies by mule train.

Eventual Defeat Seen.

Allied officers declared that such Japanese maneuvers as those now under way could not win any part of India, and said the invaders eventually would have to fight a full-scale battle or withdraw into Burma.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Chungking, China, said official quarters kept silent on the Japanese invasion of India, but that there was no mistaking the shock created there. The Chungking newspaper, Ta Kung Pao, contended that if the allies had struck aggressive and powerful blows at the Japanese in the Orient and the Pacific, "there would be no time for Tojo to take any interest in India."]

DENIES HUSBAND VISIT WITH SON; ARREST ORDERED

Judge Harold G. Ward in Criminal court yesterday ordered the immediate arrest of Mrs. Helen Lukas, 3807 W. 56th st., for ignoring a court order to bring her son, Raymond, 7, to court so that his father, Valentine Lukas of the coast guard, could visit the boy. Judge Ward issued the original order Thursday after Lukas complained that he was about to be sent overseas and his divorced wife would not let him see their son. Deputy Sheriff Pat Keenan reported he had served the order on Mrs. Lukas Thursday night but that she had ignored the order.

FORTS GROOMED FOR COMBAT IN NEW AIR BASES

3,500th B-17 Goes Thru Modification Center.

BY FRANK STURDY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 24.—One of the army air forces important and hitherto guarded secrets was disclosed after 26 months today with the arrival here of the crew of the Flying Fortress Hell's Angels to inspect the modification center where the latest counterparts of their famous bomber are given final combat equipment.

W. A. Patterson, president of the United Air Lines, Gov. L. C. Hunt of Wyoming, and Gov. John C. Vivian of Colorado participated with the crew in ceremonies today at which the 3,500th Fortress to go thru the center was christened "Headache for Hitler," by Mrs. Ira C. Eaker, wife of Lt. Gen. Eaker, commander of the allied air forces in the Mediterranean theater.

Hell's Angels was one of the first B-17s of the 8th air force in England. The plane is a little dowdy, beaten up, and not as modern as the late B-17s lined up in scores on the United Air Lines airport.

Early in the war, the air force found that more fire power, turrets, and gadgets of all descriptions were needed if its bombers were to survive German fighter plane attacks. To stop production lines to incorporate necessary changes would have cost invaluable time. So the major factories of original output went on with their schedules, and the modification system was invented.

Start Scheme in 1942.

United Air Lines' part in the scheme was started in January, 1942, when the materiel command requested a fast job of camera installation on two Flying Fortresses. W. P. Hoare, superintendent of the air lines base, was given no blueprints to follow. Mainly by muscle, sweat, and on-the-spot invention, the two planes were delivered on time, the work of 30 men for 30 days.

A month later, another request was made of the line, this time to change seven bombers for use in the then urgent British anti-submarine coastal patrol. This called for extensive revisions to accommodate the R. A. F. bomb sight, electrical devices, bomb racks, and instruments.

Lacking hangar space, wooden lean-tos were constructed over the bombers' noses, and heat from house furnaces was piped into the fuselages so mechanics could work in Cheyenne's severely cold February weather.

Method Is Adopted.

By this time the air forces had settled on the system as a permanent method, and thruout the country commercial air transport companies were pressed into service. United was authorized to replace its lean-tos with 2 million dollars' worth of new hangars and fill them with high priority machinery.

After the two original jobs and the seven for the British in March, the center started on 10 more for the American air force in the same month, and took on 16 in April. From July to September, 1942, the monthly average completed was 30, the monthly average from October, 1942, to January, 1943, was 60. In the first six months of 1943, the daily average was 6.

Commanders Ask Changes.

Virtually all of the last minute changes made at the center are requested from combat zone commanders. Most of them are rather basic, but some are little things that are weighty to fighting crews. Gunners found their microphone switches inconveniently located. Frequently conversation meant stopping shooting to reach for the button. Now the switch is on the gun grip.

Extremes of weather forced the army to "winterize" planes intended for Arctic operation with special oil heating and engine starting systems. New tubing was devised to replace standard lines that cracked in temperatures of 70 below zero, or gummed up in the heat of the desert.

Among the principal changes now installed on B-17s here is the chin turret and new turret-like arrangement of tail guns that is still on the secret list as far as detailed description is concerned. Capt. Irl Baldwin, who took the plane to Europe and flew it on 25 missions, is flying it on a tour of factories producing air forces products.

YANKS RIP 2 NAZI WAR CITIES; R.A.F. ATTACKS BERLIN

Germans Hit London 4th Night in Row.

LONDON, March 25 [Saturday] (AP).—"Aircraft of the R. A. F. bomber command were over Germany in strength during the night, with Berlin as the main objective," an authoritative British source announced today hard on the heels of the American daylight attacks which pounded Frankfurt and Schweinfurt and the French air fields of Nancy and St. Dizier.

The German radio said small British bomber formations split off from the Berlin attackers and raided Leipzig and Weimar. The raid on Berlin was on a large scale, the radio said.

The Germans, who had offered little opposition to yesterday's daylight attacks, responded last night with an attack upon London for the fourth consecutive night.

500 U. S. Planes on Raid.

A well-known building, a famous old church, and a publishing house were among London structures hit, along with many residences. The Germans also struck in southeast England and East Anglia.

London's famed royal Albert hall was damaged when a high explosive bomb fell near by on a recent night raid, it was disclosed. "The shattering of the glass of the dome presented the chief problem," the manager said.

The Americans sent about 250 bombers and approximately the same number of fighters on their mission and lost three bombers and five fighters. The escort destroyed three Nazi aircraft on the ground.

14th March Raid on Reich.

Among the raiders was Sgt. Marvin J. Durham of 2833 N. Lowell st., Chicago, a Fortress gunner.

Flying Fortresses struck 400 miles to Frankfurt and 475 to Schweinfurt, marking the 14th time in March that American heavies had bombed German soil.

BRITISH MINERS AGREE TO NEW WAGE BOOST

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—British mine owners' representatives and miners' leaders announced today that they had agreed to stabilize coal field wages until Dec. 31, 1947, and to eliminate anomalies of the Porter award. This award lead to the recent strike of 100,000 Welsh miners and the current walkout of more than 50,000 in south Yorkshire.

The Yorkshire miners' leaders said they expected the pact to bring a quick end to the wildcat walkout there which has spread to 28 pits.

The agreement provides an extra 20 cents per shift for skilled workers and incentives to increase production by piece workers. The Porter award had set the national minimum miners' wage at $18 to $20 a week, but provoked disagreement because it failed to differentiate between skilled and unskilled workers. To become operative the new agreement must be ratified by the miners and the owners.

TELLS CANADA'S HEAVY SHARE IN EMPIRE AIR WAR

Dominion Supplies 200,000 Men.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 24.—From 22 to 25 per cent of all the air crews in the European and Mediterranean areas under the British tactical command are Canadians, enlisted in Canada, trained in Canada, and paid for by Canadians, Air Minister Charles G. Power told the Canadian parliament.

This proportion of Canadians, Power said, will tend to increase from now on as the large numbers of Canadian airmen now overseas finish their courses. He estimates that Canadians will comprise about one-third of the total content of British-dominion allied air crew strength.

Has Splendid Record.

Canada, at the start of this year, had 42 squadrons overseas operating under the direction of the British bomber command, coastal command, fighter command, allied expeditionary force, Mediterranean command, and India command.

During 1943 and into 1944 the record of the Canadian air force squadrons was 208 enemy aircraft destroyed, 162 probably destroyed or damaged, and 150 locomotives destroyed.

Canadian air force casualties up to Feb. 18, 1944, were 7,958 dead or presumed dead; 3,384 missing, prisoners of war, or interned.

Now Exceeds 200,000.

"We Canadians have, starting from 4,000 men, raised an air force of more than 200,000," Power said. "We have, in the midst of the throes of rapid expansion, trained 114,000 men in ground work as instructors, staff men, mechanics, engineers, and in 50 different trades.

"We have graduated from our flying schools 86,000 men to fly and fight in the planes of the commonwealth and the R. A. F.—more than half the total graduates in the empire forces. Of these, 48,000 were Canadians, recruited, enlisted, and trained by us."

U.S. SUBS SINK 11 MORE JAP SHIPS; WEEK'S TOLL 26

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Destruction of 11 more Japanese ships by American submarines was announced today by the navy department.

The new bag brought to 26 the number of sinkings reported by the navy this week, and boosted to 653 the number of enemy vessels sunk, probably sunk, or damaged by submarine action.

Two tankers, one of them large, were included in the new totals. Also reported sunk were three transports, five freighters, and one converted mine layer.

In accordance with policy, no indication was given of where the Japanese ships were intercepted and sent to the bottom. However, submarines are known to have operated along the coasts of Japan. Thus far, 23 American submersibles have been lost, all except three presumably against the Japanese.

COL. L. G. YODER OF CHICAGO WINS LEGION OF MERIT

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—The war department announced today the award of the legion of merit to Col. Leverett G. Yoder, corps of engineers, of 850 Lake Shore drive, Chicago. He was in charge of all air drome location, construction and repair in Papua and New Guinea from April 28 to Aug. 18, 1942, the award stated, "and despite intense enemy activity and shortage of personnel and equipment, no airdromes under his supervision were out of operation for periods longer than two hours."

PLANES COLLIDE ON RUNWAY; FIVE KILLED, 14 SAVED

Sioux City, Ia., March 24 (AP).—Five flyers were killed and 14 others jumped to safety when two Flying Fortress bombers collided on a runway at the Sioux City army air base today. Gasoline tanks caught fire before all the men could get out. Both planes burned. None of the dead was from Chicagoland.

Bomber Crash Kills 7.

El Paso, Tex., March 24 (AP).—A four engine army bomber from near-by Biggs field crashed near El Paso late last night killing the seven men aboard. The dead included Lt. Benjamin C. Fricke, 7002 Broadway, Indianapolis, Ind., and Lt. Robert Spears, route 13, Indianapolis.

Chicago Pilot Injured.

Birmingham, Ala., March 24 (AP).—An army air force pilot who stayed at the controls after two crewmen parachuted to safety was injured seriously today in the crash of a B-24 Liberator bomber in a field 15 miles north of here. The army public relations office said the pilot, Capt. John H. Lentz, of Chicago, ordered the two to leave the ship. Lentz was hospitalized here.

AN ILLINOIS YANK IS ONE OF 3 WHO KILLED 70 JAPS

BOUGAINVILLE, March 24 (AP).—A sergeant and two privates, members of the Americal [an unnumbered] division, are credited with wiping out more than 70 Japanese in four days of the Bougainville battle. Streaking thru enemy fire, Sgt. Irvine Drum, Oakland, Cal., and privates John C. Burtain, Paris, Ill., and John W. Calvard, Tallassee, Ala., captured a pillbox behind a fallen tree.

"As the Japs came by the log to bring up supplies and reënforcements," Calvard said, "we'd pick 'em off with rifle fire. Drum would order mortar fire at the same time. They just kept walking by our position for three days." Later the bodies of 81 Japanese were found.

Burtain and Calvard estimated they each accounted for 20 to 30 enemy and Drum's mortar fire accounted for the rest. The figure was confirmed in a signed statement of commendation from their company commander, 1st Lt. Fred A. Kaps, 3420 W. Belden av., Chicago.

PAN-GERMANISM KILLED DECENCY —SIGRID SCHULTZ

The kindly, old fashioned Germans who migrated to America during the 19th century bear nothing in common with the Germans of today, Sigrid Schultz, famous foreign correspondent and lecturer, told a capacity audience at the Executives club yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. "Those who left during the last century had not yet become indoctrinated with the dangerous theory of Pan-Germanism," she explained.

Miss Schultz, for 16 years Berlin correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was living in Germany during the days of the revolution in 1918 when, she said, "the soldiers knew they had been defeated, but the generals and the women of Germany did not."

Recounting her interviews during the years preceding World War II with Goering, Hitler, and other Nazi officials, Miss Schultz said they have so influenced the German people that the decent element remaining is exceedingly small. There was almost no resentment, she found, against the systematic looting of Europe.

EVANSTON FLYER LOST; BROTHER IS AXIS CAPTIVE

The two flying sons of Mrs. Harold Brown of 901 Maple av., Evanston, Lieutenants Robert C. and Joseph W., have failed to return to their bases after missions against the enemy in Europe, she has been informed by the war department. Robert, a Flying Fortress pilot, has been missing since he flew a mission over Germany Feb. 12, and Joseph, a navigator, was captured by the Germans when his plane was shot down in Italy, Feb. 29. A third son, Harold, is a private in the army engineer corps.

POWERFUL NEW NAZI FORCES JOIN CASSINO BATTLE

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, March 24 (AP).—The Germans have thrown powerful new artillery and aerial support into their defense of Cassino. Their ground troops are resisting as desperately as ever in the ruins of the mountain locked stronghold and it becomes plain that last week's terrific air assault did little to help allied forces break thru this citadel barring the road to Rome.

[The London radio, quoting a report from the 5th army front at Cassino, said "German paratroops have seized a belt of ruined houses on the western outskirts after street fighting."]

Enemy artillery fire from north of the town has mounted steadily in recent days and between 40 and 50 Nazi planes yesterday shot up allied traffic behind the lines.

New Zealanders Gain.

New Zealand troops wormed forward in the ruins at the southern edge of Cassino and, an allied spokesman said, made "some little progress." German parachute troops clung to wreckage of the Continental and Des Roses hotels and other buildings.

Allied chances of breaking thru into the Liri valley appeared as remote as at any time since the start of the struggle over two months ago.

[Another dispatch from Naples said that in five days dive bombers have dropped 265 packs of food, water, and ammunition to allied ground forces fighting on isolated peaks near Abbey hill on the Cassino front.]

Bomb Railway Targets.

Allied heavy bombers attacked rail targets at Padua, west of Venice, again last night following a daylight raid by American medium Marauders on the Campo di Marte freight yards in the Florence area. Another Marauder formation hit a rail bridge at Pontassieve and Kittyhawks attacked another on the east coast line at Falconara Maritima, above Ancona. No allied planes were lost during the day.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

Yesterday's broadcast German war bulletin said:

"In Italy the enemy yesterday [Thursday] discontinued his attacks against Cassino as the result of his high losses. There was only local activity on both fronts."

DEBATE MERITS OF CASSINO RAID AS INFANTRY AID

Admit Some Errors in Blitz of Fort.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

WITH MEDITERRANEAN ALLIED AIR FORCES, March 24.—The question how successful all-out close support from air power can be in assisting ground troops to launch offensive operations has been tested in the Cassino battle and argument still is going on as to how conclusive the results were.

On the allied side this was first thoroly tested on a massed scale March 15 when both strategic heavy bombers and mediums and light and fighter bombers from the tactical air force smashed at exceedingly tough German positions in the Gustav line.

The air force previously had been used in paving the way for such advances as the 8th army's march across Libya or various soviet drives, but never as heavily as were employed tactically to facilitate the attack.

Wait for Good Weather.

The Cassino drive had been postponed many times in order to obtain satisfactory weather both at the bomber bases for take-offs and over the target for vision. It also was necessary to permit some of the ground near Cassino to dry up partially in order to give the tanks a chance to function, at least in patches.

When the big day came it was planned to stage a far bigger aerial show than actually came off. In fact it was only the day after the battle it was realized that for several reasons the bombload dropped and the sorties flown were far smaller than was thought at the time.

By and large the bombing was accurate, but some unfortunate errors occurred. There would appear to be small excuse for any mistaken bombing of the rear, causing casualties among troops. Some forward units and artillery batteries suffered casualties from allied bombs.

Debris Slows Advance.

Nevertheless, in a broad sense, these mistakes have not affected the battle picture and were similar to such deadly errors as the occasional misfiring by the artillery on its own infantry.

The principal objective, saturating Cassino, was attained, but the allies' further advance was sufficiently retarded by the necessity of clearing the rubble and bridging craters on the roads to afford the Germans time for reorganization. It turned out to be another instance of not being able to have your cake and eat it.

JAPS TO GET COMIC STRIPS.

New York, March 24 [AP].—The "propaganda and enlightenment power" of Japanese comic strips will be "utilized in bolstering the fighting spirit," A Tokio broadcast said today. The Tojo government will set up a "Great East Asia Comic Strip Study society" for this purpose.

Arlington Heights Airman Risks Life for Navigator

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Tech. Sgt. Stuart J. Page of 624 N. Highland av., Arlington Heights, Ill., risked his own life to give first aid to his plane's navigator on a recent bombing raid, it was revealed today. Second Lt. Jack Birchfield, the navigator, wounded by anti-aircraft fire, was without an oxygen supply, but Page crawled over the open bomb bay doors to give first aid.

DEWEY ASSAILS NEW DEAL GAGS ON FREE PRESS

Charges Important News Being Suppressed.

New York, March 24 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, accusing the national administration of fostering "a deliberate and dangerous policy" of suppressing news, asserted tonight that the people knew "far too little about our own foreign policies and practically nothing about our diplomatic commitments."

Dewey, mentioned as a possible Republican Presidential candidate despite his oft repeated statement that he will not seek the nomination, criticized the administration's handling of news in an address opening the annual exhibition of the Press Photographers association of New York.

After declaring that the American people were the best informed in the world because of a free press, Dewey said there had been "increasing signs of late that our newspapers are being denied the right to print all the news."

Mentions Sicily Blunder.

"Only now do we learn, because it leaked out, of the shooting down of 23 transport planes and the killing of 410 American paratroopers in Sicily, eight months ago," he said. "Even after a Presidential broadcast, we still know precisely nothing of what really happened at the much heralded conference in Teheran.

"We only know of the disquieting evidences of disunity which have since occurred in the Pravda attacks on the British and the Vatican, followed by the startling repercussions, brought out by the President's announcement of the three way division of the Italian fleet. . . .

"The events of which I speak have not been suppressed to keep information from the enemy so much as to keep them from our own people. One such incident might be charged to blunder; two such incidents begin to lay the unpleasant suspicion of administration policy.

Political News Suppressed.

"When we find the state department requesting the British censor to suppress political news sent to American papers by American correspondents abroad, it begins to amount to a deliberate and dangerous policy of suppression of the news at home."

Gov. Dewey, when questioned concerning his statement that the state department had requested the British censor to suppress political news sent to American papers by American correspondents, refused to elaborate. He indicated that the order of the state department had been canceled two days after it was issued.

"Despite millions of dollars spent on war information service, we are constantly being surprised," he said. Often we learn of important events thru the pronouncements of foreign statesmen or by reading dispatches cabled back to this country from foreign papers.

Ignorant of Commitments.

"After making all due allowances for war time conditions, it still remains that we know far too little about our own foreign policies and practically nothing about our diplomatic commitments."

Dewey said the press had cooperated unanimously in voluntary censorship, but added, "It is time we had light as we fight for freedom."

He said a lasting peace could not be successful without "the aid of an alert, courageous, and unfettered press." He charged there had been "studied efforts in recent months to make people believe that congress will obstruct the building of a lasting peace."

"That is not true," he said. "That is a part of a continuing effort to discredit the congress of the United States."

OWNER OF WAR PLANT SLUGGED BY UNION AGENTS

Joseph Brotman, 42, of 6517 N. Ashland av., owner of a manufacturing company making radio parts under an army contract, reported to police he was slugged yesterday in a scuffle with three union representatives. They were attempting to force Brotman to rehire 11 women employes whom he had discharged because he did not have sufficient work to keep them busy.

Brotman told police from the labor detail he had warned his 17 employes Tuesday that the majority of them no longer would be needed on a full time basis when the present contract held by his company, the Coil Engineers, 2257 W. North av., expired. In protest, he said, all employes walked out and went to local 1031 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers [AFL] for aid.

Previous to this, he said, the union had not had any contract with his company, nor, to his knowledge, represented any of his employes. He said the loss of all his employes would seriously endanger the completion of the army contract.

Officials of local 1031 denied the slugging and said two representatives had called on Brotman to discuss organization of his employes, but Brotman got "scared and called the police."

BRITAIN'S SECRET MOVES IN WORLD AFFAIRS DECRIED

Churchill's Curb on Debate Protested.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 24.—A front page editorial, headed "Dictated Diplomacy" in the Weekly Economist, complains that "decisions apparently are being taken that will govern the shape of world affairs for many years to come" without public knowledge or consent.

"It is wrong that commitments should be made in secret by one man, however eminent, that will bind the whole nation for many years to come," it protests. "A mandate of confidence does not extend so far as that."

Decries Churchill Stand.

The Economist asserts that it is unfortunate "that major questions of the day, upon which opinions are very divided and minds very troubled, cannot come under discussion in parliament."

The latter reference was to Prime Minister Churchill's recent action in refusing to discuss in parliament, except as a motion to censure, a measure "expressing sharp dissent from the prime minister's recent remarks on Germany and the Atlantic charter." Churchill, in the speech from which the dissension stemmed, had asserted that the principles of the Atlantic charter did not apply to Germany.

Warns of Secret Deal.

The Economist says it is clear Churchill meant that the principles of the Atlantic charter do not apply to Germany in order that German territories can be handed over to Poland to compensate for the alteration of the Polish-soviet frontier which Churchill reportedly agreed to at the tri-power conference in Teheran. It mentions rumors that it also was agreed at Teheran that Germany should be broken up into a number of independent states.

In such a course, the Economist says, it sees signs of a "third German war."

LINCOLN'S COPY OF FAMED TALK GIVEN TO STATE

Springfield, Ill., March 24 (AP).—School children of Illinois today presented to the state historical library Lincoln's pen copy of his Gettysburg address.

Bound with it was Edward Everett's copy of the oration Everett delivered that day, and a letter from Robert T. Lincoln, the President's son, attesting to the genuineness of his father's manuscript.

Thomas F. Madigan, New York autograph expert, called the manuscript "one of the most important American historical manuscripts in existence." It last sold for $150,000.

ASSAIL SECRET DIPLOMACY OF U. S. AND BRITAIN

Dewey, Congressmen, and London Protest.

and other border disputes cannot be settled until after the war. Hull was further quoted as saying that considerable friction has developed between some British and Russian diplomatic officials over the Polish question.

Aggression Ban Stands.

In regard to post-war disposition of small Baltic states sought by Russia, Hull was quoted as saying the state department's declaration of 1939, stating the United States will not recognize aggression, still stands. The declaration was issued after Russian armies marched into Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia.

Members of the group said they protested the administration's policy of silence toward the public on the post-war German plan and other foreign policy matters and asked why the nation is not being kept more fully informed.

The secretary replied, according to members, that the German question was a delicate one and public statements on it at this time might hamper the war program. He reportedly said that if the allies now proposed, for example, to dismember Germany as a nation, the Nazis will fight harder than ever against defeat. On the other hand, he added, if the allies declare Germany will be kept intact, some people will ask what we are fighting for.

Secrecy Criticized.

This policy of secrecy on post-war aims was generally criticized after the Hull conference by the congressmen, all of whom were pre-Pearl Harbor interventionists and have until recently supported the administration on all controversial matters affecting our foreign affairs.

Their disappointment at the administration's failure to evolve a specific foreign policy or to tell congress and the public about it, if there is one, was expressed in the reaction of Rep. Luce [R., Conn.], who attended the meeting.

"Silence is still the settled policy in the state department," Mrs. Luce told reporters.

Other members, such as Rep. Holmes [R., Wash.], observed that the American public is being kept in the dark on the administration's post-war aims, while other allied leaders are stating their views.

Confused By Silence.

"The American public is confused by this silence," said Holmes. "Churchill does not hesitate to speak out for Britain and certainly Stalin makes his views known."

The congressmen explained that at the Hull conference they were permitted to ask questions and that Hull was asked among other matters, about the problem of post-war bases in the Pacific, and the state department's attitude toward the aims of Britain and Russia.

The secretary, members said, declined to answer most questions directly, on the ground either that they could not be answered now or that the problems were still in a delicate conversational stage with our allies.

Jap Demands Conquered Asiatics Speak Japanese

San Francisco, Cal., March 24 (AP).—A Tokio radio broadcast picked up by the Netherlands news agency at Melbourne, Australia, today quoted Yasuzo Ouka, director of state affairs in Japan's greater east Asia ministry, as saying: "We cannot hope to have spiritual cohesion and unity if the language of each of various peoples is different. What forms the bond is a common language. That language must be Japanese."

LOVE IN FRENCH ON A COCONUT PUZZLES COURT

The Webers and their amorous coconut appeared again in court yesterday, but nothing was settled except that a coconut is a queer object on which to write a love message—and in French.

The Webers are Frank H., 45, an insurance executive, and his wife, Madeleine, also 45, of 11426 Longwood dr. Last year he sued her for separate maintenance, but lost, and now she's suing him for separate maintenance. In the first hearing the coconut was introduced as evidence by Mrs. Weber as proof of her husband's love for her. She charges she was deserted in July, 1942.

Yesterday, before Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Circuit court, her lawyer, Norman Becker, produced the coconut again. On it is a message, written in French by Weber to his wife, protesting, in substance, that he loved her, and that his heart was just as big as the coconut. In addition, Mrs. Weber testified that Weber really loved her, but some of his friends were interfering. She said he was so upset that once on a motor trip with friends he said they might as well all die, and drove his car at high speed into another car. But only she was hurt, she said. Judge Finnegan continued the case to March 31.

TAX BILLS IN CITY TO SET RECORD, CIVIC HEAD SAYS

Chicago's 1944 tax rate will be $3.90 per $100 assessed valuation, Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the Civic federation, estimated yesterday on the basis of Assessor Clark's 100 per cent valuation. This, he said would be the highest general property rate in the city's history and would increase the bills of all property owners other than railroads and owners of capital stock in public utilities.

Last year's rate was $10.42 per $100 assessed valuation, but was levied against only 37 per cent of the assessed value of the property. Under last year's procedure, the tax on property worth $1,000 was $38.55, while it would be $39 this year at the estimated $3.90 rate.

Philip W. Collins, director of the state department of revenue, has estimated that Cook county taxes on the capital stock of railroads and public untilities will be reduced approximately 5 million dollars by the revised assessment base, placing an equivalent additional burden on other taxpayers.

CHURCHILL TELLS YANKS: 'I THANK GOD YOU'RE HERE'

Watches U. S. Parachute Troops in Mass Leap.

'Anxious Weeks'

AT A U. S. ARMY BASE IN ENGLAND, MARCH 24 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill, completing a two day inspection of American invasion forces, today said these are "most anxious and inspiring weeks, when all thoughts are turned to striking a great blow which may bring peace and freedom nearer to the men of all the united nations and, indeed, to all the world."

(Picture on back page.)

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill on his first inspection of an all-American force in Britain watched hundreds of parachutists in a mass leap at a United States airborne base yesterday. He climbed aboard a glider, discovered a jeep inside, and pronounced the airborne troops "the most modern expression of war."

"I thank God that you are here," he told them, "and from the bottom of my heart I wish you all good fortune and success."

Churchill's surprise visit was not announced until today for security reasons. To the parachute troops who gathered around him, he said:

"Soon you will have the opportunity of testifying to your faith in all those inspiring phrases of the American Constitution."

Losing Heavily at Cassino.

Mentioning the comradeship in arms of American and British troops, Churchill said "Our troops, British and American, at this moment are shedding their blood side by side in Italy, at Cassino or in the Anzio bridgehead, fighting hard and losing heavily in the struggle."

The Americans in Britain, he said, "are preparing themselves to strike a blow for a cause which is a greater cause than either of our two countries has ever fought for in by-gone days."

"It is a world cause," he continued, "because tho no one can tell how the future of the world will shape itself, we are determined that the dark tyrannies which have overcrowded our lives and drawn our people from their homes shall be broken and battered down, and that an example shall be made of the guilty which will prevent such tyrannies being erected again upon the masses of the people."

Speaks from Jeep.

Churchill spoke from a jeep, bareheaded, with Gen. Eisenhower close by, along with Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, senior commander of American ground forces in the United Kingdom, and Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commander of the United States 9th air force.

As the prime minister watched he rose from his chair and stood with his unlighted cigar clenched in his teeth, smiling grimly.

Churchill also inspected a medical unit of a doctor and 15 men who are to jump with the first air assault troops on the invasion.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mike Connolly, 1524 E. 74th st.]

THE QUESTION.

What unusual complaints have you had from the public? [Asked of policemen.]

WHERE ASKED.

Hyde Park police station.

THE ANSWERS.

Michael Stevens, 10616 Peoria st.—A woman telephoned that the man and woman across the street were a disgrace to their respectable neighborhood. She said that every night the man started to undress the woman without pulling down the shades. We investigated and found the man was a tailor and the "woman" a dressmaker's model.

William J. O'Toole, 5626 Loomis blvd.—About every three weeks I used to get called out on the same assignment. A wealthy family had a very spoiled son who would not permit the barber to cut his hair. The only way the barber could manage at all was to have me stand by during the operation.

William Phillips, 7326 S. Claremont av.—After the lights had gone out in the apartment the woman finished her work by candle light and evidently created more ghostly atmosphere than she could stand. She ran over and said that she had heard some one in her closet and had locked him in. We investigated and found a rat.

Sgt. Joseph Brady, 8531 South Park av.—We've been called to silence all kinds of disturbances but we'd never before been asked to make a big hanging neon sign quit squeaking every time the wind blew. We went over there with an oil can and greased the hinges so it swung silently and easily.

George Wise, 4141 Berkeley av.—Two buses met at the intersection. One of them backfired at the same time that a stone was thrown thru the window of another. All of the passengers scrambled from the buses because they thought some one had fired a shot. It was our duty to locate the villain.

C. E. Clark, 4300 Ellis av.—We received a report not long ago that a body was floating in the Chicago river. We rushed down there fully equipped with life jackets, nets, and a pulmotor. We didn't discover until we had almost completed the rescue that our victim was a discarded dummy.

CHILD BITTEN BY DOG.

Warren av. police last night were seeking a stray dog which bit Faith Kennedy, 6, of 420 S. Oakley blvd., on the face as she was playing near her home.

BALKANS ASKED TO HELP THOSE WHO FLEE NAZIS

Roosevelt Fears for Lives of Jews.

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt, saying that hundreds of thousands of Jews face death as a result of Hitler's stranglehold on the Balkans, called on the peoples of those countries and the Germans themselves today to hide intended victims from the Nazi executioners.

The chief executive also asked in a statement that "the free peoples of Europe and Asia temporarily open their frontiers to all victims of oppression."

Mr. Roosevelt, in a voice heavy with the cold which kept him to his living quarters earlier this week, read the statement to his press conference.

Sums Foreign Policy.

He indicated that he considered the first paragraph of his statement a summary of American foreign policy. After he had read it, he observed that it should answer people who have been going around asking bellhops whether this country has a foreign policy. The paragraph reads:

"The united nations are fighting to make a world in which tyranny and aggression cannot exist; a world based upon freedom, equality, and justice; a world in which all persons regardless of race, color, or creed may live in peace, honor, and dignity."

Mr. Roosevelt's appeal to the Germans and the Balkan peoples asked that they record the evidence against Nazis guilty of acts of savagery and promised that those having a part in such acts will be punished.

Warns All Participants.

"All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death in Poland, or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany are equally guilty with the executioner," he said. "All who share the guilt shall share the punishment."

Prompted by the President's appeal for free countries of Europe and Asia to open their borders to refugees, a reporter asked if the United States planned to do the same. Mr. Roosevelt said we are already taking care of all we can get out. There are a good many now in North Africa, he added, but not enough to come to this country.

PLAN GOODWILL INDUSTRY JOBS FOR CASUALTIES

Goodwill industries of Chicago, a division of national Goodwill industries, which trains and employs handicapped persons and markets the products of their labors, has initiated a study program designed to meet the needs of soldiers and sailors who return from the war with mental or nervous disorders.

This was brought out at a luncheon given by the Chicago women's auxiliary yesterday in the La Salle hotel as a feature of the regional conference attended by Goodwill industries representatives from 19 midwestern cities.

"We are working hand in hand with psychiatrists in planning how best to serve these men," said Betty Nelson, director of the Chicago division's curative workshop. It was indicated that detailed blueprints for the organization's contribution to veteran rehabilitation would be ready within a month.

OPPOSES DRAFT OF LABOR, LUCAS TELLS PEORIANS

A Voluntary Effort Is Best, He Says.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., March 24.—Sen. Lucas told an audience here tonight that he is against the conscription of labor and believes that best production results can be obtained thru voluntary coöperation. Lucas led the Democratic state caravan into Peoria county, which houses a strong labor element among its 70,000 voters.

"Looking at our impressive production record," said Lucas, "I cannot help but reach the conclusion that no new legislative controls are needed at this time to keep the workers of this country at their jobs in this crisis which threatens the liberty of us all.

Need Coöperation.

"I am convinced that the man power problems of America can best be solved thru voluntary coöperation vigorously applied. . . . If the home front continues to answer the production call with the same zeal and industry as it has in the past, victory will come quicker and the draft of labor will be unnecessary.

Lucas called attention to the fact that England has a labor conscription act, "yet 90,000 miners have gone out on what is the most serious strike the British empire has experienced."

Courtney Backs Veterans.

State's Atty. Courtney, candidate for governor, told the audience that he is strongly behind the American Legion's hospitalization and rehabilitation program for veterans of the present war.

"Illinois owes its veterans something more than a hurrah, a handshake, or a pat on the back," said Courtney. "Mistakes of the past must not be repeated," Courtney said he would be guided by the members of the American Legion and leaders of other veterans organizations.

220 TEACHERS IN CICERO HAVE PAYLESS PAY DAY

Two things kept the 220 elementary school teachers in Cicero from receiving their pay yesterday. One was that school district 99 is out of funds until new tax collections begin arriving about July. The other was that teachers' orders, in lieu of checks, were not ready until last night, long after the teachers had finished work.

George W. Burns, Cicero township treasurer, said most of them will get pay orders Monday. He blamed clerical delay for failure to get them out. The pay orders are in the form of regular checks, except that stamped on the back of each is the note: "Not paid for want of funds. By resolution of the board of education of district 99 this order bears interest at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum from March 24, 1944, till called for payment."

A La Salle st. broker was reported ready to cash the $42,000 worth of orders for the teachers.

Burns said about 60 janitors and clerks are not eligible for such orders, provided by state law only for teachers. They will have to wait until taxes come in.

DEFER HEARING OF VOMBRACK IN WHISKY THEFTS

A hearing on charges of complicity in receiving stolen whisky was continued until April 18, after Theodore N. Vombrack, 44, of 1741 Adams st., said to be the head of a black market liquor syndicate, was arraigned yesterday in Felony court.

Vombrack, who is at liberty on $10,000 bonds, was seized Thursday by police who had sought him since a raid on his offices at 10 S. La Salle st. The raid followed a shooting in which a black market whisky buyer was wounded during a hijacking attempt. During the subsequent investigation, police arrested 10 persons, including Vombrack's wife, and confiscated 85 cases of stolen whisky.

CAPT. J. B. KERR OF MORGAN PARK STATION RESIGNS

Police Veteran Takes Corporation Post.

Capt. James B. Kerr of the Morgan Park police station and former chief of the park police yesterday announced his resignation to accept a position as personnel and security officer in a large corporation.

Capt. Kerr, who has been a member of the department since 1907, would have been retired April 9, in accordance with the department's 63 year age retirement law. He was chief of the park police from November, 1938, until April, 1940, while on leave of absence from the city police as lieutenant.

Cited Seven Times.

He has been a captain since May, 1940, and in charge of the Morgan Park station during that time. For years Capt. Kerr was in charge of the cartage detail at the detective bureau and established an enviable record in the arrest of hijackers. He has received six creditable mentions and one award of extra compensation for $180.

Capt. Kerr lives at 10410 S. Leavitt st. with his wife and family. Two sons, Earl and Raymond, are in the army and coast guard respectively; another, James B. Jr., is employed in the Tribune public service office. A daughter, Cora Mae, lives in Miami.

Lt. Charles O'Regan has been designated as acting captain at the station by Commissioner Allman.

Lt. Erlanson to Quit.

Lt. Otto Erlanson, 61, who has been in command of the police homicide and sex bureau since 1929, also announced his retirement from the department to take effect May 1. Lt. Erlanson, a member of the department for 37 years, said he planned to live with his wife, Nellie, in their country home in upper Michigan. Their home here is at 7853 Ridgeland av.

Lt. Erlanson for the last 15 years has worked on every important murder case in the city. He has been cited 14 times for meritorious service and received four awards of extra compensation. He said he would rest before making future plans.

FLAMES SWEEP TIRE STOCKPILE ON CANAL STREET

Fire yesterday swept thru a huge stockpile of approximately 250,000 tires in a lot owned by I. Mandelowitz and Son at 16th and S. Canal streets. Heavy smoke visible over the near south side area attracted hundreds of spectators. Damage was not estimated immediately. Firemen said the fire might have been generated spontaneously or spread from a fire set by children. Many of the tires were turned over to the government by motorists when rationing began.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS ACT ON VENEREAL TEST

Two Question Validity After Arrest.

The Illinois statutes providing for the segregation and treatment of persons affected with venereal diseases were upheld by the Illinois Supreme court in a decision in the advance sheets received by the Chicago Bar association yesterday.

The statutes giving the cities and counties authority to segregate and treat persons suffering from syphilis or gonorrhea, which were adopted by the legislature in 1919, were passed upon for the first time by the high court. The opinion was written by Justice William J. Fulton of Sycamore.

Two Petitions for Writ.

The test of the validity of the law was asked by Melba R. Baker and Marlin Ronen, who were arrested in East St. Louis on charges of prostitution. When arraigned before the police magistrate they were ordered to a clinic for examination for venereal diseases. They refused and filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

They appealed to the Supreme court when the Circuit court in St. Clair county held the 1919 law to be valid. The defendants maintained that the law deprived them of their liberty without due process of law.

Apply in Criminal Cases.

Justice Fulton pointed out in his opinion holding the law constitutional that the provisions of the statutes apply to only those arrested on a criminal charge and where there is evidence to sustain the belief that the defendant may be infected. The opinion stated in part:

"When the state employs its police power to safeguard public health it may act in a summary manner, even tho the result is to deprive a citizen of his liberty. The power to detain a person who is suspected of having a contagious or communicable venereal disease is within the police power of the state."

The case was remanded with instructions that the two defendants submit to the venereal tests.

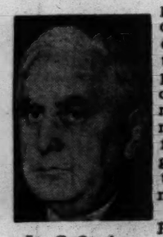
FARM MACHINE NEEDS OF U. S. TO COME FIRST

F. D. R. Says Congress to Act on Exports.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The controversial question of exporting farm machinery to war devastated countries at the expense of American farmers who need the equipment to meet food production goals brought these developments today:



Leo T. Crowley.

1. President Roosevelt declared at his press conference that farm machinery will not be shipped overseas thru the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration unless congress appropriates the funds, and said American needs will be considered first.

2. An investigation of the administration's handling of the farm machinery program and its plans for foreign shipments was proposed in a resolution introduced in the senate by Senators Clark [D., Mo.] and Gillette [D., Ia.]. Plans for diverting machinery to other nations thru UNRRA have been bitterly attacked in congress.

3. WPB Chairman Nelson told the senate banking and currency committee that he is concerned over the prospective shortages of farm machinery but hopes that schedules can be met this year.

Crowley Quits Alien Post.

In making public a basic policy statement on farm machinery exports in behalf of Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, President Roosevelt disclosed that Crowley has resigned as alien property custodian to devote his full time to the foreign economic administration which handles lend-lease operations and other foreign transactions. Crowley, often criticized for holding a number of key government jobs, retains the chairmanship of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

The President had requested the FEA policy statement apparently after Rep. Calvin D. Johnson [R., Ill.], charged recently that UNRRA was preparing to send more than 40 types of farm equipment to approximately a dozen European countries in a sweeping program of farm rehabilitation in war areas. Johnson had asserted that UNRRA plans called for shipping to these areas 30,000 tractors, 80,000 plows, 50,000 mowers, and 40,000 harrows, among other things.

Awaits Congress Approval.

Crowley, in a letter to the President, asserted that the FEA will not release its funds for farm machinery to UNRRA unless congress approves the necessary appropriations. He said that FEA will collaborate with the war production board and other war agencies in determining the quantity of farm machinery which could be shipped overseas without depriving American farmers of needed equipment.

Crowley told the President that less than 2 per cent of American farm machinery supplies have been shipped abroad under lend-lease. He said that the equipment had been sent mostly to Australia, New Zealand, and the United Kingdom to increase farm output, part of which has been used, he said, to feed American soldiers.

Crowley's resignation as custodian of 375 million dollars' worth of enemy held property in this country was reported in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last Feb. 17. Capitol hill observers said he relinquished the post after strong congressional criticism of his attempt to run three important government agencies at once.

Crowley was replaced as alien property custodian by James E. Markham, Lowell, Mass., who has been his top assistant in the agency since March, 1942.

Wedding Plans

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Frances Cuttle, graduated yesterday from the University of Chicago, and Lt. (j. g.) David Livingstone, to whom she will be married March 30 by his father.

The University of Chicago received gifts totaling $1,000,877 in the last eight months. This was announced yesterday by President Robert M. Hutchins at the 216th convocation held in Rockefeller Memorial chapel, when 161 were awarded degrees, 61 of whom are residents of Chicago. One-third of the graduates were absent, in military service or in war work.

Chester W. Wright, economics professor at the university, in addressing the graduates on "The Growing Responsibilities of the Citizen," said the history of the rise and decline of great powers shows that democracy depends on the performance of civic duties.

SPEED UP CALL OF MEN 18-25; DELAY OTHERS

Need Indorsements for Deferment.

special deferment requests for the younger men was described by Hershey as an interim procedure to enable employers to retain extremely skilled technicians needed in vital war industries.

As reported in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE yesterday, Hershey said permanent machinery will be established later under which specific war activities and plants will be designated as eligible for requesting deferments of men under 26. Such plants will be alloted a definite number of such deferments.

To carry out this special deferment program, the war man power commission has collaborated with other war agencies in establishing an inter-agency committee which will consider deferment requests for the key young men submitted by their employers. The committee will approve or reject the requests and forward the recommendations to state selective service directors. Later, the committee will establish quotas for deferment of men under 26 in designated activities and in specific plants.

May Include Railroads.

WMC officials said they secured an agreement from army and navy officials that such deferments will be considered for the railroad, logging, and coal mining industries in addition to others classed as supercritical.

The inter-agency committee procedure resulted from an agreement reached between Hershey and representatives of other war agencies who conferred this week.

Earlier in the day a house military affairs subcommittee inquired into the advisability of proposed measures to draft 4-Fs and men over the present 38 year old draft age limit for service in war plants and on farms. WPB Chairman Nelson said he favored such limited service for the men from 38 to 45 for the 4-Fs. He said such a plan was preferable to a national service law which would require all men and women to register for service in industry or agriculture.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. E. R. writes: "I was honorably discharged from the navy after less than a month's service. I applied for the mustering out pay, thinking that I was physically unfit for any service. Now I'm being drafted into the army and I've already received the severance pay check but have not cashed it. I'd like to return the check because I'll probably be eligible for more pay later on. If I returned the check, could I get my application and discharge papers back?"

ANSWER: No. The severance pay act states that only one payment may be made under the act—hence your right has ceased with the payment you hold.

P. L. asks: Please inform me of the proper procedure for an enlisted man in the infantry to follow in order to obtain a transfer to the army air corps for the purpose of aviation cadet training?"

ANSWER: Sect. II., war department circular 93, March 3, 1944, stops the acceptance of all applications from members of the army ground forces and army service forces for air or ground crew training with the army air forces. All pending applications are ordered disapproved and returned to the applicants.

J. G. writes: "I understand the army is seeking civilian instructors to teach illiterates. What authorities does one contact?"

ANSWER: Approximately 3,000 to 5,000 men and women will be needed. These are civil service appointments. Apply at the nearest civil service office.

J. K. H. writes: "I was discharged from the army Nov. 20, 1943 for disability. I lost one-third of my right arm while on duty in California. I applied for compensation and rehabilitation. My wife and I separated. I would like to know if she can receive any of this compensation? Can she make a claim for a part of it without my consent?"

ANSWER: Veterans' administration regulations provide that apportionment of a veteran's compensation may be made in the case of an "estrangement" provided the wife can convince the veterans' administration the estrangement was thru no fault of hers.

T. P. B. writes: "While I was in service, I carried $5,000 of national service life insurance. I have since been discharged. Can I increase it now? My buddy, still in the army, wrote and told me that men in service could not secure this insurance after Aug. 10, 1943. Is that correct?"

ANSWER: After service personnel leave the service, they cannot obtain additional new insurance; they can, within certain limitations, renew insurance that has lapsed because of nonpayment of premiums. The only significance of the date you mention is that after that date, men in service were required to pass another physical examination to take out insurance.

T. C. S. asks: "Does my son, a first lieutenant, have to salute a prisoner of war who is also an officer?"

ANSWER: Yes, but only officers of equivalent or higher rank; he must, however, return all salutes.

HEROES WITHOUT GLAMOR.

THE TRIBUNE the other day printed two letters from American soldiers who are risking their lives every hour of the day and night in the Italian battles. They were concerned over two things. One was the current discussions about their morale, which balderdash, one of them alleged, do more to undermine the morale under discussion than anything else. Their other concern was that the people back home should realize what a tough war they are fighting.

Replying to a synthetic pundit whose disquisition on morale had outraged the soldiers in his outfit, Staff Sgt. Daniel Rossi said:

"Mr. Lang says when the American soldier is asked what he is fighting for he doesn't know. Mr. Lang, I don't care for politics nor international foofaraw. They don't have to ask the boys in the South Pacific, do they? You said it, brother. All we want is to get it over with and go home. This is not a picnic. . . . It's high time they started paying homage to these rifle packing papas. As I have said before, they are not bulletproof."

"The folks back home," added Pvt. James V. Archiere from the Anzio beachhead, "think the war is practically over. They don't realize how, even in a little skirmish, we lose many lives."

It is a safe hazard that these two soldiers, and hundreds of thousands of their mates, feel as they do because they are in the infantry. The infantry has not had much notice in this war. The battles we have won it has won, but the headlines have gone elsewhere.

Air war is spectacular. Actually, as any flyer will testify, the day of the knight errant in air warfare is long past. Everything today is teamwork and, in the raids over Germany, hard, grinding, bloody teamwork. But air warfare has captured the popular imagination, while the essential role of the ground soldier is too often forgotten.

Perhaps the European war will be won in the air. It is to be hoped that it will, for despite the heavy losses of our flyers that way of destroying Germany will be far cheaper, in lives, than the projected ground invasion.

But, whatever may be the effect of bombing on the industrial machine of Germany, we recently had a demonstration, at Cassino, that air power by itself doesn't win battles. The town of Cassino was subjected to the most intensive bombardment, tonnage for area, that has ever been used in warfare. From the accounts of observers, the town was obliterated. But when the infantry moved in the German troops had emerged from their underground shelters and were still there fighting. They are still fighting, except where the infantry has driven them out.

Maj. Gen. Fuller, the British military critic, in a recent article asserted that the only difference between 1917 and 1944, in ground combat, is that today cannon can fly. The plane is flying artillery. The infantry still has to move in and occupy the contested ground. This has proved as true in the South Pacific as it has in Italy.

Morale is intangible, which is why its discussion invites so much nonsense. It is compounded of many things, both tangible and intangible—such things as rifles that shoot straight and quick, and cooks who make good flapjacks, and tough sergeants experienced at not getting killed, and officers who take the first risk.

From the psychological standpoint two things can be done for the soldiers in the mud. One is to quit hinting that they are ideological morons because they don't fall for globaloney any more than their folks do here at home. The other is to recognize, and to let them know that we know, that the dirty, bloody job they are doing in their foxholes is the job that has to be done to win the war.

Ever since the fall of chivalry, infantry has been called the queen of battles. Infantrymen shouldn't forget that. It still is.

EPITAPH.

Academic students of the two-party political system in America, among them William Bennett Munro, the California Institute of Technology historian and author, have hailed it as necessary for responsible government. The two-party system is the solvent father who pays for the mischief of willful and capricious children. A political party, they say, goes surety for its candidates and it becomes responsible for those candidates when it recommends them to the electorate. To turn office holders out at the end of their term is not sufficient punishment for inefficiency or misconduct. Somebody has to pay dearly for bad government and that somebody is the candidates' party.

The Democratic party, when it sold out to the New Dealers, gave bond for a group of office holders, headed by Mr. Roosevelt, who have proved themselves to be lawless men. Some of them have committed obvious malfeasances not far short of betrayal. Almost all of them have seized power beyond both law and necessity, have exercised that power as a personal right if not for personal gain, and have failed to preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution to which they swore allegiance. They have compounded these offenses by deliberate disregard for America's welfare and by ruthless destruction and dispersal of America's wealth and resources for the benefit of the European nations and monarchs whose causes they espouse.

They despise America as such. She is a means to their end and her laws are impediments to be hurdled or broken down to achieve that end. These office holders have not been impeached because the nation is hard at war, directed by the single purpose of winning the war. It has not been lack of evidence, but compromise with danger.

When it is not feasible to go out after the criminals, the court attaches the bonds and the bondsman pays. That is what the Democratic party is going to do on Nov. 7 when the New Deal case comes up for hearing. For a price, which included some 12 years of juicy patronage, the Democratic party wrote bond for the New Dealers. Some of the sensible and responsible men in the Democratic party are trying now to slide out from under that obligation thru a disavowal of the New Deal and its works. It is too late.

Political parties in this country have disintegrated and died for far less serious offenses than the Democrats committed in 1932 when they underwrote Mr. Roosevelt and his gang. The Donkey may not die with the New Deal but he seems doomed to become local fauna in his southern fastnesses. He was a likable beast and at times a respectable one, until he listened to the Roosevelt blandishments and his foolish avarice betrayed him.

INVITATIONS TO BANKRUPTCY.

The reports of the railroads on 1943 earnings show that they have made a remarkable record in paying off their debts out of their large earnings of the last three years. The New York Central alone reduced its obligations by more than 25 million dollars in 1943. But after making that cut the road still owed 892 million dollars—almost equal to the debt of our government in 1914.

Paying interest on nearly a billion dollars proved almost too much for the road in the 1930s, but it managed to stay out of the courts and is now on easy street if any organization owing 892 million dollars can be said to have that address. Railroads operating one-third of the nation's mileage, however, were less fortunate during the depression and were obliged to seek relief in bankruptcy.

The cause of the railroad embarrassments is well understood. The lines raised too much of their capital by borrowing and too little by sharing ownership—too much with bonds and too little with stocks. Many industrial concerns that did likewise were similarly unfortunate. Their competitors who financed themselves with equity capital instead of borrowed capital weathered the storm. To avoid going to the wall all they had to do was cut or eliminate dividends.

A wise government, therefore, would encourage firms to sell stocks instead of bonds. But it does just the reverse. For, under existing laws, interest on debt is deductible as a cost from earnings for income tax purposes, but dividend payments are not.

When a corporation prospered and it could make changes in its capital setup it should be able to call in bonds and issue stock. However, a short time ago a large Chicago company exchanged 7 per cent bonds for 7 per cent preferred stock that was outstanding. The stockholders who exchanged their holdings received just as much on their bonds as they had been receiving on their stock. But the company reduced its tax liability by a large amount by the change.

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board of governors and a topnotch New Dealer from the very beginning, in an article in the Federal Reserve bulletin for March, 1944, urges that this discrimination against the use of stocks in favor of bonds be ended. He says that the way to encourage the use of equity financing instead of debt financing is by doing away with the double taxation of corporate earnings.

At present corporate earnings are taxed twice. The corporation is taxed as the profits are made, and the owners are taxed on the same earnings when they receive them in the form of dividends. An individual owning an unincorporated business is taxed only once—when the profits are made. No additional levy is assessed when the money is withdrawn from the business.

Eccles would do away with this double taxation in one of two ways. Following the British method a tax would be collected from a corporation as now, but when dividends were disbursed the stockholders could take credit for all or a portion of the amount already paid by the corporation. The alternative suggested by Mr. Eccles is to tax the individual as now but relieve the corporation of paying taxes on the earnings of any year which were disbursed to stockholders in that year.

Mr. Eccles says that he makes these suggestions because under existing methods "investors are reluctant to supply equity funds, particularly to the small and new enterprises which are more risky than the larger, well established enterprises."

What an admission from the Roosevelt administration! The New Deal taxes were intended to crucify the big for the benefit of the small. But now one of the top men at Washington declares that the effects have been to make it impossible for the poor man to get financial backing. The Roosevelt administration has professed to help the common man or the forgotten man to better things. But what it has actually done has been to withhold opportunity from newcomers who are eager to climb the economic ladder and contest the position of the big, strongly entrenched companies.

MR. PEPYS TALKS SHOP.

25th March—Have received many letters from contributors, complaining because my column now stands on a foundation of tested facts on account of the paper shortage, but none of them has noted that it contains about as much print as before. This mystery is too long to explain, so I will pretend that it is due to the invention of rubber type, which is the oldest joke in the art of printing. Contributors Guy Finamore and Alexander Beifuss will understand, both being masterminds of printshops.

Went to the newspaper hall of fame in the La Salle hotel on St. Patrick's night, with many colleagues, to celebrate Jim Doherty's 25th anniversary, and there was a sound of revelry from 11 p. m. to 4 a. m., with the presentation of a fine watch as its climax. Asked several survivors when they got home, and the answers ranged from 6 to 7:30 a. m. It is now good form around this office to ask Mr. Doherty for the time of day and a peek at the inscription on his new ticker.

Had a letter from an American soldier, unknown to me, in Ireland, who asks if I can find any one to send him a copy of the Line o' Type every day, which is the reading he craves. He says, "About the only things people ever send are funny books and dime novels." Will supply his address to any one who volunteers. Heard that my old friend, Gene Markey, has shot a tiger in Jaipur, India, and become a captain, U. S. N. R.

And now to my dentist for repairs.

THE MOON IS LIKE . . .

The moon is like a shining scimitar.
O, may it cleave the insistent dark away,
And, shining full upon you where you are,
Whisper to you the things I long to say.

The moon is like a lovely ship of gold
Sailing across a sea of translucent blue.
With love and dreams the treasure in her hold
She holds a swift, unswerving course to you.

The moon is like a lantern in the night
To keep kind guard above us as we stand,
Waiting for the first rays of morning light
When we may take the high road, hand in hand.

O, lovely huntress of the skies, go find
My love, and tell him all that's in my mind!

The Lighted Window.

From my observation post I overlook a broad expanse of windows on the northern exposure of an apartment hotel on the lake front. Several years ago most of the windows were dark during the evening hours. Tenants were at clubs, movies, restaurants, night spots, or homes of friends.

It's different now. Because of gas rationing, practically all of the windows are brightly lighted every evening. But not for long. Most people don't like to stay up alone with their thoughts. About 10:30 lights begin to flick out. By 12:30 all are out except one. One, 1:30, 2, 3 . . . but that one lighted window still glows deep into the night.

Many a night I wonder what goes on behind that lighted window: A student completing a course before being called into the service of his country? An author writing the Great American Novel? A cartoonist finishing his daily stint? A chemist seeking an elusive formula? An inventor perfecting the final detail of a secret weapon?

One lighted window! How sound asleep most of us are to our responsibilities and opportunities. During the night we are going thru, we need more lights burning in the windows of America. Mine? Lord, no. I merely suffer from insomnia.

First Prize in Bank Names.

Among banks with peculiar names, at least honorable mention is due to the Kirtland Safety Society Antibanking company, organized at Kirtland, O., in 1836. Under the name, Kirtland Safety Society bank, it had applied for a charter from the state. A charter was refused. The promoters, arguing that they could not be stopped from doing a banking business if they announced that their institution was not a bank, adopted the antibanking title and sometimes referred to the concern as the No-Bank of Kirtland.

They issued notes designed to look as much as possible like bank notes, bearing the BANK syllable of the name in large capitals and the anti and ing in the smallest possible type. It was the era of wildcat state banks, most of which blew up in the panic of 1837 as promptly as did the No-Bank.

CARE FOR ACUTE KIDNEY INFLAMMATION.

WE CANNOT deny the fact that acute inflammation of the kidneys frequently follows exposure, especially if a chill has been experienced. As a rule, the onset is sudden and—if all goes well—recovery should occur within two to three weeks. By the end of this period, puffing should disappear and the blood pressure return to normal. In a few instances, however, albumin may continue to be exhibited in the urine for weeks or even months.

Fortunately, most cases are mild and 80 per cent or more will adhere to the pattern outlined above. We must not forget, however, that if the renal apparatus has been damaged previously, restoration to health may not come promptly. Complete stoppage of the secreting power of the structures may present a serious, even desperate situation.

More can be done for the sufferer if correct management is instituted at the start. With the abrupt appearance of swelling in any part of the body, particularly about the face or the lower legs, bed rest is a matter of prime necessity. Next in importance is the restriction of liquids, if the kidneys are irritated and the cells engorged. The amount of water that can be excreted may be very small. The more fluid taken, therefore, the more will be retained by the tissues. While thirst can be satisfied, we can eliminate common salt almost wholly and reduce beverages markedly.

Appetite is usually poor but this should last for just a few days. There is no occasion to urge food as the patient can get along or quite some time on one-third or less of his average intake. Other than salty or smoked edibles, let him have what he wishes. Meat may be eaten. Diets rich in protein have no effect one way or the other.

Altho recuperation may occur while the patient is up and about, the chances are against it. Such a one may develop a chronic disorder which will advance steadily with the years. Yes, quiet is demanded until the urinary flow becomes profuse and the blood pressure resumes its accustomed level.

During the convalescent interval the patient may walk about his room and take short strolls out of doors [if well clothed], despite the fact that the urine contains some albumin. It is rarely wise to force the structures to pass liquid thru their straining machinery. Hence, powerful drugs are not needed. There is no objection, however, to the administration of citrates.

The sulfonamides—which are of value in so many conditions—are useless in the treatment of nephritis. Only when the victim is in greater danger from an infection than he is from renal failure, should these remedies be employed.

There is no specific for kidney inflammation altho we can do everything possible not to overtax the injured organs with too much fluid and sodium salts. If swelling persists to an intense degree, and stubbornly refuses to let go, we may have recourse to plenty of protein without the addition of even a grain of common salt.

NERVE STRAIN.

Mrs. S. writes: When I entertain at home, especially while serving my guests, I develop a queer pulling sensation in my head and neck, I become dizzy, and feel pressure at the top of my head. What can cause this?

REPLY.

The symptoms point directly to nervous tension. Your sense of responsibility and your desire to make everything "go right" keeps the wires [nerves] taut. The muscles which they supply share the anxiety. The cultivation of a placid disposition—a don't-care attitude—will bring relief.

PULSE IS HIGH.

W. L. writes: Four weeks after removal of a toxic goiter, the pulse still runs up to 130 on the slightest exertion. Is this natural?

REPLY.

Yes, in some cases, altho the interval is rather long. A daily record should be made for comparison with the rate which existed prior to operation. Gradual return to normal may be anticipated.

SALT.

L. J. writes: I have been told that too much salt isn't good in the winter for any one. Is this true?

REPLY.

Too much is not good for any one at any time. The sodium part of the chemical [sodium chloride] can retain water within the tissues if employed to excess. During the warmer season we need more minerals whenever perspiration is profuse.

FEATHERS—HER NEST.

N. G. writes: I live in a very cold climate and love to sleep on a feather bed as I do not like heavy covers over me. My friends tell me this is bad for me. Are they right?

REPLY.

Harmful only if you are sensitive to feathers—chicken, goose, or what have you. If you are not allergic you will be comfy in your own little nest.

DIET IN ULCER.

S. J. writes: In a stomach ulcer, are there certain foods which aid healing?

REPLY.

Yes, those which absorb the free acid in the gastric juice. Otherwise, a bland diet is in order.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notes at Random.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The federal courtroom in which Charlie Chaplin is being tried is full of wits. In a way, it is rather comforting, as it helps to minimize the sordid aspects of this extremely sordid trial. The most timely remark of the week to date came when Chaplin's bookkeeper was telling of the sums expended to have Miss Joan Berry's white teeth straightened.

"Chaplin never would have done that," spoke up the nearest wit, "if he had had any idea Joan was going to put the bite on him."

All in the immediate hearing circle smile gaily at this. It produces a round of sallies.

"Look at Chaplin," one said. "See how he watches Giesler [his attorney]. That cold, calculating look? Remember 'The Gold Rush'?" And he cites an old Chaplin picture which was renovated and reissued a year or two ago. "Remember the man in there who, every time he looked at Chaplin, saw a chicken instead?" The circle nods. "You know what Giesler's fees are like? [His fee for getting Errol Flynn acquitted last year supposedly ranged from $25,000 to $100,000.] Well, every time Chaplin looks at Giesler I'll bet Giesler turns into a dollar sign."

The most impressive male in the courtroom is Joseph Scott, a tall, handsome man with snowy hair, underneath which fierce, black eyebrows jut out fully an inch, an umbrella sufficient for any rainstorm. A celebrated lawyer and speaker, he was the keynoter at the Republican convention that first nominated Herbert Hoover in 1928.

He sits back, here merely as an auditor, and takes mental notes on how Miss Berry conducts herself on the witness stand. They may stand him in good stead later, for he is her attorney in the civil paternity suit, in which she charges Chaplin is the father of her baby girl. Miss Berry smiles only once during the day. That is when she spots Scott. She flashes a swift smile that irradiates her entire face, an extraordinary transformation from the nervous, hesitant girl testifying.

The judge, a squat, almost square little man, is dwarfed by the immensity of his bench and the extraordinarily dull, red velvet backdrop, set in a walnut frame, behind his bench. You expect the velvet folds to open at any time and the judge to disappear, but the only untoward act he performs is to split an infinitive.

This causes a lady novelist to sigh. She dutifully reports this lapse of grammar to the only other true literati within range, a French playwright, who is present looking for la passion. If la passion is in the courtroom, it is well muted. So far, no one has screamed or sobbed.

The tendency to find an analogy between the trial and one of Chaplin's old silent films seems to be irresistible. Some of the titles offered by the wits in the last few days have been "Tillie's Punctured Romance," one of the few five reelers he made for Keystone; "The Cruel, Cruel Love," "Recreations," "Those Love Pangs," "Getting Acquainted," "His Prehistoric Past," and the one that drew most of the votes, "A Gentleman of Nerve."

Chaplin's single essay into the realm of script writing is out. It was a thing called "A Woman of Paris," a melodrama in which the girl's sweetheart committed suicide. Chaplin did not star in it.

The courtroom itself is a marvel of modern comfort. It is soundproof and air conditioned, and the only person in it who seems as impervious to these delights as he seems to be to the testimony is the court clerk. Bald, stolid, impassive, he sits and stares moodily ahead, as empty of suspense as a retired faro dealer. To him this is criminal jury trial No. 16,617, and he knows that No. 16,618 will inevitably follow

WHITE COLLAR PROTEST.

Chicago, March 22.—There was just one thing wrong with the letter of J. L. R. on "Pampering the Defense Worker," and that was your treatment of it. You should have put it on page 1. As another white collar worker who is sick of living from hand to mouth and watching my standard of living and that of my young son go lower and lower every day while a lot of defense workers reap a golden harvest which they immediately squander on luxuries always beyond the reach of the white collar worker, I would like to shake the hand of J. L. R. It is an axiom among plant managers that about 90 per cent of the defense workers, particularly women, come into the plants for the sole purpose of getting big money and finding romance.

I have a college degree, 15 years of experience in a highly specialized white collar profession and I am getting less money now than I did during the depression, not counting these hideous deductions which are being thrown away by government waste and other nonsense in taking care of our "brethern" half a world away, whom we shall never see, who would certainly not lift a finger to help us were the situation reversed, and who will probably spit in our faces when the war is over.

Talking and writing letters is getting us forgotten people nowhere fast! One of the great handicaps of the white collar worker is that he is not organized. How about a strike among us? How long would the offices, professions, and other enviable centers of activity function?

I, for one, will not be among those suckers who contribute to the support of a lot of late lamented defense heroes when the war is over, while they loll around living on relief. Before I allow my money to be used that way, I'll go on relief myself!

PRICE CEILINGS.

Chicago, March 20.—After reading of Mrs. Peterson's trouble about the sale of her refrigerator, I wondered just what our men are fighting for. My husband expects to be inducted in the near future and we are forced to break up our home and sell our furnishings in order to make adjustments to our new income and take care of our young son properly. If we are forced to sell our belongings at a loss as great as the OPA sets in its ceiling prices, how will we be able to refurnish a home when and if my husband returns? I think this is absolutely unconstitutional.
WONDERING.

OLDER WORKERS' PROBLEMS.

Chicago, March 19.—The man power commission wants older men to transfer from nonessential jobs to war jobs. Many of these men have piled up years of service in their present vocations and are loath to change because the following questions stare them in the face:

1. If they do transfer to war jobs will they get their old jobs back after the war is over or will they have to compete with returned soldiers for these jobs?
2. Will their seniority rights be protected?
CLAY T. HELD.

THE PEDESTRIAN GETS SNOWED IN.

Chicago, March 21.—For the information of Mrs. J. H., courts have repeatedly ruled against laws to compel property owners to remove ice and snow from sidewalks. Not only is the owner or occupant not responsible for the elements, but it is impossible to keep walks entirely clear at all times. How does Mrs. J. H. cross the streets in snowy weather? The majority of residents do a good job of snow removal. The worst offenders are the city of Chicago and Chicago park district which run plows thru the streets and boulevards heaping high drifts of snow for pedestrians to wade thru and throwing snow back on walks which have been previously cleaned.

The walks on Sheridan rd. and in Lincoln park, in particular, are often not passable a week after a snowstorm, while drives are plowed and even scraped clean. Pedestrians are taxpayers and are entitled to at least as good service as given out of town motorists who are not taxpayers in Chicago.
PROPERTY OWNER.

LANDLORDS' PROFITS.

Chicago, March 22.—The OPA rent control division tried to justify its unreasonable regulations in freezing apartment rents by stating that landlords are showing a greater profit since rent control went into effect than they did before. They contend that due to increased occupancy the landlords do not suffer the rent loss they had before.

I, for one, want to tell the rent control division that they are all wet. Being a property owner who rented apartments at a rental consistent with reasonable profit, I never suffered from vacancies. But now I must pay increased costs with no opportunity to offset these increases by raising rents. I think that the mathematician who figured this out for the OPA better sharpen his pencil and try again.

AUSTRALIA.—March 7.—May I congratulate Mildred D. Smith in voicing a feeling about radio advertising propaganda that many other people surely must resent.

A friend sent the paper to me in New Guinea which I, in turn, showed to my shipmates. They also wonder where human dignity has gone to, when such slush and slather is poured upon their ears. We should stop it with a worldwide roar of protest.

J. K.

1. You had the right to exclude them. While Jehovah's Witnesses have won many recent cases involving their right to distribute literature and to propagate their faith, none of the cases has involved an invasion of private premises over objection of the owner. They had no legal right to do this. One course would be to call the police. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SENATORS VOTE TVA FUND CURB; LASH WALLACE

His 'Trickery' Charge Is Called 'Damnable.'

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—In a hot tempered session in which senators angrily denounced Vice President Wallace's use of the words "parliamentary trickery," the senate today voted to strip the administration's Tennessee Valley authority of its financial autonomy and make it come to congress for funds.

Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], author of the restrictive legislation, denounced the Vice President's remarks as "damnable." Sen. Clark [D., Mo.] charged the Vice President with "brazenly" disregarding the senate's parliamentary rules.

The senate voted 39 to 26 to incorporate in the $8,577,933,978 independent offices appropriations bill an amendment denying TVA, public power agency, the right to use its power and fertilizer receipts to finance its operations. Later, without administration protest, the senate adopted an amendment requiring senatorial confirmation of all federal employes drawing $4,500 a year or more.

General Fund of Treasury.

Under the McKellar proposal, upon which the house has yet to act, TVA's receipts would have to be paid into the general fund of the treasury. Its spending would be limited strictly to such money as congress appropriated.

Majority Leader Barkley [Ky.] contended the agency would be "crippled" if unable to use its receipts to meet operating emergencies "like any other utility."

Previously bitter debate centered around McKellar's charges that TVA Chairman David E. Lilienthal played Tennessee politics—accusations denied by Lilienthal. But this fight was overshadowed by that touched off today by a parliamentary point of order.

The senate voted 46 to 17 to force Wallace to submit for its decision the question of the "germaneness" of the McKellar amendment.

Calls It "Trickery."

Wallace previously had refused to do so on the ground that it amounted to "a parliamentary trick" to prevent a vote on another point of order: that the amendment involved legislation which had no place in an appropriations bill.

"I denounce the statement of the chair that I've undertaken to trick the chair," McKellar shouted furiously. "I think it's damnable for any one to say that. I don't resort to tricks. It should be withdrawn."

Wallace, asserting he meant no reflection on McKellar, said he was "happy to do so." However, he insisted on ruling the amendment improperly offered.

Clark then jumped up to demand that the senate overrule Wallace, asserting the question at issue was "whether the Vice President can openly, flagrantly and brazenly disregard the rules of the senate in ruling that an amendment is not germane."

After forcing the Vice President to submit the question, the senate subsequently by voice vote overruled his decision. Subsequently Wallace overruled the second point of order on the ground that the senate already had settled the issue by its previous vote.

SENATE PASSES SERVICE MEN'S 'BILL OF RIGHTS'

Washington, D. C., March 24 [Special].—The "GI" bill of rights, a war veterans' aid measure providing for hospitalization, education, vocational training, loans for homes, farms and businesses, employment service, and unemployment benefits, was passed by a 49 to 0 vote of the senate tonight and sent to the house, where early concurrence is expected.

The vote would have been much larger had it not been called up after many senators had departed. In effect, the bill had been passed before it reached the floor, as it bore the signatures of 81 senators.

Formal approval came after the measure, which had been endorsed by the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and numerous labor organizations, had been under consideration less than an hour. Most of the questions asked Senator Clark [D., Mo.], who introduced the bill, were aimed at clarifying its many provisions.

Estimate 3 Billion Cost.

Estimates of the cost of the measure have run from 3 to 3½ billion dollars. Its provisions would be made available to men and women alike.

In carrying out the legislation, the veterans administration would hold a status second only to the war and navy departments in priorities in personnel, equipment, supplies, and materials. Authorization is given for the construction of 500 million dollars' worth of additional hospital facilities as the first step.

Educational opportunities in institutions ranging from elementary schools to universities, would be made available for at least a year to those who served on or after Sept. 10, 1940. They would be available up to two years after the date of the honorable discharge of the veteran, or two years after the war. In some instances studies could be pursued for four years.

Receive Subsistence Fund.

While undergoing schooling the veterans would receive, besides up to $500 a year in tuition fees, allotments of $50 a month for subsistence. Those with dependents would be allowed $25 a month additional.

The loans proposed by the measure would be limited to a maximum of $1,000 and would be available for approved purchases or improvements of homes, farms, and business establishments. There would be no interest the first year, but thereafter a rate of 3 per cent would be assessed.

Employment service would be established thruout the country by the United States employment service, with federal representatives assigned to concentrate upon the problems of veterans.

Unemployment benefits would range from $15 to $25 a week, starting four weeks after receipt of mustering out pay by the veteran and continuing for a maximum of 52 weeks. A veteran would be entitled to $15 a week, plus $5 for one dependent, $8 for two dependents, and $10 for three or more dependents.

HOW SENATE VOTED TO STRIP TVA OF ITS POWER OVER FUND

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Following is the vote by which the senate today wrote into the independent offices appropriations bill an amendment stripping the Tennessee Valley authority of its revolving fund and limiting its expenditures to congressional appropriations.

FOR THE AMENDMENT.

DEMOCRATS—Bailey, Byrd, Clark [Mo.], Connally, Eastland, George, Gerry, Gillette, Hayden, Johnson [Colo.], Maloney, Maybank, McCarran, McClellan, MacFarland, McKellar, Overton, Russell, Smith, Tydings, Walsh [Mass.]—21.

REPUBLICANS—Brewster, Bridges, Buck, Bushfield, Hawkes, Holman, Millikin, Reed, Revercomb, Robertson, Thomas [Idaho], Vandenberg, Weeks, Wherry, White, Wiley, Willis, Wilson—18.

AGAINST THE AMENDMENT.

DEMOCRATS—Andrews, Bankhead, Barkley, Bone, Chandler, Downey, Hill, Mead, O'Mahoney, Radcliffe, Stewart, Thomas [Utah], Tunnell, Wagner, Wheeler—15.

REPUBLICANS—Aiken, Austin, Ball, Burton, Butler, Capper, Danaher, Davis, Langer, Shipstead—10.

PROGRESSIVE—La Follette—1.

The following pairs were announced: Brooks [R.] for, and Guffey [D.], against; Walsh [D., N. J.], for, and Hatch [D.], against; Thomas [D., Okla.], for, and Jackson [D.], against; Kilgore [D.], for, and Ellender [D.], against.

The following, not recorded as voting, were announced as against adoption of the amendment: Truman, Pepper, Lucas, Murray, Green, Clark [Idaho], Wallgren, all Democrats.

DEMOCRAT TEAM UPSETS ITS OWN TVA FORMATION

Republicans Enjoy Foes' Errors.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The senate Democratic infield blew up today. The pitcher lost his control; the catcher lost the ball; the outfield got into a scrap.

The Democrats then called for time out during which the gleeful Republicans helped them override the umpire, Vice President Wallace.

This all occurred when the Democrats in the senate began fighting among themselves over the Tennessee Valley authority.

McKellar on Mound.

Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.] was pitching amendments, but he didn't like the signals of Catcher Barkley [D., Ky.], the majority leader.

Shortstop Chandler [D., Ky.] tried in vain to get the battery together, even appealing to Umpire Wallace, who then found himself faced with the problem of making a parliamentary decision between squabbling Democrats.

Half the Democratic team liked his decision. Half didn't. The half that didn't appealed to the Republicans to help overrule the decision.

Fine! What Is It?

The Republicans, who had taken no particular interest in the dispute except to chuckle, thought this was a fine idea, altho nobody was certain what the dispute was about.

By the time the vote was ordered, both sides were shouting that nobody knew what they were voting on. One vote had been cast when there was another demand that Wallace explain what it was all about.

Minority Leader White [R., Me.] said it was too late to bring that up now, so the voting went on.

Vote 46 to 17—for What?

McKellar tried to explain, but he was drowned out by Right Fielder Stewart [D., Tenn.], who was making a final plea for somebody to explain. So McKellar and Stewart, like two players who collide chasing a fly ball, sat down simultaneously.

The vote was 46 to 17 and when it was over Umpire Wallace enlightened the senators. They had voted to override his ruling.

No one will ever know for sure, but this is the general idea of what it was all about:

McKellar had made numerous complaints limiting the TVA in the 8½ billion dollar independent offices bill.

Drops All But One.

They brought such protest that he dropped them all yesterday except the major amendment—providing that TVA must turn all its receipts into the federal treasury and come to congress for appropriations with which to operate. This amendment was passed later, 39 to 26.

The objection to it was that it was not fitting in an appropriation bill. But the objection and the ruling were obscured in the debate that followed.

A regulation baseball nine took part in the Democratic dispute: Barkley, McKellar, Chandler, Stewart, Tydings [Md.], Hill [Ala.], Bone [Wash.], Clark [Mo.], and Bankhead [Ala.].

YANKS OPPOSE BEING KEPT IN PEACE SERVICE

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—A warning was voiced in the house today by Rep. Clason [R., Mass.] that millions of American troops are unalterably opposed to administration proposals that they be kept in uniform for an indefinite period after the end of the war.

Rep. Clason.

Clason said there had been bitter reaction among men in uniform to a statement carried in the Jan. 18 edition of the army newspaper, "Stars and Stripes," by Selective Service Director Hershey that soldiers and sailors should be kept in uniform until jobs await them.

He read an excerpt from a soldier's letter to the editor of the army's publication.

Hitler Tactics Recalled.

"Compulsory military service for an indefinite period of time after the war," it said, "would be regimentation. It is an ugly trend. Hitler used similar tactics to solve his unemployment problem. Ours is a free country. We want it to remain that way."

The present law provides, the soldier-writer noted, that the men are in the military services for the duration of the war, plus six months.

"We are all looking forward to the end of the war for personal as well as patriotic reasons," he wrote. "To change the law would be a cruel blow to all our hopes and dreams for the future."

Called Typical View.

Clason said the letter typified the average viewpoint of the serviceman toward plans for keeping him in the army after the fighting has ceased.

"If a law embodying the viewpoint expressed by Gen. Hershey should be passed, it would be a terrific blow to our morale in the armed forces," Clason read from the soldier's letter.

"When this war is ended we shall require a standing army of only a fraction of the size of the 11,000,000 man army which we shall have on hand.

Held Economic Question.

"Whether or not we shall have jobs in civilian life will depend upon government plans for reconversion of industry to peace time production. But in any case, the problem of full time employment is not a military problem; it is an economic question.

"To compel men to remain in the army merely because jobs are not immediately available is a rank injustice."

SENATE SAVES LIFE OF FEPC, THEN KILLS IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—The senate passed a measure late today to save the President's fair employment practices committee and then reconsidered the proposal and defeated it after a debate in which the name of Edgar G. Brown figured. Brown is president of the National Negro council and candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman from the 2d district in Chicago.

The senate was considering an amendment to an appropriation bill which would cut off the funds of any agency established by executive order that has been in existence for more than one year without a specific appropriation from congress. The amendment was offered by Sen. Russell [D., Ga.].

An amendment exempting the FEPC was offered by Sen. Buck [R., Del.]. It was passed. In the controversy that followed, the amendment was attributed by Democratic senators to the influence of Brown, who has been active in support of the FEPC, on the ground that it protects colored people in industry. The Buck amendment was reconsidered and then defeated after several Democrats had switched their vote.

CHUNGKING, March 24 [AP].—A Chinese who arrived from Shanghai said many Japanese civilians, foreseeing defeat, are marrying Chinese girls and registering property in their wives' names.

'DAY by DAY on the FARM.

The FARM by Gail Compton

March 24, 1944.

THE Aberdeen-Angus herd which was started last year rounds out the farm's picture of beef production without playing favorites.

The herd consists of 42 heifers brought up from the Fox river farm where the breed has been established for a number of years. The little black animals were turned to pasture when they arrived last summer and since then have been receiving the same treatment as the Shorthorn herd. Their quarters are at the south end of the farm in the remodeled sheep barn.

A bull was borrowed from the Fox river farm and all of the heifers have been bred. The first Angus calves should start to arrive in May and continue arriving thruout most of the summer.

Fatten Economically.

All of the cattle have been tested for Bang's disease, and most of them have passed their tuberculosis tests. Those animals which have not been t. b. tested are awaiting a visit from the veterinarian.

The men at the farm would be hard put to answer the question, "What kind of beef animal do you like best?" The Angus are liked because when fat they have a finish that almost invariably makes them grade prime when they go to market. Altho frisky in the feedlot they can make economical gains.

Comparison Possible.

The Herefords are favored for their grazing and fattening abilities. They are good users of roughage and are easy to handle. They are good rustlers on pasture and can make cheap bone growths that spell profit for the farmer.

The Shorthorns are favored as the largest of the three beef types. Good dispositions make them easy to handle in the feedlot or in the show ring. They are good milkers and consequently good mothers. They also are good feeders and can put on weight quickly.

Next fall the cattle feeding yard should present an interesting sight with Herefords, Angus, and Shorthorn steers vying with each other for first place at the feed bunks. It will make for some interesting comparisons in rate and cost of gain for the three breeds.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

A COMPARATIVELY new variety of carrots, Touchon, was planted in the gardens of the experimental farm last season, and was found so excellent in texture and flavor that it will be the main variety this season. It is hardy, being plantable in early April, and the roots are edible at any stage of growth. The main reason for its high recommendation is that it retains its crispness thruout the season, in contrast to some varities which become woody and fibrous.

Touchon is one of the few carrot varieties which can be planted early in the season for table use and replanted in midseason for storage in a root cellar. The farm gardener is still using carrots of this variety which were stored in a garden trench last fall.

Other varieties which have proved successful in the farm gardens are Nantes Half-Long, for early planting, and Improved Chantenay and Danvers, for late planting. Tendersweet, highly recommended by master gardeners, has not yet been tried in the farm gardens.

A $250,000 GIFT TO SECRETARY IN WILL IS BLOCKED

Papers Signed with X Refused by Court.

Judge John F. O'Connell of the Probate court yesterday threw out an X signed death bed will of an elderly editor which left virtually all of his $250,000 estate to his woman secretary. At the same time Judge O'Connell admitted an earlier will, bequeathing her only $10,000. Completion of the case also illustrated the high cost of probating a disputed estate.

The editor was Dr. Nicholas Von Schill, 78, head of the Clinical Journal of Chiropody, Podiatry, and Pedic Surgery, who died July 10, 1943, in his home at 9730 Winston av. His secretary was Miss Charlotte Dyck, 38.

Will Signed with X.

Dr. Von Schill left two wills. The first, made May 25, 1941, left $10,000 in trust for his incompetent son, Hugo; $10,000 to Miss Dyck; $5,000 to M. A. Sullivan, a business associate, and the rest for the establishment of a free chiropodic clinic. It also named Miss Dyck and a Paul Schlundt as trustees.

The second will, made only six hours before Dr. Von Schill's death, made Miss Dyck sole beneficiary of his estate, at the time estimated at only $100,000. The doctor, too weak to write his name, had signed the document with an X.

The second will was attacked by the public administrator's office because it was signed with an X, and because the estate was left to some one not a member of Dr. Von Schill's family. Judge O'Connell ordered an inquiry.

Probate Costs $17,000.

Judge O'Connell yesterday then invalidated the will on technical grounds because the witnesses had signed it both before and after Dr. Von Schill's death. Miss Dyck's attorney, William J. Grace, said he would not appeal.

The court then approved the first will, and at the same time fixed fees for the various attorneys and others who participated in the case. William C. Iwert and Schlundt were each awarded $5,000; Atty. Edgar A. Jonas was allowed $1,500. Public Administrator Dempsey was given the same amount, and Don Peebles, Dempsey's attorney, was awarded $3,500. Fred Steers, guardian for Dr. Von Schill's son, was awarded $500.

AUTO-BUS CRASH KILLS MOTORIST; 11 WOMEN HURT

William Swanke, 18, of 1007 Oakland av., Joliet, was killed and Arthur Kapella, 1224 Clement st., Joliet, a passenger in Swanke's car, was injured seriously early yesterday when their car crashed headon with a Joliet city lines bus loaded with women war workers on Railroad st., near McDonough st., in Joliet. Eleven of the bus passengers suffered minor injuries.

Joliet police said the bus, driven by Lavon Wolff, 206 4th av., Joliet, was over the center of the road. Wolff was charged with reckless driving.

The impact of the collision sent Swanke's car against a second passenger car which sidewiped another city lines' bus following Wolff. No one in the second car or bus was injured.

Gertrude Holloway, 5, Negro, of 4314 Cottage Grove av., was killed when she ran into the side of a moving truck near her home. The driver was Patrick Knight, 27, of 8341 Rhodes av.

MANY OFFICIALS ATTEND RITES FOR KAVANAGH

Services for Maurice F. Kavanagh, member of the Cook county board since 1922, were held yesterday in St. Jarlath's church, 1725 Jackson blvd., with burial in All Saints' cemetery. The Catholic mass was attended by more than 600 city officials and dignitaries.

Other members of the county board acted as honorary pallbearers. In his honor, the county building was closed except for the fee offices, which must remain open by law. Mr. Kavanagh came to Chicago from Michigan about 60 years ago and entered politics soon afterward, serving as alderman and county board member.

He died Thursday in his home at 113 N. Homan blvd., after a long illness. He was 74 and unmarried. Surviving are two brothers, James and John Kavanagh, and a sister, Anna.

W. H. THOMPSON LEAVES $150,000; WILL IS SOUGHT

Former Mayor William Hale Thompson, who died March 19, left an estate valued at $150,000, it was indicated yesterday in proceedings in the Probate court. Of that amount, $25,000 is listed as personal property.

Judge John F. O'Connell appointed Thompson's widow, Mary, 1420 Lake Shore dr., administrator of the estate. Letters of administration are usually granted where no will has been made, or if one has been made and cannot be found.

James W. Breen, the family lawyer, said that Thompson made a will but it has not yet been found. The missing will made Mrs. Thompson principal beneficiary. Even without a will, it is probable that she will receive all the estate, altho Thompson left a brother, a sister, and several nieces and nephews.

MRS. MARY KING SERVICES HELD IN ST. IGNATIUS

Services for Mrs. Mary McMahon King, 1327 Pratt blvd., mother of Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson, whose husband is publisher of the New York Daily News, were held at 9:30 a. m. yesterday in St. Ignatius church. Burial was in Mount Carmel cemetery. The Rev. F. G. Dineen, S. J., pastor of the church, said the requiem high mass. Mrs. King, widow of Dr. William King, died Tuesday in Riverdale, N. Y., where she was visiting at the home of her daughters, Lulu and Loretta King. Besides her three daughters she is survived by two sons, Francis and William King.

FINED ON WOMAN'S CHARGE.

William Flowers, 36, of 5300 Wabash av., was fined $100 and costs yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in State Street court on a disorderly conduct charge made by Mrs. Hazel Morisette, 30, of 807 E. 55th st., who said he had molested her.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN TRAIN DEATH OF DRAFTEE, 36

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane in the death of Paul Anthony Lorenz, 36, a navy inductee, of Flushing, N. Y., who stepped in front of a North Shore line train Thursday at the County Line road west of Highland Park. Officers at the Great Lakes Naval Training station said Lorenz reported at the station with other draftees, then left the station without permission.

Bessie Cowles Is Bride Today of Lt. Armour

BY JUDITH CASS.

FEW war time newlyweds are able to find a sweet little rose covered cottage for two, or even a one room kitchenette, in which to start their married lives at some crowded army or navy post. Living quarters are particularly scarce at Wendover field, Utah, where Lt. Lester Armour Jr. of the army air forces and Miss Bessie Cowles will be living after their marriage today, but their problem was solved when the bridegroom purchased a trailer which will be "home" to the Armours at Wendover field, and probably at any other post to which he might be sent, until he goes overseas again.

The handsome ivory satin gown which Miss Elizabeth Cheney of South Manchester, Conn., wore when she and Alfred Cowles were married in 1890 has been taken out of its wrappings for the second time in two years for the marriage of one of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cowles' granddaughters. The gown was worn two years ago this month by the former Miss Edith Cowles, now Mrs. Joseph N. Greene Jr., sister of today's bride, along with the same cap and veil which today's bride is wearing, heirlooms from the family of their mother, Mrs. Knight C. Cowles.

In contrast to her sister's large church wedding, Miss Cowles and Lt. Armour will be married in the presence of their two families at 4:30 p. m. in Mr. and Mrs. Cowles' Lake Forest residence. A larger reception will follow at 5 p. m. Mrs. Greene has come from Ottawa, Ont., to be the matron of honor, and Miss Ann Carpenter will serve as maid of honor. Also attending the bride will be Lt. Armour's sisters, Mrs. Gerald V. Hollins Jr. and 6 year old Leola Armour.

Lt. Armour's uncle, Philip D. Armour, will be his best man. Ushering will be Lt. Armour's brother, Vernon Armour, who is at home from St. Mark's school; Philip D. Armour Jr., Capt. Norman Mackie of Philadelphia, and Lt. Robert Sherwin of New York, both of the army air forces, and Charles Wacker, a naval air cadet.

Miss Cowles' grandmother, Mrs. Francis D. Smith, and aunt, Mrs. George Blagden Hazelhurst, have come from Colorado Springs, Colo., for the wedding. Also here are Mrs. Cheney Cowles of Spokane, Wash., and Mrs. Armour's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wells of New Orleans, La. Missing from the family circle are the bridegroom's father, Comdr. Armour, who is in England, and Stanton Armour, on duty with the navy.

Birth News.

The arrival Thursday of Brooks McCormick Jr. at the Presbyterian hospital is a cause for rejoicing in the Chauncey McCormick family. The baby, who was named for his father, is the second child of Brooks McCormick and the former Hope Baldwin, who have a 20 months old daughter, Martha. Chauncey McCormick was on hand to greet his first grandson, but Mrs. McCormick is in Florida to see their eldest son, Lt. C. Deering McCormick of the navy, who now is stationed there after many months at sea. Lt. Roger S. McCormick of the army air forces and his bride of a few weeks ago, the former Annette McClaran, have departed on a delayed wedding trip following his discharge from a hospital here.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Everard Hamor [Virginia Frost] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Lois Everard, yesterday in Passavant hospital. The baby has a little sister, Mary Hughitt, who is the namesake of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles S. Frost of Lake Forest.

Engagement News.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Shaw of Hyannis, Mass., announce the engagement of their daughter, Priscilla Morrison, to Ensign Grant Carruthers Chave, son of Prof. and Mrs. Ernest J. Chave of Harper av. Miss Shaw, who just was graduated from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, will begin teaching vocal music next month in Lorain, O. Her fiancé took his degree last fall from Oberlin and has gone to Florida for specialized training following his graduation from the naval reserve midshipman's school at Northwestern university. His father is connected with the divinity school of the University of Chicago.

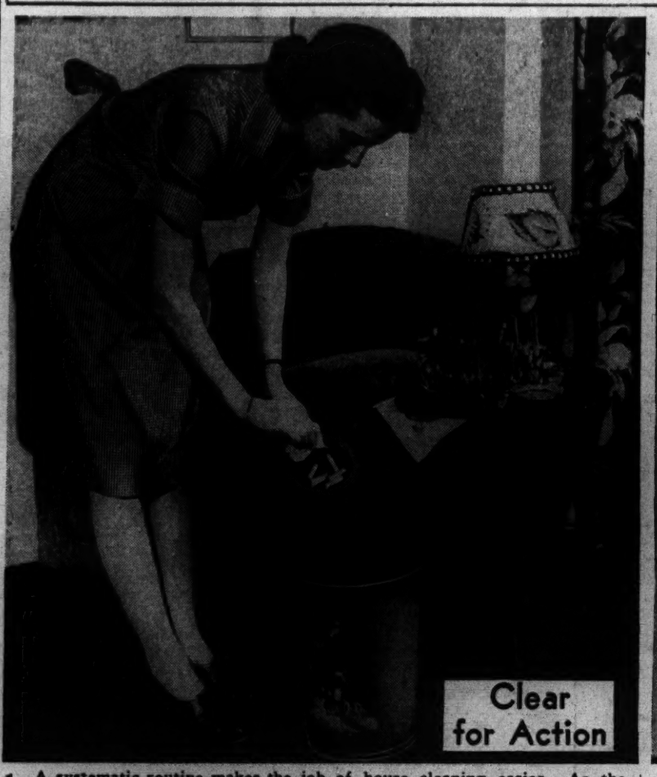
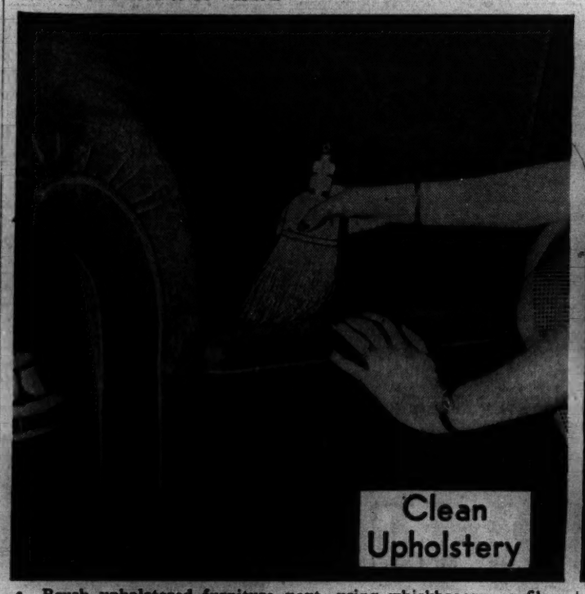
Here Are Helpful Hints on House Cleaning; System Is the Secret of Success



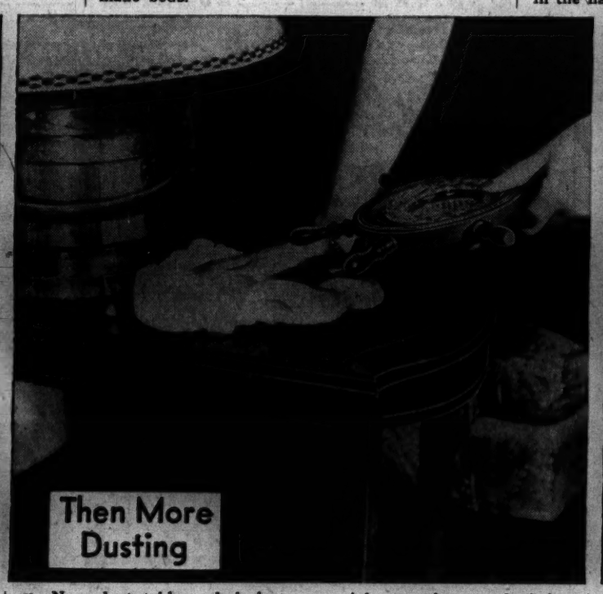
1. A systematic routine makes the job of house cleaning easier. As the first step, straighten room, pick up all stray articles, collect newspapers and trash, and empty ash trays and waste baskets. Take out on tray all articles that need to be washed.

2. Assemble cleaning equipment. Carry dust cloth, brush, cleanser, and polish in basket. Before dusting, clean fireplace, and in bedroom make beds.

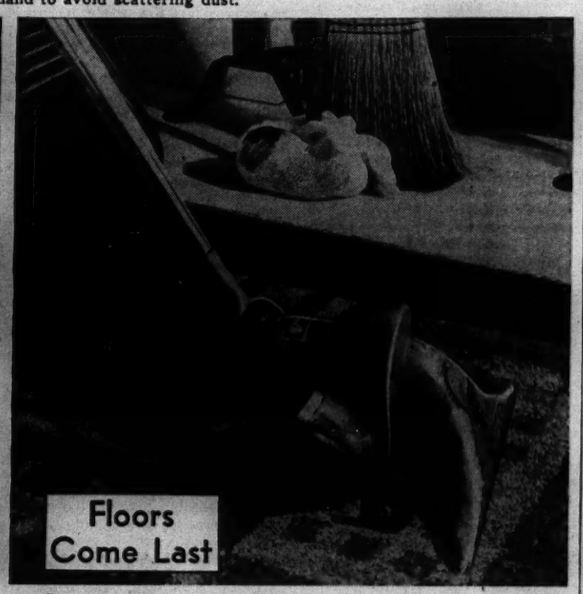
3. Because dust will drop on lower surfaces to be cleaned later, first dust high places—moldings, pictures, mirrors, mantlepiece, etc., then high furniture such as bookcases and cabinets. Hold the dust cloth firmly in the hand to avoid scattering dust.



4. Brush upholstered furniture next, using whiskbroom or fiber brush. Employ short, firm strokes to keep dust from flying. Clean under all cushions. Vacuum cleaner attachments may be substituted here.



5. Now dust table and desk tops, articles on them, and chairs. Apply polish when needed. Remove finger spots on woodwork, lamp bases, etc., using a mild cleansing powder on a damp sponge or cloth if necessary.



6. Clean floors with dust mop and vacuum. Be sure to get under edges of carpet. Then vacuum rugs. Place small rugs on large rug for easiest cleaning. Take out the cleaning equipment—and the job is done!

On the Record

—By Claudia Cassidy—

Titanic Trio.

Suppose some one had told you, a few years ago, that Jascha Heifetz, William Primrose, and Emanuel Feuermann would be downtown tomorrow night, playing Mozart's Divertimento in E-flat major, for violin, viola, and 'cello [Köchel 563], would you have walked, run, or telegraphed for tickets? Of course, no one could tell you that today, because Feuermann is dead. But his tone, that warm, rich, intensely alive tone, has not vanished while we have records. You will find it here [Victor M-959; four 12 inch records] in the best of company, playing the lovely score that was in a way Mozart singing for his supper, since he wrote it to please Michael Puchberg, who kept him from starving. It is friendly music, touched with the genius that was Mozart's constant companion, and it is played with something more than musicianly brilliance. These three men, each then at the peak of his profession, sound as if they were having a peck of fun.

Budapest Beethoven.

Budapest Quartet collectors, who hoard legitimate treasure, are storming record shops to buy the new set of Beethoven's Quartet No. 15, A minor, opus 132 [Columbia M-545; five 12 inch records]. They are apt to buy it unheard, and why not? The Budapest four long since proved their consistent caliber, and this next to last of the five great quartets is an irresistible acquisition for the Beethoven shelf. The score is one of the supreme utterances of music, and the performance is singularly satisfying, particularly in the wonderful slow movement Beethoven wrote in gratitude for recovery from illness. String quartets record better than almost anything else in music—in fact, few concert halls give their playing such enviable focus. This one has the sound of in-the-room performance.

Not All There.

Considerably less satisfactory is the new release of the late Frederick Stock's transcription of Bach's "St. Anne's" Prelude and Fugue, played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Mr. Stock's direction [Victor M-958; two 12 inch records]. The recording is inferior, blurring and scattering the orchestra's tone, and permitting the first side to trail off in a kind of asthmatic wheeze. Only glimpses remain of what Chicago knew as the actual performance, in the sudden uprush of strings or the remembered sense of a great orchestra marshaling its forces.

University Guild.

Board members of the University guild will meet at 10 a. m. Monday in Scott hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university.

Give Us Useful Items, Women Say in Survey

BY JEANNE McCARTHY.

The war production board, which has been busying itself with a survey to determine what scarce items the housewife would like to see more of, can turn to other things: The housewife has declared herself! In a poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE, she envisioned a fabulous world, full of elastic and nylon and steel wool.

Mrs. W. J. Burrows, 507 Belmont av., pleaded for the restoration of elastic, and pointed to her drooping stockings to emphasize her need. The same thing would please Mrs. Rose Berger, 4942 N. Kedzie av., who has been keeping the pants of her 11 month old son in place with safety pins—when she could find them.

An easing of manufacturing restrictions on electrical appliances would eliminate scorched toast from the morning fare of the family of Mrs. Anna Ortman, 2620 N. Hoyne av. The toaster she now uses "is capricious, she explained, and the toast is either too charred or not brown enough.

Some gray hair nets would fill the bill for Mrs. Louise Mueller, 1615 Diversey pkwy. For the last three months she has been enveloping her silvery gray hair in coarse brown nets. She admitted the results are anything except glamorous.

Mrs. Annabelle Meier, 2724 N. Southport av., would be happy if she could locate an aluminum tea kettle. The one she had is disabled, and the enameled model with which she replaced it displeases her husband. "He says it looks like hospital equipment," she said.

The seven daughters of Mrs. Matilda Cariota, 1940 Diversey pkwy., have a marked tendency to outgrow their shoes faster than the ration coupons permit, and Mrs. Cariota would be delighted if some additional shoes were made available.

Some steel wool to take away the grimness of her pots and pans would please Mrs. L. H. Reinheimer, 608 Belmont av., while Mrs. J. A. Johnson, 3300 Lake Shore dr., would be happy with a few more baby clothes. Her 2 year old son is poking out of his, and replacements, she said, are hard to find. The same thought was expressed by Mrs. Julia Wright, 3219 Dayton av., who has been grandmothering a tiny girl.

Mrs. John Shugan, 561 Cornelia av., would be satisfied with a bedroom set combining durability with attractiveness, while Mrs. S. L. Fink, 426 Briar pl., held out for two-way stretch girdles and nylons.

Right Kind of Tools Will Aid Housewife in Cleaning

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

If you do your own cleaning these days when help is scarce—and getting scarcer—you know by now it is no easy job. However, routine will help, and a work schedule plus the right kind of quality tools save time and energy.

Cleaning frequently is the most disliked of all household work. It is tiring; tools often are inadequate, and when there are small children it is almost impossible to eliminate interruptions and distractions.

Much stooping, bending, and climbing can be avoided if you have plenty of long handled tools—for floors, baseboards, and moldings.

By frequent brushing of woodwork, walls, draperies, curtains, and upholstered furniture, the use of soap and water can be postponed.

Save steps by trying always to remove dust and dirt instead of scattering them. Also use a small basket or box with a handle to carry such cleaning supplies as dust cloths, sponges, scouring powders, polishes, waxes, whisk broom, and damp cloth.

If you do not have vacuum cleaner for rugs or carpets, you will need a carpet sweeper. If you do not have vacuum cleaner attachments—and lucky the housewife who has these right now—you will need a radiator brush, upholstery brush, and long handled dusting brushes and mops. You will want a dustpan and dustpan brush for fireplace.

Always use a very soft brush on silk lamp shades or silk upholstery fabrics.

Finger marks on lamp bases, woodwork, etc., should be removed with mild soap and water or mild cleaning powder.

Dust electric light bulbs and diffusion bowls on semi-direct or indirect fixtures once a week and wash them once a month.

Dust low parts of furniture last. If furniture is very dusty, use one cloth for dusting and one for polishing.

Waxed furniture will need only rubbing unless it is time to wash and wax it anew. If windows are only dusty, wipe them with soft tissue or newspaper.

Miss Barbara Taylor to Be Bride Tonight

The Children's chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church will be the scene of the wedding at 8:30 o'clock tonight of Miss Barbara Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon E. Taylor of Winnetka, and Lt. [j. g.] George B. Everitt, son of Mrs. George B. Everitt, also of Winnetka. The Rev. Samuel D. Harkness will perform the ceremony, which will be followed by a reception in the Winnetka Woman's club.

Miss Virginia Taylor will be her sister's maid of honor, and Lt. Everitt's sister, Mary Lois, will serve as bridesmaid. Heaton Sykes, Alan Tyler, Lt. [j. g.] John Cerny, and Lt. [j. g.] Roderick Langston will act as groomsmen and Olin Sethness as best man. Lt. Everitt and his bride will be at home on the south side near his navy post.

The marriage of Miss Betty Smith to Lt. Carl A. Culver of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Culver of Detroit, Mich., will take place at 11 a. m. today in St. Edith's church. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Smith of Bryn Mawr av., will give a wedding breakfast and reception at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Miss Smith attended De Paul university and Lt. Culver the University of Detroit. After a wedding trip to Biloxi, Miss., and New Orleans, La., they will be at home in Chicago while he is stationed aboard the U. S. S. Wolverine.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you're going shopping for your Easter bonnet, perhaps we can offer a few suggestions to help make the trip a success.

First and foremost is that your hair be in normal condition, fresh and bright looking, and styled as you most often wear it. There's sound reason and logic in back of such practice.

It's important that the hair be clean and looking its best because when it's oily and bedraggled looking, no hat can be judged fairly. If you should take something in desperation thinking that it will look better after the hair is shampooed you might be in for a bitter disappointment. Chances are the little number might not have been suited to you at all and on the other hand there's the risk of passing up something that would have been exactly right had the hair been at its nicest.

Hair styles can affect the look of a hat and you'll save yourself the trouble of returning your purchase if the locks are dressed as most frequently worn. Don't make the mistake of buying a hat that looks perfectly smooth with your pompadour and then expect it to look just as nice with a flat top hair-do. Settle your hair style before your shopping tour and you'll have greater satisfaction in your purchase.

We think too, that it's wisest to have the face freshly made up before embarking on a shopping tour. You're much more likely to find something suitable and becoming if you're not working against odds and trying to find a bonnet that will make you look like a dream despite a somewhat grimy and soiled face.

"Will you help me plan a tea for 20 persons? My apartment is small, I'm employed, and have never entertained this way." This is only one of many questions of this kind asked of my department. Informal teas are growing in popularity because they can be served by experienced as well as inexperienced homemakers to large groups. Most of the preparation can be made a day in advance. Few points and a little expense will produce surprising results.

A nice tea table calls for a pretty background, so use your best cloth, silver, and china. Fresh flowers and candles will add charm and dignity to the table and often help to carry out a color scheme.

Following are some suggestions:

SANDWICHES: Bread should be unsliced and at least several hours old, unless the sandwiches are to be rolled, in which case the bread should be as fresh as possible so that it won't curl or break in the rolling process. Cut bread in ¼ inch slices. Whole wheat, graham, raisin, rye, nut, fruit, and brown bread are good for fancy sandwiches.

Rectangles, squares, triangles, crescents, and rings, are some of the shapes used for open face sandwiches. Rolled, ribbon, pinwheel, and checkerboard can be made, too, and add variety.

To keep sandwiches fresh place on a damp cloth, cover with wax paper and another damp cloth, and keep in a cool place until ready for serving.

Garnishes are as numerous as fillings. Here are some you might like to use: Hard cooked egg yolk forced thru a sieve, hard cooked egg white forced thru a sieve, sliced stuffed and ripe olives, minced parsley, watercress, strips of pimiento, salted whole nuts, chopped nuts, and cream cheese forced thru a pastry tube.

SANDWICH FILLINGS: Mix 1 cup of cottage cheese with ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sour cream, and 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento.

Moisten peanut butter with mayonnaise and mix with chopped crisp bacon.

Mix flaked fish with a well seasoned mayonnaise, finely chopped green peppers, pimiento, chives, or onion.

Moisten equal parts of chopped olives and nuts with mayonnaise.

CAKES: Tea cakes should be very small, individual cakes or tiny squares cut from large pan cakes. The best icings are butter cream or fondant. Since these cakes are finger foods, avoid all soft, high icings.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Roast Spareribs with Fruit.
[Serves four to six.]

2 sheets spareribs [about 2½ lbs.]
5 or 6 apples
½ pound prunes, cooked and pitted
2 tablespoons sugar
Salt, pepper
2 cups hot water

Wipe ribs with damp cloth and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Wash and core apples. Slice rather thick and dip in sugar. Place slices of apples and the mashed prunes on the bony side of a sheet of ribs. If there is sugar left, sprinkle it over the fruit. Cover with second sheet of ribs. Place in roasting pan and brown in hot oven or under broiler. When ribs are browned, add enough of the water to cover bottom of pan. Bake at 350 degrees, adding remaining water at intervals. Bake about 2 hours. Make gravy from drippings in pan. MRS. C. CHRISTOFERSON, Lake Linden, Mich.

Women in War Work

Army posts and garden clubs are scarcely regarded as "go-togethers," but a review of the activities of the Garden clubs of Fort Sheridan shows that military life on that reservation is strewn with a posey now and then. Because spring time is gardening time, we review the activities of the gardeners who are among the groups making up the Fort Sheridan Volunteers, those north shore women who undertake such projects at the fort as furnishing day rooms, supplying books, and providing entertainment.

Mrs. Harry Kerr of Wilmette represents the Illinois Garden club as chairman of Fort Sheridan activities, and Mrs. Walter Marx of Kenilworth is her co-chairman. With their committees from the various north shore suburbs, they keep the post chapels and hospital wards supplied with fresh flowers the year around. At Christmas, they supply and trim the fort's Christmas trees and decorate the entire post. Mrs. George Parker of Winnetka, north regional director of the Illinois Garden club, arranged for the purchase and distribution of 500 bulbs which were planted and are being delivered just before they bloom—the men like to watch the progress of the plants.

Tonight is Czecho-Slovakian night at Chicago service men's center No. 2, 430 S. Michigan av. At 7:30 o'clock there will be entertainment in the canteen, and floor shows will follow later in the ballrooms. The program of native songs and dances is sponsored by the Foundation of Czecho-Slovak Americans, and the shows will be staged while the audience partakes of food provided by the group. The food will include such delicacies as "kolacky," a Czecho-Slovakian fruit tart.

Housekeeping statistics from Chicago service men's centers run into staggering figures—and make a nation-wide reputation for Chicago hospitality among service men. According to a report from the centers, last week men in uniform who visited the centers' canteens ate 46,368 "hot dogs," 49,480 sandwiches made from 907 pounds of meat, 282 pounds of cheese, 1,080 eggs, and 100 pounds of peanut butter. They drank 49,810 cups of coffee, 9,120 glasses of milk, and 2,080 cups of soup.

Then, there were offerings on the sweet side, and the service men consumed 51,240 pieces of cake, 2,640 doughnuts, 137 coffee cakes, and 2,700 sweet rolls—not to mention 1,802 pounds of candy and 55,200 cigarets. Yes, there is still more food on the counters at the centers, which are located at 176 W. Washington st., 50 E. 49th st., and 430 S. Michigan av.

A small group of Negro recruits in the WAC left Chicago yesterday for training at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Among them was Doris H. Murphy, 5943 Indiana av., a graduate of Straight university in New Orleans, La. Her daughter, Natalia Tanner, 19, is a medical student at Meharry Medical college, Nashville, Tenn.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

In some deals the ingredient of success is not knowledge of advanced plays, such as squeezes or coups—it is nothing but foresight. For example:

South, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 6 5
♥ K 7 4
♦ 6 5 4 3
♣ J 7 2

WEST
♠ 9 4 3
♥ Q J 10 6 3
♦ J 9 8 7
♣ 9

EAST
♠ 10 8 7 2
♥ A 9 8
♦ 10 2
♣ K 6 4 3

SOUTH
♥ 5 3
♦ A K Q
♣ A Q 10 8 6

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
5 clubs	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's raise to four clubs was not very smart—he should have bid three no trump—but at least his error gave South the opportunity for a brilliant performance.

West led the heart queen. The king was smothered by East, who continued with hearts, and declarer ruffed the third round. Please observe, however, that even at this early stage, he carefully selected the eight, not the six of trumps, for this ruff. He then entered dummy by overtaking the spade jack and returned the jack of trumps. East, no altruist, did not cover, and now, after a short "huddle," declarer produced his second highly imaginative play—he played the club 10 under the jack! When the nine dropped from the West hand, declarer knew that his care and foresight had been lavishly rewarded, for now it was possible to lead the trump seven and, when East again played low, to stay in dummy for the vital third lead. From that time on it was easy sailing.

The beauty of declarer's trump handling consisted of the fact that he had allowed for the precise break that actually existed without in any way jeopardizing his position against other possible breaks.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"Where can I buy a candy thermometer?" a reader asks.

Some hardware stores still have a few cooking thermometers in stock. I was able to buy a combination candy and deep fat thermometer the other day in my neighborhood. It registers to 500 degrees. A check of downtown stores reveals that from time to time they get in small supplies of cooking thermometers. A telephone call ahead of time may save shoe leather for the woman who is looking for one.

"Why did my sponge cake have a heavy layer at the bottom and fall out of the pan when I inverted it to cool?"

The usual cause of the heavy layer is underbeating the egg yolks, which must be beaten until thick and deep yellow in color. Underbaking, sometimes the result of too low an oven temperature, can cause a sponge cake to fall out of the pan. A greased pan might have been responsible, but perhaps it was that egg separation which did it.

"How does one cook fresh shrimps?"

Wash them well, then drop into boiling, salted water. Lemon juice or vinegar may be added to the water, and if you like, a few black peppers, a stalk of celery, and a bay leaf. Simmer gently about 10 minutes, until shrimps have all turned pink. Cool and peel off the shells.

Yanks Pack Up Troubles in a Red Cross Kit

A Chicago soldier, fighting desperately in a foxhole, receives word that his father is dead. His family is in want. He worries, and his morale slumps. Some one suggests that he ask the Red Cross field worker for aid. The Red Cross worker cables his Chicago office for information. A local representative calls on the soldier's family, gives assistance as needed, and cables the soldier that his problem has been solved. The soldier is relieved, and can go on about the business of winning the war.

Extending such help is only one of the many functions of the American Red Cross, and it all takes money—which the organization seeks in its nation-wide drive.

Thirty-five per cent of Chicago's $12,000,000 Red Cross war fund goal has been realized as the campaign enters its fourth week. Yet Chicago thus far is lagging behind the national average of 51 per cent toward the $200,000,000 national goal.

Chicago's total to date is $4,184,755, Martin H. Kennelly, general campaign chairman, announced yesterday at the second report meeting of the business division in the Chicago club.

Besides the expense entailed in collecting blood plasma and producing surgical dressings, the chief expenditure during the war is in the field of home service operations, where the Red Cross acts as liaison agent between the man in camp, or on the battlefield, and his family.

Several teletype machines are in operation 24 hours a day at the local Red Cross headquarters, 610 S. Michigan av., as messages concerning the soldiers and sailors are flashed thruout the country.

Funds are also needed for the preparation and shipping of prisoner of war packages.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

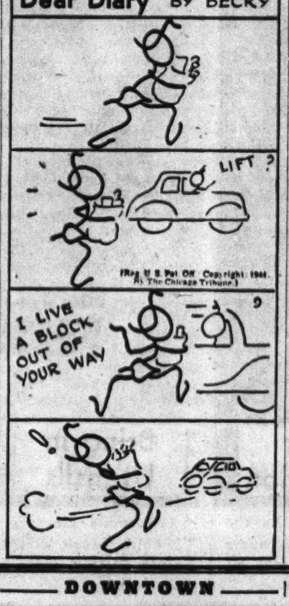
Voice of Experience.

Merely because you don't work today,
Please, Sweet Steno, don't go astray!
Nor wander gaily yon and hither
And here and there and far and thither,
To show up looking as tho the wrath
Of angry gods had crossed your path.
My jaded glance on Monday morning
Should be, Sweet Maid, sufficient warning! SIR BOSS II.

Add to Definitions.

Add to current definitions: "A coördinator is one who makes organized chaos out of organized confusion." B.

Dear Diary BY BECKY



Follow-Up Letter.

Dear Boss: Just about a year ago I wrote you explaining my predicament as a new employe. The resentment on the part of the older employes has disappeared and I am hoping you are proud of my progress. Apparently you are, as the chance to work in the newly formed research department was given to me!

My work is vitally interesting, and I'm grateful for the opportunity which has come to me. And I'm grateful for the fact you paid attention to my letter. Now, new and old employes pull together, and that's the way it should be, isn't it, Boss? This letter is to say "thank you." DANNY.

Tuning In.

Opal, the operator, insists that unless there are more interesting conversations to listen in on she will certainly become a real switch-bored operator. JOHN FAHRNER JR.

Another Suggestion.

It is high time that business women took advantage of the dictionary definition "Madam [pl. mesdams]: A complimentary title or form of courteous address to a lady."

The males have been smarter than we, for they are all Mister when they become adults, giving no indication of marital status. In business the important thing for women is a title which denotes maturity and dignity, therefore Madame, abbreviated Mm., or Mme. for the plural should supplant Miss and Mrs. MADAM MINNIE JOHNSON.

White Collar Quote.

"The working girl is unique in the world. She's a breed, a class, a people. She's our own. We invented her and it was a happy day for the country when she consented to be born. Early America had its pioneer women . . . but the America of today has the girl with a job." PAUL GALLICO.

Little Margaret Is a Big Star in 'Lost Angel'

"LOST ANGEL."

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, directed by Roy Rowland, starring Margaret O'Brien with James Craig and Marsha Hunt, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Margaret O'Brien is the answer to the producer's prayer—"Give us another child genius like Shirley Temple!"

She snapped us into attention by her sensitive, arresting performance in "Journey for Margaret." Again we saw her in "Jane Eyre" playing a many faceted role with facile assurance that was astounding in a 6 year old. And we fairly shouted, "What a wonderful child!" Now Margaret comes to us in "Lost Angel" and we know for sure that, at last, the screen has been blessed with quite as unusual a bairn as was Shirley.

Margaret is an old fashioned looking little thing who seems plain till her face lights up. Then—she's just plain fascinating!

In "Lost Angel" the quaint maiden has a role perfectly tailored for her. Little Alpha, a foundling, is left on the doorstep of an orphanage just at the time when the Pickering Institute of Research is seeking a perfect specimen of babyhood to rear scientifically. . . . This tot meets all the physical requirements. She is taken over by the august doctors, isolated from other children, and cultivated in an esthetic and aseptic atmosphere heavily fraught with learning. . . .

It falls to the lot of a hard-boiled newspaper man [James Craig] sent to interview the prodigy, to initiate her into a new world. . . . Not that this is what the gentleman plans—far from it. . . . But there he is—with Alpha wished on him by a series of freak circumstances that I shall let the picture reveal to you.

Some of the dialog is delightful, and charm colors the whole. But look at it any way you want, the picture is Margaret's and Margaret IS the picture.

See you tomorrow.

Dainty Dress

A contrasting collar and a bit of duffling on collar, sleeves, and pockets, give this simple dress the versatility which makes it equally at home socially or during domestic hours. Style No. 3787 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 35 inch fabric with ⅜ yard contrasting and 2¼ yards of ruffling.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, New York City. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 24.—Constance Dowling gets one of those juicy parts in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" which Eli Kazan is directing. Incidentally, their romance is mighty warm for March. . . . Metro's got a star in 14 year old Jane Powell. She cleans up in "Song of the Open Road," which stars Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. She's to sing for the Easter services at Forest Lawn with our philharmonic orchestra. . . . Marjorie Massow, former cashier at Twentieth Century's commissary, plays the lead with Phil Baker in "Take It or Leave It." . . . Irving Cummings has gone overboard on a story Mark Kelly and Mal St. Clair wrote called "Beau McGurk's Girl." It's a natural for Jean Arthur. Cummings, who directed Rosalind Russell in her latest picture, "What a Woman," is in an enviable position. He has the right to do one outside picture a year, and may make this one for Bill Goetz.

They Even Switch Sex.

"California," written for Bing Crosby, has been rewritten for Betty Hutton and Katina Paxinou. That should take a bit of doing. It's to be a musical in color showing San Francisco in the gold rush days — the old wineries, mission, and the padres — with Harry Tugend producing. Sounds as tho they were going to make Paxinou a kind of female sheriff. And an inner voice asks, "Would that be bad?" . . . Hearing Damon Runyon would leave Twentieth after he finishes "Irish Eyes Are Smiling," I asked him about it. He said, "I have no plans. I just want to get my health back." . . . Metro hopes Jackie Miles, the "Blitz from the Bronx," will be funny enough to step into Red Skelton's shoes. He'll be in "Anchors Aweigh." He's 4-F.

Newcomer Doing Well.

Metro wants Ketti Frings' "God's Front Porch" as a starring vehicle for Bob Walker. He'd be great as "Pinky." . . . Attention, Harry Cohn: Keep your eye on Mare Platt, who's dancing opposite Rita Hayworth and teaching her routines for her next picture. He was a featured dancer in "Oklahoma!" He's a comer. . . . Carole Landis is being loaned by Twentieth for another picture, and won't be able to accompany her husband back east. . . . Mary Anderson, so good in "Lifeboat," goes into "Family Album" with Gracie Fields and Monty Woolley. Monty plays a senator. Heigh-ho! . . . Bob Hope's resting. His broadcast comes from Camp Young, Palm Springs, next week.

Happy Week-End in Prospect.

Henry Fonda's here on furlough, so Mrs. Hank is throwing a big barbecue for him Sunday and unveiling portraits of herself and their two children done by Paul Clement. Incidentally, Paul is finishing Merle Oberon's portrait before he joins Uncle Sam. . . . Mrs. Jack Donahue found a "ghost" and together they're writing Jack's life. It undoubtedly will find its way to the screen. You remember Jack dancing with Marilyn Miller. His family was left well off. His widow, their three girls, and his grandmother have lived in our town for seven years now. They're deep in war work, Red Cross, and go as a unit.

Do It Their Own Way.

Bill Bendix is crazy about birds, so he built a bird house on top of his, but no birds came to fill it. The other morning he watched a couple looking it over. Half an hour later the strangers were pulling pieces off it and building their own nest in the crook of a tree. Mrs. Don Ameche, mother of four boys, still wants to adopt a baby girl — or better still, twin girls.

Play Sandals

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There is no end to styles of crocheted sandals and play shoes, and we need have no fear of rationing when they are created from the scrap bag. This attractive pair of comfortable sandals may be made in little time. Giving the crocheted soles a light coat of varnish adds to the durability and in no way affects laundering.

For instructions in crocheting the play sandals, No. 1153, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

Sheer Vestees Add New Note to Spring Suits

BY REA SEEGER.

Today's shoppers will find exciting new accessories for early spring suits, among them sheer vestees of pale pink and pale blue made of gossamer material like marquisette. The vest half is ample in width so as to appear like the regulation front of a blouse. Back sections are cut to fit smoothly and the tapes at each side hold the vestee in place.

If you crave snowy white contrast see the fake front vestees of exquisitely embroidered sheer lawn made and embroidered in Puerto Rico. They are the last word in feminine beauty, the embroidery as beautiful as the motifs on a baby's christening robe. Some are made with turnover collars which have embroidery and fine embroidered scallops along the collar edge and opening of the deep V neck line; others are collarless with demure high, round neck lines or cut with a deep neck line.

The most effective and newest sleeveless blouses are made of spick and span white eyelet embroidery. They serve as a blouse and are practically a blouse, minus sleeves of any kind. These eyelet models are made so smoothly that they can be worn under or over the belt of a skirt. Ruffles of the eyelet pattern soften the V neckline and small buttons keep the blouse effect.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Evansville, Ind., March 24.—The Chicago White Sox and the Detroit Tigers, under the promise of ideal spring weather, are ready to open their respective exhibition schedules here tomorrow afternoon in the first engagement of a two game series. Manager Jim Dykes of the Sox, brought along 24 of his 34 available players. The Tigers have only 17 players in camp, just half the Chicago total now in training.

The Sox came here after an extended workout in French Lick yesterday over the hiking trails and on the Cubs practice field. They will return to their spring headquarters and the Indiana spa after the Sunday game with the Tigers here. In French Lick they will engage in routine didoes thru Gallagher gateway, the portal to the Cub field, until Wednesday, when they are scheduled to meet the Cubs in combat for the first time since last spring. The Wednesday game will be played at Freeman field, flying base near Seymour, Ind.

Dykes to Let Them Off Easy.

Manager Dykes plans to let the undermanned Tigers off easy in the pitching phase of the game tomorrow by employing two string bean free agents—Charley Graumann, a 6 foot 2 inch resident of Minneapolis who is 19 years old and Al Wittmer, 6 foot 3 inch resident of Omaha, Neb., who won't be 17 years old until May 1. Third pitcher to be sent forth by Dykes is Ed Lopat, an experienced lefty from New York City, who won 19 games for Little Rock last season.

Dykes expects to be a little tougher in Sunday's game with three gents of considerable pitching experience—Don Hanski, Bob Mistele, and Orval Grove.

They're Not on Vacation.

In the Tigers' grand total of 17 players are included Pinky Higgins and Rudy York, 1933 home run champion of the major leagues. Both these veterans are in 1-A and expect to be called most any time. They have agreed to play until they are summoned, however, thus giving the Tiger scouts a chance to round up some talent, a matter which they apparently were overlooking while most of the other clubs were assembling rosters which are, at least, numerically strong.

Left in French Lick were Catcher Mike Tresh, Infielders Tony Cucinello, and Hal Trosky, Outfielders Guy Curtright and Wally Moses, and Pitchers Bill Dietrich, John Humpries, Thornton Lee, and Buck Ross. These vets were not to be accorded a week-end of relaxation. They were slated to take full sized routines under the direction of Coaches Mule Haas and Bing Miller, both tomorrow and Sunday.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—As late as the 1921 season the Chicago Cubs felt the man power pinch occasioned by the first World war. . . . That spring they took to training camp seven semi-pros, four from class D leagues, two from class B organizations, and flushed one out of retirement. . . . Dolph Stanley, coach of Illinois' prep basketball champions from Taylorville, may follow some of his fine young men into military service. . . . Hard boiled sports writers? At the recent state basketball meet in Champaign, they bought a wreath and marched in a body to the grave of L. M. [Mike] Tobin, for years the voice of Illini athletics. . . . When Referee Billy Sulzmann slipped and fell on the seat of his pants during a Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament bout the fans howled. . . . Bill wasn't amused, tho. . . . He had forgotten to remove his specs from his hip pocket. . . . A 1944 Horatio Alger story: Emery Hresko, 17 year old pitcher signed by the Detroit Tigers, used his bonus money to pay off the mortgage on the family home in Flint, Mich. . . . Louis Guisto, one time Cleveland Indian star, who was gassed in the first World war, is head commissary man at St. Mary's Pre-Flight school in California. . . . Ed Snyder, veteran trainer for William Helis, says Pericles, which brought $66,000 as a yearling, is the most powerfully built 2 year old in memory. . . . "We don't want to rush him too fast because his legs have not yet caught up with his massive trunk," says Snyder. . . . Lt. Buddy Lewis, former infielder for the Washington Senators, is pilot of a paratroop-carrying transport overseas.

Lt. Buddy Lewis.

Avery Brundage.

Thoughts of future Olympics are stirring. . . . Avery Brundage of Chicago is one of a group which plans to attend a meeting of the International Olympic committee in neutral Switzerland in June. . . . This year is the 50th anniversary of the foundation of that group. . . . Departure of the Yankees' Bill Dickey from the sporting scene for navy duty, has brought a flood of comment by writers here on this fellow who retained his modesty thruout 16 years of stardom. . . . When the baseball writers presented him with their Player of the Year plaque about all Bill could say was, "It shore is purty." Lou Nova's new manager, Ray Dodge, was the 1924 Olympics half mile champion.

A Great Man Dies.

He never took pleasure or delight in the misfortunes or in the downfall of a fellow man. He never repeated a story detrimental to the character or reputation of another; even if he knew the story to be true, he didn't broadcast it, but let it die with him. He did his job quietly, steadily, and with no thought of either praise or censure. He contributed what he could—sometimes it wasn't much—to his church, to the Red Cross, to whatever community need arose. He was never what you would call politically minded, yet he never failed to cast his vote for whom or what he believed to be right.

I hardly ever met him on the street that he wasn't carrying home an armload of something for his family. He never spoke to his children of the "sacrifices" he had made to put them thru school. When he was asked to be pallbearer for a friend or a neighbor he didn't come up with a lot of excuses about what a busy time of the year this was for him and how almost impossible it was for him to get away. He was always on hand to do willingly whatever was asked or expected of him. When sickness or misfortune came his way, he accepted it as an integral factor of life, not as some special cross designed to burden him or his family alone.

This man died yesterday. The evening paper made stereotyped, routine, colorless mention of the fact. That was all. I think the article should have been headed, "A Great Man Dies." For, in my mind, it is of such as he, the lowly, the honest, and the true, that the really great of this earth are made.—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

CUBS PLAY 1ST SQUAD GAME; 'REGULARS' WIN

Pitched Ball Injures Paul Erickson.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

French Lick, Ind., March 24.—A touch of sunshine today induced Boss James Wilson to move his Cubs into a more advanced phase of what is known as spring training. Except for a morning hitting drill with its accompanying fly shagging he relieved the monotony for the boys in the afternoon by permitting the initial intracamp contest, which, because the two teams were more or less makeshift, was merely exercise made palatable by the added competitive feature.

The batch of talent dubbed the regulars because Phil Cavarretta was one of them cracked down on the irregulars for whom a fellow named Jim Wilson played third base, 5 to 0, in six innings that were fairly pleasant for all except Paul Erickson, the gangling right hander. At bat in the third, he was bashed against the left cheek bone by an errant pitch from Ed Hanyzewski and was taken away to the X-ray machine which showed nothing hud been broken.

Paul Stops 'Em Cold.

Wilson gave two inning jobs to each of six pitchers but it developed that he handed the best half of them to the regulars' cause. The irregulars picked off only one hit during the stay of Erickson who handled the first two innings, three off Johnny Burrows and none off Les Fleming who finished. The batting of the regulars was somewhat more potent, a total of seven hits being accumulated against Henry Wyse and Dale Alderson, up from Nashville. Hanyzewski was sandwiched between this pair but in his two innings all was peaceful except the plunking of Erickson.

The regulars went to work on Wyse in the first inning. Bill Schuster, prospective first string shortstop, bunted with the idea of tormenting third baseman Wilson but Wyse retrieved the ball. His throw not only was late but wild and Schuster scored eventually on a couple of infield outs. Singles by Ed Sauer and Dominic Dallessandro with none out in the second led to another run.

The other tallies came in a sixth inning shower in which Alderson was deluged by a double from Eddie Stanky's bat, a single by Cavarretta and a two bagger by Ival Goodman.

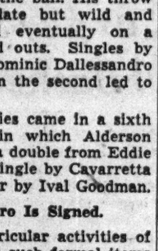
Dallessandro Is Signed.

The extra curricular activities of the day included such formal items as the actual signing of Dominic Dallessandro who reached camp several days late because of a mild flirtation with that perennial spring siren known as Miss Holdout. The squatty fly chaser had been told to come on, the difference over wages being so slight, and sign when Vice President Jim Gallagher arrived.

Paul Derringer is still engrossed in his hot and cold water immersions for his sprained right ankle and Catcher Mickey Kreitner, who took sick despite the fact that he carried around his own medicine book, is back in camp after three days of hospitalization.

LUKE APPLING IS NAMED PILOT OF CAMP LEE NINE

Camp Lee, Va., March 24 (AP).—Luke Appling, for 14 years a major leaguer and last year American league batting champion with the Chicago White Sox, will manage the Camp Lee Travelers for the 1944 season, Lt. Arthur P. Hand, camp athletics officer, announced today.



Luke Appling.

Appling also will play shortstop. Luke's entire big league career was spent with the White Sox. He will be 35 on April 2.

The Lee nine will meet the Washington Senators on April 2.

WELCOME HOME FOR BLACKHAWKS

Some of the Chicago Blackhawks' most loyal supporters welcome a trio of the hockey stars home to the Guyon hotel after their return yesterday from Detroit, where they had broken even with the Red Wings in the first two games of their Stanley cup play-off series. Left to right, front row, are Mrs. Bill Thoms and daughter, Darlene, 21 months old; Mrs. George Allen and daughter, Joann, 2 weeks, and Johnny Johnson, 4 years. HAWKS REST FOR SERIES RENEWAL

Meet Wings Tomorrow Night in Stadium.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Chicago Blackhawks, who arrived in town yesterday at sunup after their 50-50 experiences with the Red Wings in Detroit, have nothing more strenuous on their program until 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night than just sitting around. At that time the Hawks and Wings will resume their portion of the Stanley cup play-offs in the Stadium.

Manager Paul Thompson, in decreeing a three day vacation for the Hawks, explained he thought the rest would put the athletes at their peak. The Hawks really were glad to get back and it was hard for them to realize that they had ended their four year nightmare on Detroit's Olympia rink by taking the first game of the series Tuesday.

Hawks Wary of Sellout Talk.

The Wings are notorious losers in the Stadium where they were beaten five times in five appearances during the season, but the Chicagoans aren't blithely assuming that a sixth and seventh straight in the west side arena is a matter of course.

The management said last night that 5,200 unreserved tickets will go on sale at 6 o'clock tomorrow night and that the same arrangemennt would hold Tuesday for No. 4 of the series. The Hawks have had a terrific advance sale for both contests, but are wary of talking about a sellout, especially after what happened at Detroit when fans believed reports of an Olympia sellout for the opening game. As a result the

Kinney Named Golden Gloves Team Leader

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 24.—The Chicago 1944 intercity Golden Gloves squad tonight named Pvt. Ragon Kinney of Camp Callan, Cal., as its captain for the annual duel against New York's best Monday in Madison Square Garden. The Chicago team couldn't have selected a better leader than Kinney, who was runner-up for the heavyweight championship of 1939 and gained the same ranking in the 1944 Chicago finals March 10.

Pvt. Ragon Kinney.

Tonight, after a romp thru Central park and a workout in Stillman's Eighth av. gymnasium, the Chicago team was in top condition, with one exception. That one was Ray Standifer, the Cleveland light heavyweight who won the 175 pound crown in the finals in the Chicago Stadium. This afternoon an inspection by Dr. William Rothman, the team's physician, disclosed Standifer's temperature was 101 degrees, and Dr. Rothman advised him to go lightly in his workouts for the Monday night bouts.

The rest of the boys, disappointed by dismal weather on their arrival yesterday, were refreshed today by one of the grandest days that ever struck New York.

YOUNG BREAKS DASH MARK, BUT IS 2D IN FINALS

Cleveland, O., March 24 (AP).—Gil Dodds, indoor king of the milers, failed in his attempt to crack Greg Rice's world indoor two mile record tonight, finishing 14.3 seconds over the mark of 8 minutes 51 seconds, established by Rice at the Knights of Columbus games here last year.

The meet saw one world record fall before Dodds came to the track. Ed Conwell, New York university national dash champion, and Claude [Buddy] Young of Illinois, each ran the 45 yard dash one-tenth of a second faster than the mark of 4.8 seconds set last year by Herb Thompson of Jersey City, now in the coast guard. Young sped the distance in 4.7 seconds in a preliminary heat, but was second to Conwell in the finals, when the New Yorker matched the new time.

PARKER OUT OF CITY TITLE GAME

Marshall Juniors to Play Weber April 8.

Marshall High school, winner of the City league junior basketball title for the last four years, finds itself representative of the league in Mayor Kelly's second annual all-city championship benefit double header April 8 as the result of action taken yesterday by Joseph B. Shine, principal of Parker High school.

Acting on charges that five Parker players had participated in outside tournament play contrary to league rules, Shine declared the five ineligible for athletic participation for one year, relinquished Parker's claim as the league junior champion, and withdrew the team from the all-city title game with Weber, Catholic league champions.

No Junior Champion Recognized.

After a meeting held yesterday in the office of Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, and following Shine's announcement, it was declared no junior championship would be recognized in the City league this year. With Hyde Park, which lost to Parker, 41 to 21, in what was believed to be the league title game on March 11, also declaring its junior captain ineligible for similar reasons, Marshall was voted the league's representative in the game scheduled for the Chicago Stadium.

Coach Lou Weintraub of Marshall, whose team was defeated by Parker, 40 to 35, in the semi-finals and who subsequently announced his retirement as basketball coach at the school, said late yesterday at a meeting in Mayor Kelly's office that he was claiming no championship for the Commandos.

Coaches Hold Meeting.

On March 10 it was revealed that Parker's stars, Forward Art Ender and Earl Ehrig, Center Paul Elias, Guard Harold Boudreau and Substitute Bob Harper, had broken the league rules. These were the five banished from competition yesterday. Marco Giannopoulos, center and captain of Hyde Park, also was declared ineligible.

The coaches of the four competing teams, Jack Tracy of Mount Carmel, defending senior champions, Tony Maffia of South Shore, Frank McGrath of Weber, and Lou Weintraub of Marshall, met yesterday afternoon in Fritzlaff's office to select officials for the game.

BUCKEYES FACE DARTMOUTH IN EASTERN FINAL

Indian Quintet Tops Catholic, 63-38.

Tourney Scores

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
N. C. A. A. Tournament.
Eastern Semi-Finals.
Ohio State, 57; Temple, 47.
Dartmouth, 63; Catholic U., 38.
Western Semi-Finals.
Utah, 45; Missouri, 35.
Iowa State, 44; Pepperdine, 39.

New York, March 24 (AP).—With Don Grate scoring 17 points, Ohio State's Big Ten title holders pulled away in the second half to defeat Temple, 57 to 47, tonight and qualify to meet Dartmouth's Eastern league champions in the finals of the National Collegiate A. A. eastern sectional basketball tournament tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden. Darmouth eliminated Catholic university, 63 to 38, in the first semi-final game.

Winner of the eastern meet will face the N. C. A. A. western winner in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night. On Thursday night the N. C. A. A. champion will play the winner of the National Invitational tournament [to be decided Sunday night] in a Red Cross benefit game in the Garden.

Buckeyes Lead at Half.

The crowd of 13,932 fans saw a rapid fire brand of basketball thru the first half with the score tied four times before Ohio State left the floor at half time on the long end of a 26 to 23 count.

Grate scored nine of his points in the first half and led the Buckeyes' attack as they spurted away to 44 to 31 lead midway in the second half. The Owls stayed within striking distance, however, until they wilted under the terrific pace that saw Paul Huston score 12 points and Bob Bowen 10.

Joyce Leads Temple.

Jim Joyce and Dick Koecher were the chief offensive threats for Temple, counting 16 and 12 points, respectively, but there was too much balance in the Big Ten team's attack for the Owls to overcome.

Except for the first few minutes, when the score was tied at 4 to 4, Catholic was not in the running. Dartmouth pulled ahead and led at halftime, 28 to 12. Three field goals in the first five minutes of the second half sent the Indians into a 34 to 12 lead but after a brief Catholic rally Dartmouth's Harry Leggat and Dick McGuire kept rolling up points.

Bob Gale topped the Dartmouth attack with 17 points while Leggat, who formerly played for New York university, scored 15. John Mercak and Dick Scanlon led the Cardinals with 12 and 11 points, respectively.

STATE, UTAH WIN

Kansas City, Mo., March 24 (AP).—Iowa State, Big Six co-champion, rallied in the last half to repulse Pepperdine college of Los Angeles, 44 to 39, and the University of Utah beat Missouri 45 to 35 tonight in the opening round of the National Collegiate Athletic association's western basketball playoffs.

The victors will play tomorrow night for the right to represent the west against the eastern champions in Madison Square Garden March 28.

Pepperdine and Missouri will play for third place in tomorrow night's opener.

A tall center, Nick Buzolich of Pepperdine, almost blighted Iowa State's hopes, but his 22 points weren't quite enough.

The widest margin in the seesaw battle was six points. The Cyclones erased a 15 to 19 half-time deficit, built a small lead and then battled valiantly to hold it. Lineups:

PIRATES' LINEUP FOR EXHIBITION GAME IS LISTED

Batting Order Set; Meet Indians Tomorrow.

Muncie, Ind. March 24 (AP).—Manager Frankie Frisch put his Pittsburgh Pirates thru a spirited drill today—their first real outdoor workout in more than a week—in preparation for Sunday's exhibition inaugural game against the Cleveland Indians.

Meanwhile, he announced his batting order: Frank Zak or Tony Ordenna, shortstop; Frank Gustine, second base; Jim Russell, center field; Bob Elliott, third base; Babe Dahlgren, first base; Tom O'Brien or Harry Amato, right field; Johnny Barrett or Lee Handley, left field; Al Lopez and Hank Camelli, catching, and Xavier Rescigno, Nick Strincevich, Preacher Roe, Bob Klinger, Johnny Gee, Max Butcher, Art Cuccurullo, and Rip Sewell, pitching.

Frisch said he intends to keep Russell, one of the three National league batters to bat in as many as 100 runs last year, in Vince Di Maggio's old center garden spot. Di Maggio remains a holdout.

NAYMICK TO FACE PIRATES.

Lafayette, Ind., March 24 (AP).—Big Mike Naymick, one of last year's Cleveland Indian rookies who may be called on to be a pitching mainstay, is Manager Lou Boudreau's nominee to start in the exhibition game Sunday with the Pittsburgh Pirates in Muncie.

PAUL WANER SIGNS.

Bear Mountain, N. Y., March 24 (AP).—Paul Waner, veteran Brooklyn Dodger outfielder, sent word today from Sarasota, Fla., where he is in training, that he had signed his contract for 1944. The Dodgers held another routine drill today.

Waner's signing cut the Dodgers' holdout list to four with one of the quartet, Pitcher Les Webber, en route to camp for a salary conference.

ROOKIES JOIN ATHLETICS.

Frederick, Md., March 24 (AP).—The Philadelphia Athletics did some outdoor training today for the first time this week, and the condition of the field indicated that the first game against outside competition, the Curtis Bay coast guard team from Baltimore, would be played as scheduled tomorrow.

The Macks picked up two recruit first basemen today. They are Ted Heffner, an all round athlete at Lock Haven, Pa., High school and the University of Richmond, and Nelson Fox, 16 year old St. Thomas [Pa.] youth.

MORT COOPER SIGNS.

Cairo, Ill., March 24 (AP).—The tension was off in the St. Louis Cardinals' training camp today with the signing of big Mort Cooper, who probably will be available to the club all year, and the players went thru a long workout for Sunday's exhibition game with the ferrying command team from Memphis.

Cooper, who signed his contract for an undisclosed salary after asking $17,500, said in St. Louis he would leave for camp tomorrow. Shortstop Martin Marion also was en route to camp from his South Carolina home.

MAYOR WARMS UP FOR DOUBLE HEADER

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mayor Kelly is in an athletic mood with the approach of the annual charity double header in the Stadium April 8 between senior and junior basketball teams of the Catholic and City leagues. Left to right: Lou Weintraub, Marshall coach; Frank McGrath, Weber coach; Mayor Kelly; A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education for the board of education; Tony Maffia, South Shore coach, and John Tracy, Mount Carmel coach. South Shore will meet Mount Carmel's seniors and Marshall will oppose Weber's juniors in the stadium.

BIG, FAST FIELD SET FOR PURDUE RELAYS TONIGHT

Lafayette, Ind., March 24 [Special].—The cream of the midwestern crop of collegiate track and field performers will vie for top honors in the second annual Purdue relays to be held here tomorrow night. Considerable pageantry will attend the event.

Team honors in both university and college divisions will be at stake in a fast moving track show that includes eight relays and six individual events. Altho Michigan's powerfully balanced Big Ten indoor champions are heavily favored to unseat Notre Dame, the defending titlist, in the university division, and Miami, the defending champion, and Western Michigan, are expected to fight it out in the college division, there will be the keenest of competition for top honors in each of the 14 events.

Service Men to Compete.

The all star field of 186 athletes from 19 different institutions, which includes Big Ten indoor champions in all events, has been substantially bolstered by a host of service stars, including a trio from Iowa Pre-Flight made up of Leonard Alkon, formerly of Michigan, 1943 Big Ten indoor sprint king; Bob Steuber of Missouri football and track fame, and Tom Judge, former Indiana ace.

The rapid fire program will move as fast as the competitors. All final events will be staged in the evening, beginning with the two mile relay in the university division at 7:30 o'clock, while preliminaries in the 60 yard dash, shot put, and 60 yard high and low hurdles are scheduled for 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Colorful victory ceremonies, presided over by Betty Gray of West Lafayette, sophomore elected as Relays Queen, and a court of four co-ed attendants, composed of Jean Julius, Anderson; Jean Burnham, West Lafayette; Marion Krull, Hobart, and Peggy Buck, Akron, O., will follow each event. The relays queen and her court will present the medals and trophies to the four place winners in each of the 14 events.

Records Are in Danger.

Illinois, with such speedsters as Claude [Buddy] Young, Big Ten dash champion; Michigan, with Bob Ufer, world record holder for the 440 yard run, and Iowa pre-flight, with Alkon, Steuber, and Judge, are expected to provide a close finish in the sprint medley in the university division. In addition to the sprint medley, there will be one mile, two mile, and distance medley relays in both divisions.

Ford Wins 2 Swim Titles, Nakama One

New Haven, Conn., March 24 (AP).—Alan Ford of Yale tonight captured two titles within 10 minutes in a spectacular performance which featured the inaugural of the 21st Annual National Collegiate A. A. swims in the Yale natatorium.

The 168 pound Ford won the 50 yard free style sprint by two yards and then went on to beat a classy field in the 150 yard backstroke, winning by four yards.

Ford, who last week lowered his world record in the 100 yard free style to 0:49.7, won the 50 yard sprint in 0:22.2, a new Yale and pool record, and the backstroke in 1:36.8.

While Ford was successful in winning two crowns, Keo Nakama, Ohio State's captain from Hawaii, who earlier in the day had won the 1,500 meter brush, lost a 220 yard free style thriller by a stroke to Gene Rogers of Columbia.

Rogers, National A. A. U. 440 yard and 880 yard free style outdoor champ, led thruout and beat off a blistering home stretch challenge by Nakama, the Big Ten titlist. Rogers' time was 2:11.

Charley Batterman of Columbia, a naval trainee from Ohio State, won the one meter diving title with 122.4 points.

Team standing: Yale, 24; Michigan, 20; Navy, 18; Ohio State, 14; Columbia, 12; William, Penn State, U. S. Military academy, and Cornell, 4 each, and Rochester, 3.

NORTH-LARRABEE BASKET MEET OPENS APRIL 5

The North Av.-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. will hold its 14th annual open basketball tournament April 5 to 15. The list of contestants will be limited to the first 24 teams to send in their entries. Edward J. Ryan, physical director of the host association, again will be in charge of the tournament.

Fritzie Zivic Defeats Teaney in 10 Round Bout

Milwaukee, Wis., March 24 (AP).—Fritzie Zivic of Pittburgh used ringmanship and an eight pound weight advantage tonight to gain a close 10 round decision from Harry Teaney, Cleveland. In the final round Zivic finished with a flourish, hitting Teaney from all ranges to win the popular decision.

WOOD, HINES TIE FOR GOLF LEAD IN DURHAM OPEN

Durham, S. C., March 24 (AP).—The veterans Craig Wood and Jimmy Hines shot four under par 67s over the short, muddy Hillandale golf course today to lead at the end of the first 18 hole round of the $5,000 Durham open tournament.

Wood, last winner of the National Open, put together nine hole scores of 32 and 35, and Hines went out in 35 and streaked home in 32.

The 3,212 yard par 37 first nine proved easy for the touring pros but the back nine, 13 yards longer, but with a par of only 34, stood up well except for the sparkling 32 by Hines.

Close behind the leaders was Byron Nelson, the pre-tournament favorite, with a 68 that included five birdies.

The leaders:

Jimmy Hines, Amsterdam, N. Y.	35	32	67
Craig Wood, Mamaroneck, N. Y.	32	36	67

Colleges Seek Larger Share of Basket Gate

New York, March 24 (AP).—The National Association of Basketball Coaches today suggested that the National Collegiate A. A. should give a larger share of the proceeds of the annual championship tournament to the colleges participating in it.

At the suggestion of Harold G. Olsen of Ohio State, chairman of the tournament committees of both the N. C. A. A. and the Coaches' association, some 50 college coaches in attendance voted to appoint a committee which will take up the subject with the N. C. A. A.

It was pointed out that the basketball tournaments had contributed largely to the N. C. A. A. funds and that many colleges preferred playing in the National Invitation tournament here, with the assurance of getting a sizable cut in the gate receipts, to playing in the N. C. A. A. tourney with less certain financial returns.

Another proposal was that the Coaches' association, which instigated the N. C. A. A. tourney, also should be granted a percentage of the receipts to finance its activities.

5 Supporting Fights Fill Stadium Card

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Supporting bouts were completed yesterday for a 10 round event between Jack La Motta, New York middleweight challenger, and Sgt. Lou Woods of Camp Grant in Chicago Stadium next Friday. Five matches will precede the main encounter, one each at eight, six, and four rounds, and two at five.

Johnny Ryan, Detroit welterweight, and Walter Thomas, Manhattan heavyweight, stablemates of La Motta, will appear in the five round contests. Ryan is paired with Al Jackson of Chicago, and Thomas with William [Pug] Wilson of Gary.

Gloves Graduates on Card.

Three Golden Gloves graduates also will appear. Hezzie Williams, 1941 Chicago intercity light heavyweight champion, is matched with Don Brouillard of Minneapolis in a four rounder, and Hunt, 1943 city Golden Gloves 147 pound winner, is matched with Terry Gibson of Los Angeles in a six round bout.

Nate Bolden, 1937 Chicago intercity 160 pound victor, will encounter Georgie Parks, Washington, D. C., heavyweight, in the eight rounder.

Williams, one of the most promising 175 pound prospects to be developed in Golden Gloves, will be making his first Chicago start in two years. In 1942 he scored five straight victories, his victims including Leroy Lawson, Detroit; Ira Hughes, Pittsburgh; Bob Garner, Louisville, and Herman Hayes and Jesse Jackson, Chicago.

Hunt Has Been Inactive.

Hunt also has been inactive in Chicago in recent months, but he is a competent opponent for Gibson, former native of this city, who made an auspicious debut on the north side last Monday. Terry, who has held Leo Rodak and Saverio Turiello to draw decisions, displayed considerable skill while holding Charley Parham, terrific hitting Milwaukeean, to an eight round deadlock in Marigold Gardens.

Preliminary contests also were arranged yesterday for a 10 round bout between Dan Merritt, member of the 1938 Chicago Intercity Golden Gloves team, and Johnny Vorco, Detroit heavyweight, in Marigold Gardens Monday. The supporting card follows:

Frankie Abrams, Detroit, vs. Isadore Miner [6], 147.

Dickie Miller, Peoria, vs. Red Duffy, Detroit [4], 130.

Pat Sheehy, Minenapolis, vs. Pat O'Brien [4], 130.

Mickey McKinsey, St. Charles, vs. Bishop Murphy [4], 165.

ANNUNCIATION, ST. GALL WIN IN JUNIOR MEET

St. Gall, Annunciation, Blessed Sacrament, and Our Lady of Sorrows schools won third round games in the grammar school tournament at St. Philip High school last night. Four more second round games will be played today. Scores:

St. Gall, 19; St. Thomas Aquinas, 16.
Annunciation, 18; St. Lucy, 11.
Blessed Sacrament, 42; St. Giles, 24.
Our Lady of Sorrows, 34; St. Helen, 21.

Pro Tourney

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
Semi-Finals.

Brooklyn Eagles, 63; Harlem Globe Trotters, 41.

Fort Wayne Zollners, 42; New York Rens, 38.

The Fort Wayne Zollners, champions of the National Professional Basketball league, and the Brooklyn Eagles will meet tonight in the Stadium at 9:15 for the championship of the sixth annual professional basketball tournament.

Fort Wayne defeated the New York Rens, Negro quintet, 42 to 38, and the Eagles beat the Harlem Globe Trotters, 63 to 41, before 10,428 fans in the Stadium last night.

Equals Tourney Record.

The Trotters, winners of 62 straight games at one time this season, will met the Rens in tonight's consolation contest at 8:15.

Bob Tough, former St. John's university star, equaled the former tournament record of 32 points, set by Sonny Boswell of the Globe Trotters in 1941, to lead the Eagles' all-soldier quintet to victory. Boswell was held to nine points last night as Babe Pressley took the Trotters' scoring honors with 12.

Commit 47 Fouls.

Tough made his 32d point just 15 seconds before the game ended on one of two free throws.

The second game was marked by a total of 47 fouls, 25 of them committed by Fort Wayne. The Rens, behind, 26 to 15, at the half came within two points of tying the score near the end of the game. Lineups:

JURY CONVICTS JOHN CRIMMINS IN AUTO DEATH

Detroit, Mich., March 24 (AP). — Johnny Crimmins, nationally known Detroit bowler, was convicted of negligent homicide by a jury in traffic court today in the death of a war plant worker last Dec. 19.

Facing a possible prison term of one to five years, Crimmins was directed by Judge George T. Murphy to appear for sentencing April 7. An all-woman jury returned the verdict after hearing testimony for three days.

Crimmins denied it was his car which struck and killed Vincent Ereaux, 26. Arresting officers said Crimmins had been drinking and that he had driven away from the scene.

LEE RUBBER AND TIRE.

Kindly review Lee Rubber and Tire corporation. O. M.

Answer: This is one of the more widely known among the smaller companies manufacturing rubber products. In peace time about two-thirds of the company's sales volume is in tires and tubes sold to dealers and to fleet operators as replacements. Miscellaneous rubber products such as belting, hose, packing, and moulded goods account for the balance of sales and a somewhat larger proportionate share of profits.

Lee Rubber owns a 35 per cent interest in a company organized to operate a government owned synthetic rubber plant.

Lee Rubber's earnings reached a pre-war peak of $1,464,166 in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1939. For the 1943 fiscal year net income, subject to renegotiation, was $1,491,934, or $6.18 a share. This was computed before deducting a $250,000 reserve for contingencies.

Capitalization consists solely of 241,509 shares of $5 par value common stock, excluding 58,491 shares held in the treasury. After a 10 year lapse, dividends were resumed in 1934 and payments have been made in each subsequent year. The annual rate for the calendar years 1940 to 1943, inclusive, was $2.25 a share.

MURRAY FIRES FIRST SALVO AT WAGE CEILINGS

Demands Post-War Pay Guarantee.

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—The CIO United Steel Workers today set out to blaze a new trail in labor economics with demands for a 17 cent hourly wage increase regardless of wage ceilings, a guaranteed post-war 40 hour week or annual wage, a joint fund for steel workers returning from the army and navy, and nearly a dozen other concessions.

Philip Murray.

Philip Murray, president of the steel workers, spearheaded his union's case before a war labor board panel. He denounced the Little Steel wage formula for what he termed "obvious, practical unworkability," contended corporations and the farmers have been guaranteed minimum incomes, and shot barbs at "the fat boys" of the steel industry for their "audacity" in trying to keep the steel workers' wage case from the war labor board.

94 Companies Represented.

Murray spoke for two hours and 10 minutes to the six man panel, lawyers for 94 steel companies, and his union policy committee of nearly 100. The companies will begin their presentation April 11.

"You," said the union chief, turning to the industry spokesmen, "have got to do a little more constructive thinking about giving people in the United States of America jobs after this war is over than you have ever done in all your lives. The present situation and the situation which may develop after the war create conditions that challenge your ingenuity.

"It is your responsibility. And you cannot laugh at a worker's demands that you give him a guaranteed income in order that he may live and may have sustenance for both his wife and his family.

"Interest Lies in Employes."

"You are no longer little corporations whose interests are centered in the payment of dividends to stockholders. You have a greater public interest, and that is the interest that runs directly to all of the people employed by you, to provide full employment for them."

Murray said there is "no single thing that can contribute more to the national well being, and that will do more to stimulate productivity and guarantee employment" than a guaranteed weekly wage or annual income for the steel workers.

"The farmers have been guaranteed it," he argued. "Who else in the United States has the guarantee of an annual income? Why, all of those gentlemen over there," indicating the industry representatives.

Declares Income Guaranteed.

"The interests that they represent have a definitely guaranteed income for any two year period that they may desire to select, whether their industry goes down either to the break-even point or below the break-even point."

Discussing wage ceilings, Murray said "I contend it was never the intent of congress to freeze wages. I have found nothing in the stabilization law of Oct. 2, 1942, that denies the American workers the right to redress for any wrongs that might be perpetrated against them."

He said the Oct. 2 law required maintenance of the relationship existing between prices and wages as of Sept. 15. "That," added Murray, "has been ignored." He argued that altho the Little Steel wage formula allows only a 15 per cent wage increase to compensate for higher living costs, such costs have risen 43.5 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941.

Cut Man Hour Loss, Chicago Plants Warned

The war man power commission, aroused over the "appallingly high" absenteeism and job turnover totals in Chicago war plants, yesterday said it would deny the benefits of labor priorities and additional workers to plants which fail to reduce rates of absence and job quitting which WMC considers too high.

Lester Brown, area WMC director, said he would "refuse to pour workers into a bottomless man power barrel," and demanded that employers make a greater effort to keep their workers.

His ultimatum followed disclosure of figures compiled by his office that absenteeism cost Chicago's war plants 16½ million man hours in February, and job turnover accounted for the waste of an additional 6 million worker hours.

Not a Thing of Pride.

"This was largely, altho not entirely by any means, the fault of hundreds of employers who have done little or nothing to study and remedy the causes of absenteeism and turnover," Brown charged. "It would have built, in terms of effort, an army unit of 1,000 heavy four engine bombers, 500 two motor bombers, and 500 of the fastest pursuit planes. It is not something that the city can point to with pride."

Brown estimated that one-half or less of all absences are "legitimate," but declared that "if we could cut Chicago's absenteeism and turnover by only one-quarter we would have added the equivalent of 30,000 workers to our labor force—almost the exact number we must add, exclusive of draft withdrawals, in the next six months.

"When we recall that it was on the basis of a shortage of about 30,000 workers that the city was declared a No. 1 critical labor shortage area March 1, the folly of letting this condition continue becomes more apparent," he said.

Community Also Blamed.

"Employers, perhaps more than workers, are responsible for cutting these two sources of loss as low as possible. In addition, the community itself is in part responsible for correcting conditions that cause them—inadequate shopping, banking and rationing arrangements, poor transportation and lack of child care for working mothers.

"Other sources, perhaps more important, are poor placement of workers in plants, inadequate training, bad working conditions, poor work supervision, home responsibilities, and the attitude of workers toward their jobs. Employers must determine whether these conditions exist in their plants, and take action to correct them.

S. C. Bloom, newly appointed man power utilization chief, said the current average rate of absenteeism in Chicago plants is 7 per cent, with a 5 per cent turnover rate among the 1,200,000 workers in war and essential activities. He said 80,000 essential workers are absent from their jobs each day, for a loss of 640,000 man hours, and that the 60,000 who switch jobs every month lose two weeks changing over.

SUPPLY OF HOGS DWINDLES AND PRICES ADVANCE

A drastic cut in shipments of hogs to market brought buyers to the stock yards yesterday with urgent orders. Prices advanced 15 to 25 cents in one of the liveliest sessions in many months and were 25 to 30 cents above the midweek level when some of the heaviest "lard hogs" threatened to decline to the $13.75 floor price.

Reports from the country indicated that farmers were answering the recent pressure on prices with small supplies the last two days. Yesterday's arrivals were 10,000, including directs, against 20,979 a week ago, and 11,237 a year ago. Buyers gave a $14.25 top for several loads of choice 210 to 260 pound butchers, 15 cents more than on Thursday.

Few changes occurred in the markets for other meat animals.

October Eggs Decline to Low Since Late 1942

October refrigerator egg futures prices slumped 0.25 cent yesterday to a new low price since late 1942 in the most active trading of the year on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Closing prices were 37.25 cents a dozen.

RETAIN CURBS IN PEACE TIME, NELSON URGES

Eccles Backs Plan for Stabilization.

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Two of the administration's top men—War Production Director Nelson and Federal Reserve Chairman Eccles—urged congress today to keep the country under stabilization controls for a period after the war.

Nelson said, however, that the need had passed for a national service act, recommended by President Roosevelt to authorize the drafting of civilian labor for essential industries. He did say a limited service law would help the man power situation.

Says Controls Needed.

Eccles told the senate banking committee congress should keep the stabilization program alive two years after the end of the war "to maintain the public faith and the value of the dollar." The committee is considering legislation to extend the price control act a year beyond June 30.

A sudden release of pentup spending as soon as hostilities end "might well be fatal" to the nation's economy, he said.

"The inflationary pressure will continue until a balanced budget is in prospect," he asserted.

Tells of Increased Pressure.

"Without stabilization controls business will be reluctant to undertake long term post-war projects," Eccles said. He estimated "inflationary pressure" on June 30—expiration date of the price control act—would reach 194 billion dollars, compared with 79 billions three years earlier.

Nelson told the committee that extended stabilization controls are essential and added:

"We are just approaching the peak demand for war production."

COLT'S DIVIDEND OMITTED FIRST TIME SINCE 1917

Hartford, Conn., March 24 (AP).—Directors of Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company today omitted dividend action on the capital stock for the first time since 1917.

The company said operations in the final six months of 1943 were at a loss, altho improvement had occurred in the first two months of 1944.

No specific details concerning the reverses encountered were given, but the nature of the company's business, an outstanding producer of automatic firearms, including machine guns and cannon, suggested a drastic cancellation of government orders lay behind the dividend action.

Dividends on the capital stock have ranged from $1 to $9 a share regularly, with substantial extras in recent years. Last year a total of $3.50 was disbursed.

54 MEN STRIKE AND 38 STEEL FURNACES IDLE

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 23 (AP).—A strike of 54 stockhouse department employes today closed 38 furnaces, six blast and 32 open hearth, at the Duquesne works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation. The strike was the second at the plant in a week. A one day walkout of two stripper cranemen a week ago shut down the entire mill. A company spokesman said the strike followed suspension of three employes who yesterday refused to help on an emergency furnace repair job. The striking workers are members of the CIO-United Steel Workers union.

16,000 Laundry Workers Granted Wage Increase

A 5 cent an hour wage increase retroactive to last Feb. 8 has been granted to more than 16,000 Chicago laundry workers, Chairman Edgar L. Warren of the regional war labor board announced yesterday. The WLB also granted wage increases of 3 to 8 cents an hour to 730 workers of Pixley and Ehlers restaurants.

War Camera Charts Battle Action

Actual experience of war has fully established the critical importance of aerial photography, Eastman Kodak company said yesterday in a report to stockholders supplementing its recent financial statement for 1943.

"Reconnaissance photography, proving so valuable as to justify the use of the fastest American planes and the most versatile pilots, is supplying the source of material of military intelligence, leading to attack on the ground, by sea, and in the air," the report asserted. "Aerial photographs of a 4,500 square mile area were made in a single morning of flying before the final attack on Bizerte and Tunis. From the interpretations of this photographic survey, the allied artillery was able to destroy enemy gun positions in this area and to crush enemy resistance.

Kula Gulf Charted.

"On the day of the naval battle of Kula gulf, in the Solomon Islands, 1,500 aerial photographs were made and converted into a mosaic chart of the gulf and its dangerous reefs. During the victorious battle that night, no American ship ran aground.

"The recent successful attack on Truk followed a spectacular reconnaissance mission by two American planes. Aerial photographs made during the raid recorded the results of the bombardment."

Since Pearl Harbor, the company disclosed, army air forces have been mapping photographs of areas totaling nearly three times the size of continental United States; and finished charts have been prepared and printed from more than half of these photographs.

Post-War Value Told.

"This project will have an influence on post-war commerce, because the maps cover, in addition to war zones, large areas of Alaska, Mexico, South America, and Africa, and of Asia and the Pacific, for the benefit of the air transport services," the statement continued. "Much of the inaccessible and remote territory thus charted appeared on previous maps only as blank spaces."

Gun cameras, standard equipment on fighter planes, it said, operate when guns fire, and substantiate claims of enemy aircraft shot down.

V-mail, a system devised by Eastman, the report said, "has grown to monumental proportions."

Under the impetus of war demands, the output of each of the company's major divisions during 1943 was larger than in any previous year.

Dodge Speeds Super-Bomber Engine Output

Production of 2,200 horse power Wright air-cooled engines at the Chrysler corporation's Dodge Chicago plant is in substantial volume and the number being shipped each month is increasing, K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler, told company directors at a meeting in the plant yesterday. The engines will be used to power the nation's superbombers.

Keller said employment at the plant, said to be the country's largest war unit, is approximately 60 per cent of the goal set.

Need of Materials Rises.

He told of increasing amounts of raw materials, fuel and power that are being fed into the great southwest side plant as it moves toward full production. Each month operations consume 27 tank cars of fuel oil; 67 million cubic feet of gas; 15 million kilowatts of electricity; 15,000 tons of coal, and 117 million gallons of water.

Approximately 125,000 pounds of aluminum and 50,000 pounds of magnesium are melted daily in the plant's two foundries. More than 125,000 castings have been produced since the plant started operating.

"When we are running at full capacity, we will require about 4,800 carloads of sand every year in the foundries," Keller said. "But instead of having to buy that amount, we will be able to use the sand over and over because of a method of cleaning it, so we will have to buy only 100 carloads of new sand each year.

"During January we completed in the forge shops 225,000 forgings made of some 2,700,000 pounds of steel. Forgings delivered since the plant started operations total more than 1 million."

Workers Need Fuel, Too.

Appetites of plant workers are on the same grand scale as the demands of the machines for steel and other raw materials, Keller said. During January workers eating in plant restaurants consumed 24,000 pounds of beef, 16,000 pounds of pork, 12,000 pounds of sausage, 5,000 pounds of lamb, 1,500 pounds of chicken, 2,500 pounds of fish, 500,000 eggs, 15,000 pounds of sugar, 52,000 pounds of potatoes, 92,000 doughnuts, 96,000 servings of ice cream, and 196,000 pieces of pie. They drank 200,000 quarts of milk, 89,000 bottles of soft drinks, and 474,000 cups of coffee.

EARLY EASTER HELPS TO BOOST RETAIL SALES

New York, March 24 (AP).—An early Easter and good consumer response to limited sales promotion efforts have lifted retail sales above last year's volume, Dun & Bradstreet said today in its weekly business review. In the midwest sales gained 6 to 10 per cent. "Inventories remain reasonably adequate to meet current demands," the review said. "Retailers of women's ready-to-wear comment the demand for coats and suits has been fairly brisk but that dresses, shoes, and millinery have not gained to a desirable season level because of inclement weather."

Coast Guard Ship Ordered to Break Ice in Straits

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—The coast guard has assigned the cutter St. Marie operating out of St. Ignace, Mich., to begin ice breaking operations in the straits of Mackinac preparatory to the opening of Great Lakes navigation, the office of defense transportation said today. Ice conditions on the Great Lakes are better than average and the shipping season should start between April 1 and 10, the ODT said.

Movement of Petroleum to East Coast Sets Record

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Crude oil and petroleum products moved to the east coast last week totaled 1,790,960 barrels a day, a new record for the war, Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, announced today.

People and Events

Alfred MacArthur, president of the Central Life Insurance Company of Illinois, yesterday was named for a place on the directors' slate to be presented to stockholders of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad at the annual meeting on May 12. He was named to fill the place held by Bryan S. Reid of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company, who has resigned. All other directors were renamed.

William D. Horne Jr. of Fulton, Horne, Morrissey company, advertising agency, has become associated with Needham, Louis and Brorby, Inc., as vice president. On leave of absence for two years, Horne was engaged in public relations work for the treasury department in Washington, D. C.

George L. De Beer, advertising director of the Bauer and Black division of the Kendall company, has been appointed head of the division's foot products department. George Percy succeeds him as advertising director.

The Western Association of Railway Executives has established a department of public relations with headquarters in Chicago. Harold M. Sims of St. Paul, Minn., executive assistant of the Great Northern railway, will be in charge.

Rails, Liquors Lead Prices of Stocks Higher

New York, March 24 (AP).—Led by rails, liquors, and specialties, the stock market turned higher today altho volume dropped below the million-share mark the first time since early in the month.

Investors turned to the buying side on the belief yesterday's reaction had provided a much needed correction for the lengthy upswing. Earnings again stimulated individual issues. The slowdown was attributed partly to week-end influences and to the wish of customers to keep relatively liquid pending international developmenas. Prime Minister Churchill's intimations the invasion may come soon tended to restrain purchasers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 0.1 at 52.6. Transfers of 841,670 shares compared with 1,173,510 yesterday and were the smallest for a full session since March 3.

BOND MARKET MIXED.

New York, March 24 (AP).—Rail issues were higher today in an otherwise mixed bond market. Utilities closed slightly lower and industrial liens were steady. A few South American bonds were traded in fair volume at about steady prices. United States government issues were steady. Transactions totaled $9,851,300 against $10,858,300 yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS DIP.

Losses outnumbered gains in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange, altho the volume leaders, Chicago corporation and Utah Radio Products, made fractional advances. Central Illinois Securities preferred also was active and rose ½. Illinois Brick and Butler Brothers were slightly lower.

R. K. O. Subsidiary's Sale of Serial Notes Arranged

New York, March 24 [Special].—The Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation has arranged the sale of 9½ million dollars of 12½ year 3¼ per cent serial notes of the B. F. Keith corporation, a subsidiary, to the First National bank of Boston, Mass. Proceeds will be used to refund $8,310,000 of outstanding 4¼ per cent notes and bank loans. Arrangements have been made to call the $1,300,000 of outstanding Keith-Albee-Orpheum corporation preferred stock.

New Municipal Financing Will Decrease Next Week

New York, March 24 (AP).—New state and municipal financing next week will total $5,412,500 compared with $9,513,000 in the current week, the Daily Bond Buyer reported today.

OIL PRICE WAR TACTICS FADE, SAYS SEUBERT

Standard's Profits Top 50 Millions.

Price cutting on petroleum products, formerly prevalent in the trade and at times taking on the character of "price wars" in some localities, has nearly disappeared, Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard Oil company [Indiana], said yesterday in releasing a preliminary report of the company's 1943 operations in 43 states.

Edward G. Seubert.

Last year's profit rose to $50,591,371, equal to $3.31 a share, from $44,183,893, or $2.89 a share, in 1942. Besides the "near absence of price cutting tactics," Seubert said other principal reasons for the increase, in the face of gasoline rationing and high taxes, were larger volume of production and sales, handled in economical ways.

Gross Income Climbs.

Gross income in 1943 totaled $506,173,225, against $458,167,052 in the preceding year.

Production schedules of White Motor company are planned for a lower volume this year than during 1943 as a result of cancellation of certain government contracts, Robert F. Black, president, disclosed in his annual report to stockholders. He said, however, the company has on hand large uncompleted government contracts for heavy duty prime mover trucks and quantities of service parts for military vehicles.

He expressed the hope that the company may be permitted to increase its production of commercial trucks and buses this year.

Sales Set New Record.

White Motor's sales of $156,440,142 in 1943 compared with $132,152,251 the preceding year, and set a new record high for the third consecutive year. The company delivered 22,973 military vehicles against 18,994 in 1942.

Profit, after allowance for $2,010,000 estimated renegotiation refund requirements, and a contingency reserve of $500,000, amounted to $3,090,110, equal to $4.94 a share. This compared with $3,189,119, after reserving 2.5 million dollars for contingencies, a year earlier.

W. W. Holloway and A. J. McFarland, chairman and president of Wheeling Steel corporation, respectively, said in their annual report that the company's production should continue at capacity this year, but with mounting demands for increased wages and no compensating advance in selling prices "it is obvious that profit possibilities are rapidly disappearing." They said one electro-tinning unit was completed last year, but a project to build a second unit was abandoned.

Sales Show Increase.

Wheeling's sales last year increased to $121,359,532 from $118,988,790 in 1942. Profit was $4,339,246, against $4,441,964. Federal tax provision decreased to $3,459,000, after credits, from $6,650,000.

Industrial Rayon corporation in January negotiated a bank loan for 10 million dollars at 3 per cent to carry out expansion plans, Hiram S. Rivitz, president, said in the company's annual report. Altho volume of business in 1943 was approximately the same as in 1942, increased costs, together with frozen prices, resulted in a decline in profit to $1,642,083, from $2,006,363, Rivitz said.

Mississippi Senator Asks Cotton Exchange Inquiry

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—An investigation of the New York Cotton exchange was asked today by Sen. Eastland [D., Miss.]. He introduced a resolution which would authorize the senate agriculture committee to determine whether the exchange's rules "permit speculative activities or other abuses which would tend to hamper trade or depress the price of cotton."

Army to Turn Nine Big Planes Back to Air Lines

Washington, D. C., March 24 (AP).—Nine 21 passenger airplanes will be turned back to the air lines by the war department soon, bringing to 34 the number of ships returned, it was learned today. The planes will be allocated among the air lines by the civil aeronautics board.

Grains Touch Price Ceilings; Buying Active

Demand for grain futures increased on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday and pushed May wheat, oats, and barley to ceiling prices when the war food administration order allocating to essential industries 35 per cent of corn held in country elevators or purchased by them in the future made scarcity of feed grains the major market influence.

In selling at the ceiling price of $1.73¾ a bushel May wheat equaled the highest price in 18 years. When May oats touched the 82 cents ceiling it was the highest price since 1922. At the ceiling price of $1.28 May barley sold temporarily at the highest price in nine years.

Prices Close Near Top.

Closing prices were near the top. Wheat gained ¾ to ⅞ cent. Oats closed ⅛ to 1⅛ cents higher. Rye was unchanged to ¾ cent higher. Barley gained ⅛ to 1 cent. December oats sold at 76⅞ cents, an advance of 1¼ cents, and December rye at $1.30⅝, a gain of ⅝ cent.

Industries will not receive a great deal more grain despite the WFA order, warehouse men and commission houses believe. Typical of the comments was that at Thomson & McKinnon where it was said:

"We believe the move will serve only to aggravate further the position of industrial plants, altho for a short time it may bring increased supplies. Another move will probably have to be made to right the situation and chances are it will be in the way of promises, or some sort of bonus to the farmer to get him to sell his grain."

Terminal Stocks Not Affected.

Stocks of corn held at terminal markets such as Chicago and Minneapolis are not affected by the regulations. A survey a week ago disclosed less than 100,000 bushels of cash corn in Chicago elevators was unsold.

Canada increased the export tax on oats 1 cent a bushel, a total increase of 9 cents in 90 days. This offset suspension of the United States import duty of 8 cents.

The Board of Trade announced today that members will be asked to vote April 18 on a proposal to permit the tender of warehouse receipts for grain stored in approved warehouses outside Chicago in settlement of open futures contracts on the Chicago market.

IMPROVED TYPE OF RUBBER MADE BY B.F. GOODRICH

Akron, O., March 24 [Special].—An improved general purpose synthetic rubber of the butadiene type has been developed by the B. F. Goodrich company, John L. Collyer, president, announced today. He said details of the process have been explained to Rubber Director Dewey and to other companies engaged in synthetic rubber manufacture.

Collyer said the improved product is the result of the introduction of a certain abundant material into the rubber making processes.

Tires of this rubber show reduction in tread cracking and increased resistance to road wear, he said. However, it will be several months before the availability of the new material will help to ease the problems involved in making heavy duty synthetic tires, he warned.

MILLION MILES A MONTH.

With the regularity of home schedules, Transcontinental and Western Air crossed the ocean 3,159 times in two years of contract operations for the air transport command, Jack Frye, T. W. A. president, announced. He said the company's four-engine planes are operating more than 1 million miles a month.

CHARGES GRAIN WASTED THRU INEPT POLICIES

O'Brien Asks Corn Ceiling Hike.

Unwise government policies have "squandered our grain reserves," Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said yesterday in a speech before the agricultural council of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the La Salle hotel.

Philip R. O'Brien.

He said the most practical solution to the maladjustment of live stock and feed supplies would be to raise the ceiling on corn to a price "which will make it equally profitable for farmers to sell corn thru commercial channels, or to feed it to his animals."

"This, I believe, is the proper, courageous, statesmanlike remedy, and the one which I advocate," said O'Brien. "The ceiling price I suggest is $1.45 a bushel, Chicago basis.

Warns of Effect on Food.

"This can be done without increasing the cost of living, or in any way upsetting the stabilization program. Failure to do so would result eventually in costly readjustments, too late to prevent serious effects on our whole food economy.

"A little less than two years ago the country had a large grain surplus. Now the situation is radically different. I insist that unwise government policies—policies still being pursued, have squandered our grain reserves. Only two years of phenomenal production have prevented our facing an acute shortage before now."

Wheat reserves are being drained at an "alarming rate" and "we cannot continue that rate without facing the necessity of bread rationing," he said. No small group can perfectly fix prices and the mistakes will be magnified when reflecting on the nation's economy, he asserted.

Fair Price Thru Competition.

"But when prices are determined by buyers and sellers—composed of farmers, processors, millers, warehouseman, bankers, and all elements of our established economy—the mistake of any one of them is balanced by the good judgment of others," he said. "A fair market price is determined in a free and open market by all of these streams of opinion, and by continuous aggressive competition.

"I do not believe the people of our country realize what a grant of power these different agencies and bureaus in Washington have taken unto themselves in the last few years. I doubt that our people would be willing to grant such power to them."

Present feed policies will cause depletion of feed supplies, followed by "catastrophic liquidation of our live stock, dangerous depletion of wheat for bread, and a sudden drop in milk and egg production," he warned.

Cold Weather Damages Ozarks Area Fruit Crop

Springfield, Mo., March 24 [Special].—The 12 million dollar fruit crop in the Ozarks region was severely damaged by the return of winter weather early this week, orchardists reported today. In the Monett area most of the early peaches were killed, as well as the pears and plums across the state line at Rogers, Ark. Apples and grapes were undamaged.

Joan Berry's Letters to Chaplin Bared—Churchill Inspects All-American Unit in England

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Her face contorted by emotion, Joan Berry weeps in a corridor after leaving Los Angeles witness stand in tears during Charles Chaplin trial.

[Acme Telephoto.]

One of the many expressions that played across Miss Berry's face as she testified in Chaplin's trial on Mann act charges.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Atty. Jerry Giesler listens attentively to his client, Chaplin, as they discuss a court ruling concerning Miss Berry's testimony yesterday in the ex-comedian's trial.

(Story on page 1.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto: via OWI radio yesterday.]

Italians drag their possessions away in carts as streams of lava pour from erupting Mt. Vesuvius.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Madeleine Weber holding coconut which figures in her suit against Frank H. Weber for separate maintenance. It bears a message of love—in French.

(Story on page 8.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto: Sent yesterday by radio from London.]

Prime Minister Churchill (center), accompanied by Gen. Eisenhower (left), visiting U. S. airborne troops in England yesterday. It was his first visit to an all-American unit.

Mary Ann Darabaris, 5, held by her mother, Anna, points to Charles Lapa (held by two policemen), identifying him as the man who kidnaped and attacked her. Lapa hides his face. Seated is Sam Papanek, assistant state's attorney.
